dedication

Dean Hahn, a loyal rooter and familiar figure at student functions, takes time out to look over football prospects with Director of Athletics, Wilbur Johns.

On hand to offer advice and assistance whenever Bruins come in with problems, the dean has become a popular figure in the Administration Building.

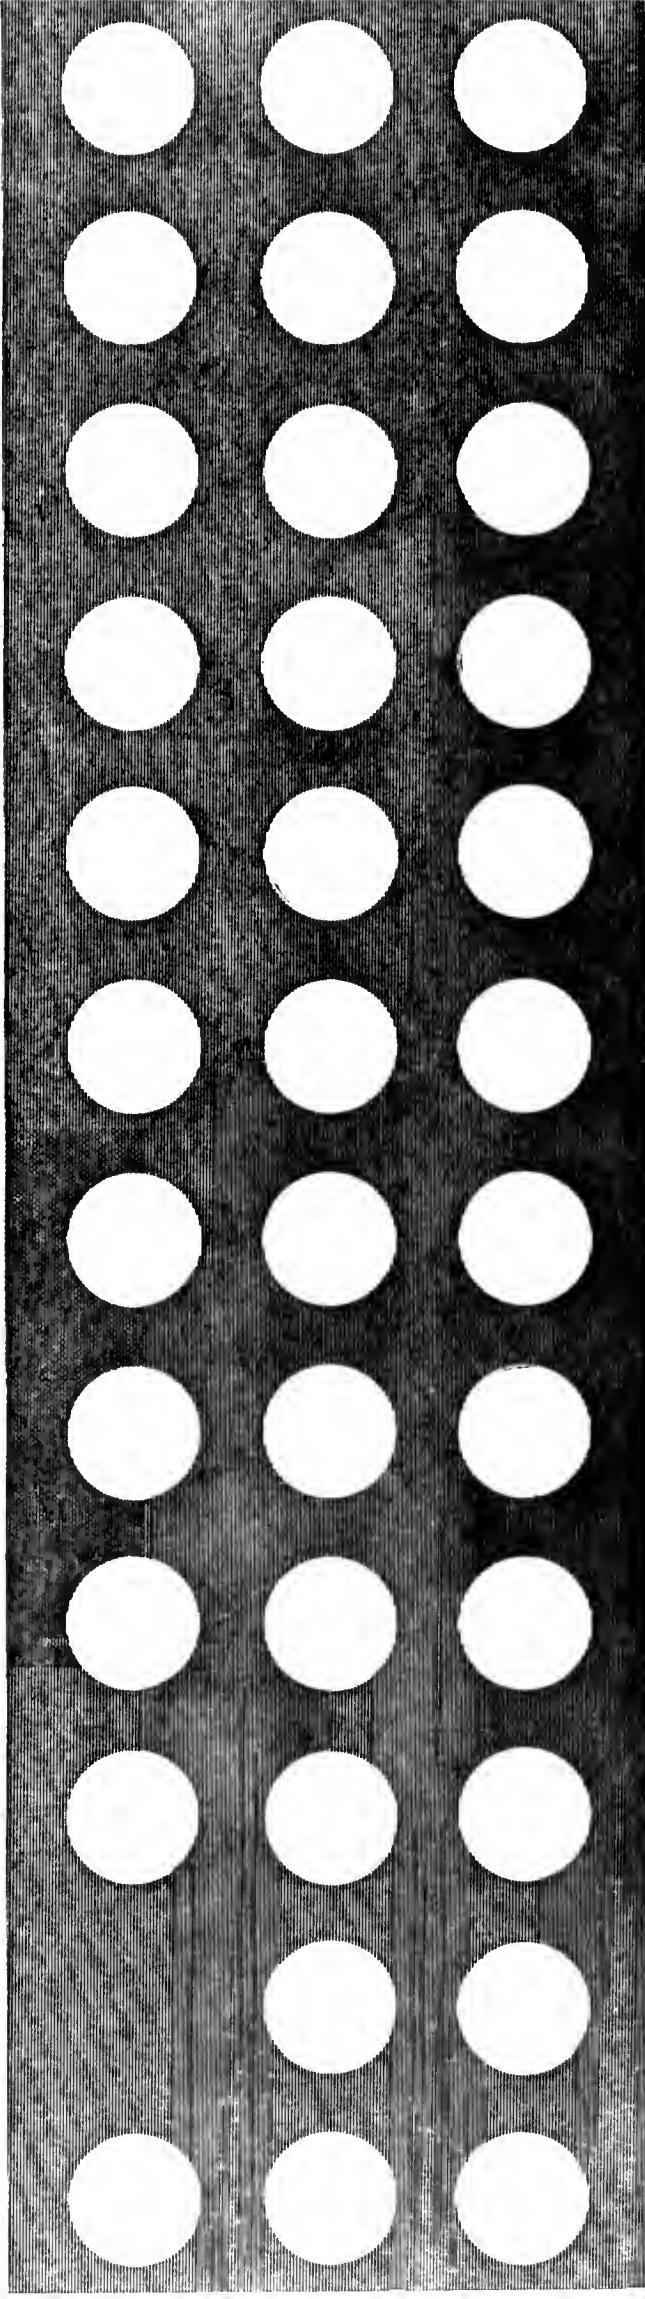

A University is of value only to the degree that the individual student becomes a part of it—that he is happy and that he feels he is contributing as well as gaining something. Because we believe in the importance of the student as an individual in the University we have chosen him as our theme, and because we recognize the contribution of one particular man to the welfare and happiness of students on this campus we take pride in honoring him. A graduate of Hamline University and the University of Minnesota, he was responsible for the organization of the Psychological Service Center at Syracuse University. Already recognized as an authority in the field of educational psychology and counselling, he came to this campus in 1948 to become Dean of Students. For his friendliness and unfailing interest in the student we take great pride in dedicating the 1951 edition of the Southern Campus to DR. MILTON E. HAHN.

ROBERT GORDON SPROUL celebrated his twentieth year as president of his alma mater at the All-U week end in Berkeley last November. He received his B.S. degree from the college of engineering on the Berkeley campus. Before becoming the head of the University of California, Dr. Sproul served as its cashier, assistant comptroller, comptroller, secretary of the Regents, and vice-president. His duties as president of the largest university in the world entailed administrative management of its eight campuses and 43,000 students. Five campuses were southern California branches . . . Los Angeles, La Jolla, Mount Hamilton, Riverside, and Santa Barbara. Three campuses were in northern California . . . Berkeley, San Francisco, and Davis. Planning budgets, maintaining the university's world-wide reputation in academic and scientific circles, and participating in state, national, and international affairs permitted little time for relaxation. What free time he had Dr. Sproul spent in fishing and reading books on history and biography.

of California . . .

As president of the Board of Regents, Governor EARL WARREN took part in the decision made by that body which recently gave UCLA autonomy. A Cal man at heart, he found Los Angeles ideal for vacations and grunion hunting. What the governor has said of the state of California may be aptly applied to its university. "California will continue to grow. Nothing can stop it. Our great concern must be with how it grows."

University officials who served on the Board of Regents were, left to right: Regent BRODIE AHLPORT, Regent JESSE H. STEINHART, Regent VICTOR R. HANSEN, Attorney for the Board of Regents JOHN U. CALKINS, Regent EDWIN W. PAULEY, Assistant Secretary of the Board MARJORIE WOOLMAN, Secretary and Treasurer of the Board ROBERT M. UNDERHILL, Regent EARL J. FENSTON, Chairman of the Board EDWARD A. DICKSON, Regent JOHN FRANCIS NEYLAN, Regent ROBERT GORDON SPROUL, Berkeley Alumni President MAYNARD TOLL, Regent WILLIAM G. MERCHANT, Regent CORNELIUS J. HAGGERTY, Regent JOHN CANADAY, Regent SIDNEY M. EHRMAN, and Regent FARNHAM P. GRIFFITHS.

A background in educational psychology and counseling ably prepared MILTON E. HAHN, dean of students, for his position as chief adviser to UCLA's fourteen thousand enrollees. The author of many books and articles in the counseling field, Dr. Hahn had one of his books used as a text for a course given in the education department. All student activities other than formal instruction come under his authority.

For her friendliness and fun-loving spirit, JESSIE RHULMAN, associate dean of students, was honored by being "trapped" for Trolls. Reading and life in the great outdoors attracted Dean Rhulman when she was not swamped with work from the many councils on which she served. Besides sharing the responsibilities for policy in the student program with Dean Hahn, she supervised the student organization workshop, housing, and health service.

Pending the appointment by the Board of Regents of a successor to the late Clarence A. Dykstra, a three-man committee fulfilled the functions of the provost since May of 1950. The committee was composed of VERN O. KNUDSEN, dean of the graduate school and chairman of the committee; PAUL A. DODD, dean of the college of letters and science; and STAFFORD L. WARREN, dean of the school of medicine. This committee met twice a week to discuss the administration of UCLA campus according to the policies and budget established by the university president and the Board of Regents. In agreement with the recent decision that granted autonomy to UCLA, these duties were to be taken over by the office of the chancellor.

Claiming the only way to study nature was in its natural environment, agricultural students made many field trips to neighboring orchards and farms. Whether majoring in botany or a specialized area of horticulture, they found these excursions valuable in supplementing their classroom work.

Before World War II ROBERT WILLARD HODGSON, assistant dean of the college of agriculture, was the only American to be decorated both by the Bey of Tunisia and the Sultan of Morocco. Dr. Hodgson's interest in subtropical horticulture took him to lands around the world; one visit long to be remembered was his stay at a maharajah's palace in India. The college of agriculture was a statewide college which had its dean at Berkeley. Assistant Dean Hodgson was stationed at UCLA and also took on extra duties as vice-chairman of the state department of agriculture.

FREDERICK F. HALMA, professor of subtropical horticulture, devoted most of his time to experimenting with avocados. Dr. Holmo enjoyed working with plants because no politics were involved and few plants had subversive tendencies.

For his work in the field of floral culture VERNON T. STOUTMEYER, chairman of the division of horticulture, received the coveted Vaughan award. His time outside class was devoted to the study of the gladiolo rest period.

As a subtropical horticulturist ARTHUR WALLACE spent much of his time in studying the nutrition of orange and lemon trees. Mr. Wallace found diversion in photography and gardening which he enjoyed in rare free moments.

Taking care of his plants kept KARL C. HAMNER, professor of botany, very busy. He has been searching for the missing hormonion, with which he might spray his plants and force them to bloom prematurely.

"Almost a Californian" was the phrase Pomona-born DUANE O. CRUMMETT used to describe himself. He enjoyed the distinction of being a lecturer in floriculture in the only California school that offered degrees in that field.

While the study of tree and plant diseases was the immediate interest of PIERRE ALPHONSE MILLER, professor of plant pathology, he looked forward to the day when he could retire to a ranch in Jack London's Valley of the Moon.

AGRICULTURE

Learning by doing appropriately characterized the activity found in weaving classes where students made their own cloth on wooden hand-looms and then fashioned wearing apparel from it. Warp, warp, weft, filling, reed, and shuttle became common language to majors in home economics who worked so closely with the loom. Art, business education, music, nursing, physical education, and theater arts were other specialized fields of professional training offered in the college of applied arts.

Photography was an avocation as well as a vocation with MARC SNEGOFF, associate professor in theater arts. His interests also lay along the lines of directing, acting, and make-up, with a background of much practical experience.

DAVID F. JACKY, dean of the college of applied arts, confessed that he too liked finals to be over for then he could take up his favorite hobby, fishing at June Lake. Dr. Jacky headed a school devoted to providing a liberal education combined with specialized training. In the development of this type of college UCLA led the nation. Its departments included art, music, theater arts, business education, home economics, nursing, and physical education. Each division was run independently by chairmen who were appointed by Dr. Jacky.

college of applied arts

LAURA F. ANDERSON, associate professor of art, had many of her pottery creations placed in exhibits throughout Europe and America. She was interested in developing a ceramic tea pot whose form was determined by its function.

As associate supervisor of physical education in charge of aquatics, DONALD K. PARK had little time for his hobby of growing dahlias and gladioli. An interest in swimming led him to compare freshman water ability of 1950 and 1940.

Coming to UCLA from Florida, FRANCES TACIONIS, lecturer in home economics, admitted that she preferred California's climate. She claimed traveling and sewing to be her favorite pastimes and found time to enjoy them extensively.

Teaching WPE dance classes inaugurated DEB-ORAH CHOATE into the teaching profession when she took over her first job as an instructor last September. She was also sponsor of UCLA's dance wing, a group of terpsichorean enthusiasts.

Originator of the college Symphony Forum, LAURENCE A. PETRAN, professor of music and university organist, channeled his interests in music, mathematics, physics, and psychology. He also collected unusual native instruments.

Preparing for positions in business or the management and administrative levels meant to students in the college of business administration drawing plans for industrial plants. This was only one phase of their training for work in the professional world.

SAMUEL J. WANOUS, chairman of business education, contributed much to the scientific study of statistical typing and the technique of typing. He made many friends among his students during his nine years at UCLA.

Fairly new to UCLA was PHILIP NEFF, associate professor of business economics. He was the co-author of two books and was one of the busiest men on campus. He recently made a study of several phases of industry for the air force.

Gardening and reading filled the spare hours of NEIL H. JACOBY, dean of the school of business administration. A graduate of the universities of Saskatchewan and Chicago, Dr. Jacoby headed a college which was outstanding for its production and personnel management fields as well as ten other fields of study. In its new building completed in February of 1949, the college instituted many plans to facilitate student learning and faculty comfort. Future plans included a new field of concentration in real estate and land economics.

A fabulous reputation for hard exams characterized SEYMOUR S. PUDDING, lecturer in business statistics. In addition to consulting work for local firms, this bachelor found time to relax with a good mystery book.

Teaching marketing, counseling students, and helping to revise his department were some of the time-consuming jobs of G. W. ROBBINS, associate dean of student affairs, who confessed that he loved every minute of it.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

S-Y

With a variety of mammoth machines at their disposal housed within the depths of the engineering building, students in the college of engineering acquired a better understanding of the materials with which they would work later in their business. Much practical knowledge was gained from experimenting with casting, cutting, plastic working, fastening, and gauging processes and determining the properties of materials in relation to the desired finished product.

One of the pioneers in UCLA's engineering department was C. M. DUKE, who hails from Cal. An authority in the field, Dr. Duke published his research papers on performance, foundations, and structures in the last year.

HARRY W. CASE, associate professor of engineering mechanics and physiology, was risking to get the support exercise he always endeavored to a teacher. UCA's first course in sales engineering will develop men.

L. A. EIS-BERGEN, professor of engineering, leaned to swimming and polo. He also liked canoeing and golf. His studies in the fields of electronics and radar. The atomic clock was one possible of his discoveries in his field.

ENGINEERING

Completing his twentieth year on campus, WILLIAM YOUNG, dean of physical science and professor of chemistry, worked on the arrangement of molecules. He received the honor of being named faculty research lecturer.

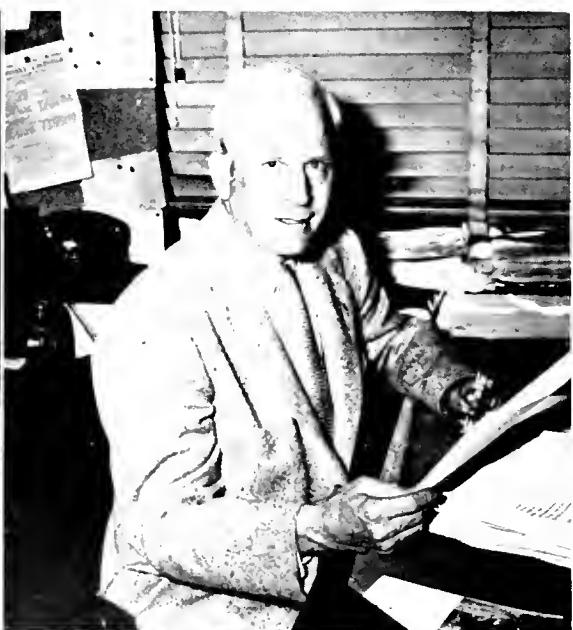

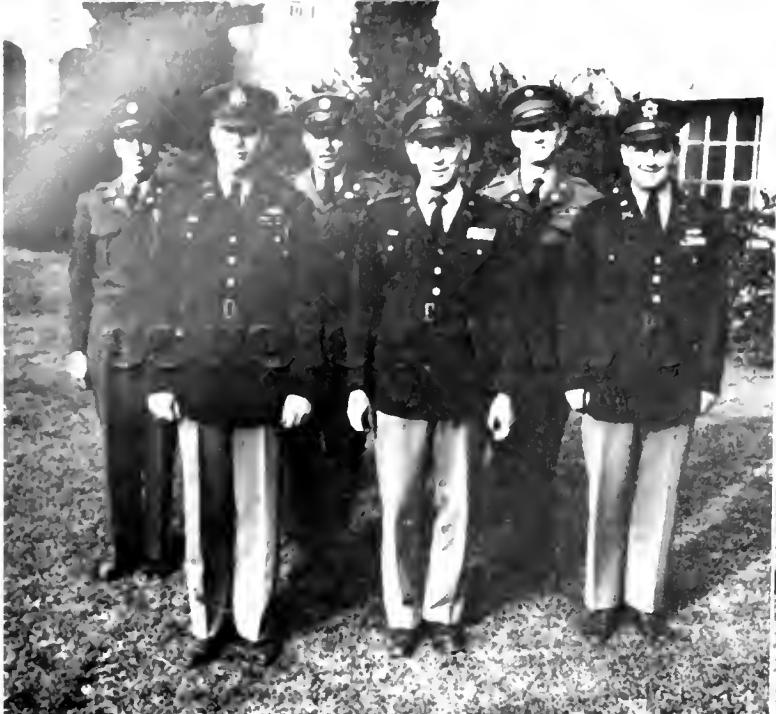

Mammoth Lakes and two Siamese cats headed a list of likes for FRANKLIN P. ROLFE, professor of English and dean of the division of humanities. He took pride in his complete set of English novels written before the 17th century.

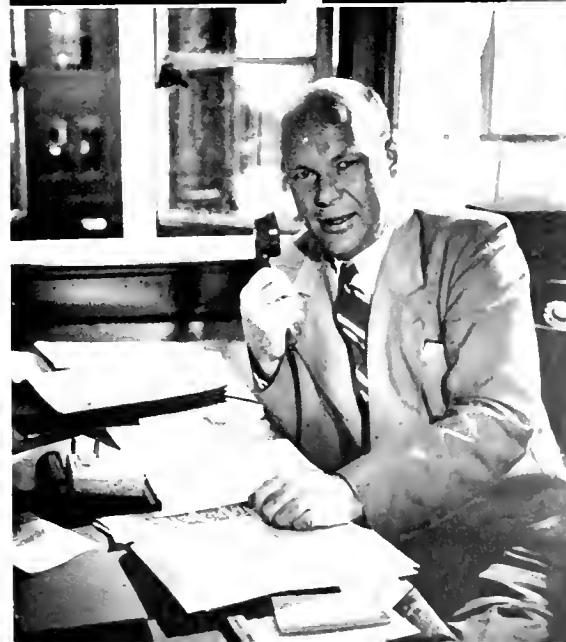

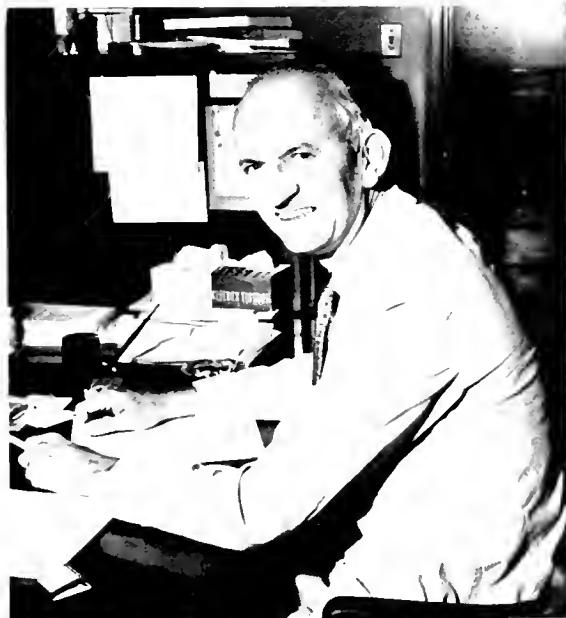

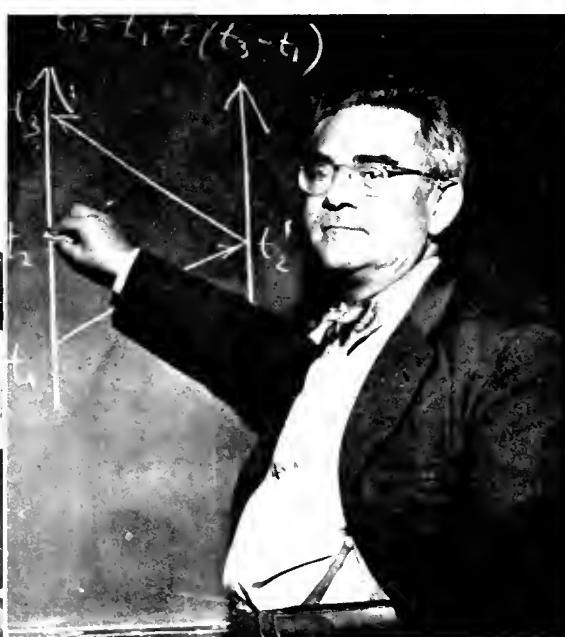

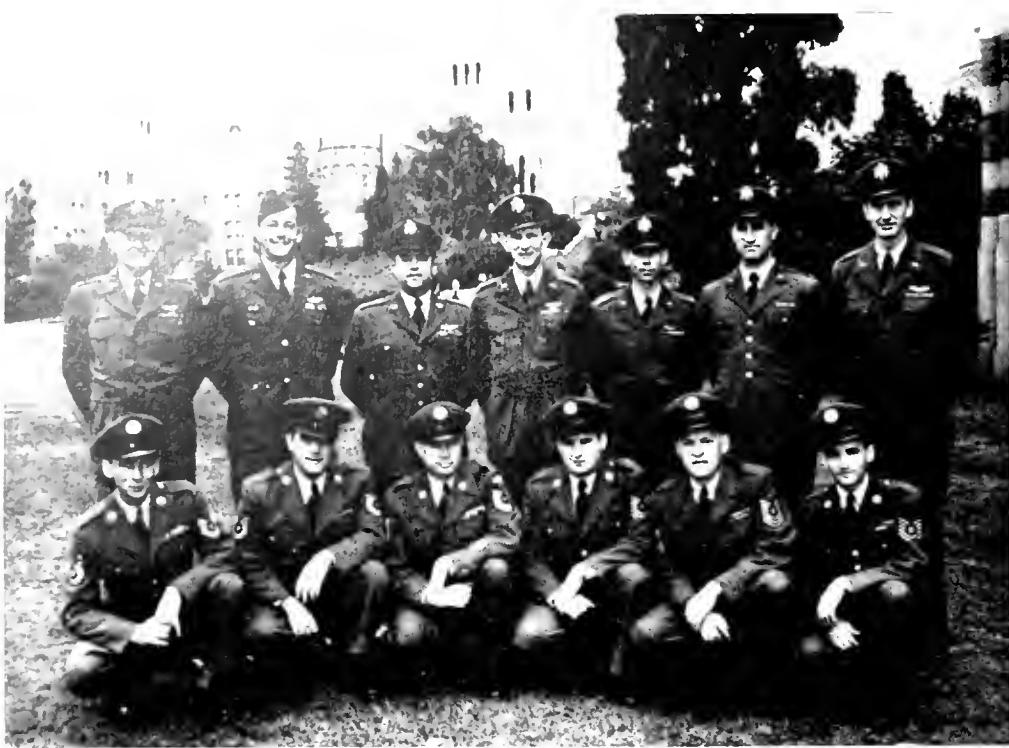

In the double life led by J. W. ROBSON as associate dean of the college of letters and science and associate professor of philosophy, no time remained for hobbies. His students knew him for his keen sense of humor.

As professor of psychology in the psychology department and medical school, dean of the division of life sciences, and consultant to several veterans' hospitals, ROY M. DORCUS had little time to enjoy his hobby, horse-racing.

As dean of the division of social sciences, J. A. C. GRANT, professor of political science, wished he had more classes. He won the John S. Guggenheim scholarship, which was given for high intellectual and personal qualifications.

Pre-nurses, majoring in public health nursing or industrial nursing in the college of applied arts, delved into the physical and biological sciences as a significant part of their curricula. Laboratory work in the dissection of anesthetized frogs gave students an insight into the reflexes and internal functions of the tailless amphibian.

Affectionately called "The New Look in Nursing Education" by her colleagues, LULU K. WOLF, dean of the school of nursing, was internationally recognized as an expert in her field. She established UCLA's school of nursing in 1948 and looked forward to moving her school into a new building in the medical center. Dean Wolf's office housed a collection of 150 dolls representing countries she visited in her travels.

Besides offering fields of concentration in sanitation and pre-administration, the school of public health provided a rich program in statistics. An important phase of this instruction included learning to work the calculator machine, which students in the class discovered was little less than a mathematical wizard.

A. HARRY BLISS, assistant professor of public health and chairman of the department, had a long list of positions he held as a professional sanitarian in the state and county health departments. His school was the only other statewide department, with the school of agriculture, which was striving for autonomy. Dr. Bliss was proud of the fact that his school was the only approved one of its kind in the west.

Ability, a great wealth of experience, and an interest in students were the outstanding characteristics of WILLIAM C. POMEROY, registrar, whose name was familiar to many Bruins because of his bulletins and ever-present signature.

Between his duties as UCLA business manager and director of the UCLA, Scripps, and Riverside agricultural station, GEORGE TAYLOR found time to indulge in his favorite pastime, attending football games.

university officials

As assistant director of relations with schools, assistant professor of German, and editor of the bi-annual publication "California Notes," VERN W. ROBINSON seldom had time to enjoy his favorite pastime of gardening.

AUBREY L. BERRY, who secured his first teaching position through UCLA's bureau of guidance and placement, was now on the other side of the desk as its assistant manager. The bureau placed teachers in jobs throughout the world.

Anxious to have a library which was pleasantly useful for studying, ROBERT VOSPER, acting librarian, instigated a student committee. His interest extended to any aspect of books from the inside out and from highest to lowest.

When MILDRED L. FOREMAN came to manage the bureau of occupations twenty years ago, it had one secretary. Since then the office has grown so that now there are twelve secretaries to help her find students part and full time jobs.

Experience in newspaper reporting and freelance writing qualified ANDREW J. HAMILTON for his position as manager of the office of public information. During the war he sent press communiques for Admiral Nimitz.

DR. RALPH M. BARNES

Coming to UCLA in 1949 from Ohio State University, DR. BARNES joined the faculty with a joint appointment in Business Administration and Engineering. Both at this University and nationally he has led the development of the study of Production Management, devising teaching methods, training instructors, and organizing study programs. He is also recognized as the leading specialist in time and motion theory.

DR. RALPH L. BEALS

Former chairman of the Department of Anthropology and Sociology at UCLA, DR. BEALS' record of research and publication has gained him membership on the Social Science Research Council and the National Research Council. He is considered one of the outstanding scholars today on the anthropology of South America and in 1950 served as president of the American Anthropological Association.

DR. MAY V. SEAGOE

One-time head of the UCLA Student Counseling Center, DR. SEAGOE is known for her contributions to the field of child and youth psychology. A graduate of Stanford University, she served as national president of Pi Lambda Theta, education honorary, and recently guest-edited an issue of its publication. She is from the Department of Education and last year acted as chairman of the Committee on Committees.

DR. HELEN I. WITMER

Lately returned from a leave of absence, DR. WITMER was one of the leaders in the recent White House Conference on Children and Youth. As director of Fact Finding she was responsible for the submission of a report on the Development of Healthy Personality in the Child; the report is already becoming an important factor in the study of childhood and youth. She is from the Department of Social Welfare.

DR. M. A. ZEITLIN

In addition to attending to his regular schedule of classes, DR. ZEITLIN served this past year as Chairman of the Budget Committee, a job requiring many hours of extra work on University finances and concerned with a budget of several million dollars. Formerly chairman of the Department of Spanish and Portuguese, He is also recognized as a specialist in time and motion theory.

HOMECOMING QUEEN ALLYN SMITH

Winning beauty contests was nothing new for the popular and charming junior, ALLYN SMITH. The Sophomore Sweetheart of 1949 stepped gracefully into her role of the Homecoming Queen of 1950, reigning over the week's activities in true western style. An education major, Pi Phi Allyn also worked on three class councils and was a member of Shell and Oor.

Dazzled by the radiant smile of her majesty the queen, court attendants assisted ALLYN SMITH as she descended from her chariot on her way to the throne. The California sunshine favored the royalty as the coronation ceremonies, climaxing a week of Homecoming activities, took place Friday morning on the quad before an enthusiastic crowd.

The queen and her court of western royalty flashed sunny smiles following the coronation ceremonies held on the quad. From left to right the attendants are LOUISE COLMAN, freshman; DEE DANIELS, sophomore; ADELE FLYNN, senior; and GAY HERTENSTEINER, junior. Surrounded by the bevy of beauties is lovely Homecoming Queen ALLYN SMITH.

Hailing from down Texas way, Chairman JIM DAVIS brought his authentic western ideas to bear on Homecoming. Owing his persuasive powers to two years' work with the debating team, Jim planned and guided the many activities of the week. "I'm not small; I'm just wound up tight," says Jim, who was also a member of Kelps, Gold Key, and Cal Club.

In their coach and two the queen and her attendants, decked out in authentic western apparel, arrived with a flourish for the coronation ceremonies. Worshipful Bruins kept their distance as the open coach, generously loaned by the motion picture industry, made its way into their midst, bearing the royal court in a style well suited to the occasion.

Ride 'em, cowgirl, in chintz and cotton! A third Homecoming show was scheduled this year due to the complete ticket sell-out for the two regular shows. Supplementing the local talent supplied by many all-student numbers, Joe E. Brown, Jack Benny, and Gloria DeHaven were on hand to provide the professional touch to the evening's entertainment.

Thanks to Dude's restaurant, Bruins feasted sumptuously on baked beans and western rolls served steaming hot from the chuck wagon. The outdoor feed was followed by the traditional street dance held in the parking lot behind Desmond's, where some 2000 Bruins danced to the music of a western band in the good old frontier style.

Attended by a large number of enthusiastic students, the Friday night Homecoming dance bubbled with the spirit and happiness of another wonderful UCLA Homecoming celebration.

Bruins crowded around the bandstand to see DANNY KAYE, Hollywood's own laughable, loveable comic, who was on hand at the Homecoming dance to add to the gaiety and fun.

frontier bruin brings injun ruin

Cheers from the UCLA-Stanford game crowd greeted the winner of the grand sweepstakes, the parade float so intricately designed and beautifully executed by Delta Sigma Phi.

Bedecked with a rainbow of crepe paper colors, the Phi Kappa Sigma entry in the float parade received top honors in the novelty division and lots of laughs from enthusiastic Bruins.

Coming in for its share of praise in the float contest was the multi-colored entry of Sigma Pi, which took top honors for the greatest amount of originality.

The Delta Zeta float took first place in the Homecoming parade for the closest adherence to the theme of the celebration, "Frontier Bruin Brings Injun Ruin."

Goodbye, UCLA! Hella, Cal! Off for a wonderful all-university weekend, enthusiastic Bruin rooters boarded a specially chartered plane at Los Angeles and arrived at Berkeley same two hours later. Leaving studies behind them, Uclans looked forward to the rally, dances, side trips across the bay to San Francisco and of course, the big game.

"By the old Pacific's rolling waters" . . . there was no peace for the pilot and stewardess as Bruin rooters sang songs to boost school spirit. With the yell leaders aboard to set the pace and a few "ukes" in the back ground, it was woe to those who had thoughts of grabbing a few extra winks in preparation for the busy weekend.

cal trip

"Far old Bob Spraul was a merry old soul" . . . joining hands with the top man-about-campus were the presidents of the five main divisions of the University of California. It was smiles all around as everyone wished President ROBERT GORDON SPROUL another happy anniversary, and one more step was taken toward greater inter-campus unity.

Getting the gang into shape for Saturday's game, the Johnny-on-the-spot yell leaders, complete with berets, put all their school spirit into the yells at the bonfire rally on Friday night. After musical exchanges with Berkeley, Santa Barbara, and Davis, the Great Bruin Band took over to play a lively series of all-university songs.

With their luggage and blankets stowed away in sleeping quarters, Bruins set out for a tour of the Berkeley campus, which grew bigger and bigger as Bruins walked farther and farther. Those with soles left on their shoes attended the all-university dance held Saturday night in the Cal gym, where mellow music mixed with friendly faces.

A rousing response came from the Bruin rooting section at the bonfire rally as Uclans tuned up their fans for the next day's big game. If the weekend lacked anything, it wasn't spirit, for all those who trekked north were on hand Saturday in Strawberry Canyon to lend the needed moral support to a hard-fighting Bruin team.

Another moment of the SC UCLA fracas outside of H. B. was the blue & gold and gold SC banner which triumphantly hung from Royce Hall.

After a 39-0 victory over SC, the greatest in history, Bruins went wild in a demonstration which rocked Westwood with its hilarity.

Students took French leave of their classes and marched en masse in a victory procession down Hilgard to Westwood Village.

The "Man of the Year" who brought the bell back to its home belfrey by coaching the 1950 football team to victory was Coach RED SANDERS.

Holding up traffic in their enthusiasm, students followed the yell leaders in some spirited yell which let the world know UCLA was the victor.

bell rally

Back to its home grounds after a four year stretch at a "foreign" university the victory bell received a royal welcome from shrieking rooters.

The spontaneous laughter of the "Sunshine" chorus brought the audience right down to the sandy shore with the truant student.

long hours of rehearsal produced a precision-plus performance, as shown in this coop scene from the saga of campus life, dramatically presented.

Putting the finishing touches on their makeup in the Royce Hall Green room, performers had already caught the excitement of the big opening night.

Perf EVALYNE MILLER and handsome JACK MONKARSH played the romantic leads in Sunshine to Burn, with JOY MUSTIZER supporting.

'sunshine to burn'

LUCILLE LANGDON'S clever choreography was one of the show's highlights. Performance perfection required long hours of practice. 'Twas worth it!

Produced by BOB BUTLER and directed by WILLIAM HOLLAND Sunshine to Burn played to capacity audiences during its three-night run.

Commemorating the anniversary of the first Charter Day many years ago, student and faculty members gathered in Royce Hall for the ceremonies. Dr. ROBERT GORDON SPROUL, president of the University of California, introduced the day's speaker.

charter day

In dignified and grave tones appropriate to his subject matter, former ambassador to England, WILLIAM O. DOUGLASS, discussed United States foreign policy and current international conditions, particularly the Korean war.

One of the most colorful sights of the Charter Day activities was the procession down the aisles of Royce Hall of the members of the southern branch of the Academic Senate, all attired in the gowns particular to their degrees.

kerckhoff hall activities

With ALLYN SMITH to cut the cake, who wouldn't think it was a happy birthday? This year ASUCLA reached the ripe old age of thirty-one.

Bombarded with slogans and songs from all sides, students who walked between the library and Kerckhoff Hall really got the election treatment.

With a slogan of "10,000 square feet" the book store planned on expansion program which would allow for more text storage space.

"Good luck, and may the best man win!" Presidential candidates shook hands on the eve of that all-important election day.

During elections anything went, provided the Elections Board approved it, and UCLA students were exposed to all types of campaigning.

senior council

Working like Bruins to make the last year the best year, senior class officers planned the traditional activities and some new ones, too. Officers were, left to right, DAVE RICH, DONNA BALL, President LOU SACKIN, and BARBARA SLACK.

From start to finish the senior council led the class of '51 in an unforgettable final year. Under the guiding hand of Lou Sackin, the council inaugurated many firsts, most notable of which was having refreshments at all council meetings. During football season the seniors roated from their fifty yardline seats. Five hundred seniors attended the annual senior brunch at Switzerland's Cafe before cheering the Bruins on to their Trojan victory. Sending the juniors down to a decided defeat during Men's Week, the seniors won the traditional junior-senior football game. At the end of May came senior week with its fabulous ditch held at the Del Mar Beach Club. The Del Mar also served as the setting for the Aloha Ball, which was highlighted by the presentation of the senior queen, Gloria Murphy, and the permanent class officers, who were Lou Sackin, president; Dot Crawford, vice-president; Howard Hanson, treasurer; and Char Weiss, secretary. Climaxing the four years of campus life were the graduation exercises held in the Hollywood Bowl on June 16, a day eagerly anticipated and now long to be remembered.

Bruin Editor MARTIN BROWER seemed quite unaware of his pretty companions. JEAN BAILEY, seated, served as president of the Theta house. Besides being active on senior council, GEORGIE WHERRY held the gavel for Gamma Phi Beta.

These Phi Psi's were what was commonly known as big wheels. Middleman PETE KIPP was rep-at-large. BILL EICHENLAUB, at left, worked on Southern Campus as sales manager. Brother HANK SUNDERLAND also made frequent trips up to KH 304.

Three men and a girl! The lucky girl was KD DONNA BALL, senior class secretary. Her three gentlemen friends were Theta Xi Rep-at-Large HARRY SHERMAN, Gold Key and Delta Sig Prexy JACK PHREANER, and that perennial senior Beta IKE VAN DYKE.

high and mighty

Sigma Nus surrounded pretty Theta LIZ HAIGHT, MANUEL GONZALEZ, seated, and GILES ALLISON both provided hearty support for senior activities as well as plenty of laughs for senior classmates. This threesome formed a trio of real personalities.

These young men were real campus politicians. Delt RAY BEINDORF served as president of IFC, DICK PORTER presided over the activities of URA, and FRED THORNLEY held the impressive title of ASUCLA president. These three were rather busy, to say the least.

Beta BOB BUTLER was the big idea man behind Sunshine to Burn, UCLA's first varsity show. On Bob's left was Pi Phi MEG HEYLER, a council steady. On his right was Alpha Phi ALICE HALL, who took over presidential duties on Panhellenic council.

Caught between two lovely seniors was Theta Xi DICK PRICE who captained Elections Board. His two companions were both Southern Campusites. Alpha Chi SHARLA PERRINE was organizations manager while Pi Phi CLAIRE JACKSON was office manager.

Basketball star ART ALPER kept WANDA CASE and ANN McDONNELL smiling with news of the latest cager victory. Alpha Chi Wanda was low potentate of that mighty organization, Trolls, while Alpha Phi Ann presided over UCLA's YWCA.

AWS vice-president, BARBARA KIMBALL was joined by campus wit BOB ENGLISH for a bit of friendly chit chat. Beta Sig Bob lent his special brand of humor to Scop, which he edited. Barbara, a ZTA had long been a guiding light to AWS.

Southern Campus was a starting point for MARCIA TUCKER, CHUCK GRIFFIN, and JACKIE SHAHBAZIAN. Marcia was engravings editor, staff member Chuck shone his brightest on Rally Committee, and Jackie served the annual as associate editor.

First in line was KA TONY JACOBS who chairmanned a terrific senior week. Tony's companions were Fr. FRED BECK and Phi Psi JACK SHOEMAKER. Fred was former sports editor for Southern Campus. Jack starred in varsity tennis and was captain of the team.

Fun in the casual California style was the keynote of the fabulous senior ditch. This Del Mar day furnished another happy memory for happy 5ters.

Old Sol was at his burning best when about-to-be-graduates gathered on the sand along the Club Del Mar ocean front for the traditional ditch.

With class officers leading the way, graduates took a farewell tour of UCLA. For once the trip down Janss steps didn't seem long.

Dr. FREDERIC WOELLNER, center, guest speaker at the senior vespers, greeted Dr. JESSE KELLEMS, who conducted the service. Looking on was W. C. ACKERMAN.

senior week

The library was a principal stop for those seniors who participated in the Pilgrimage. Friends and families were invited to accompany seniors on this last trip.

Refreshments served in the newly finished Kerckhoff patio ended the Pilgrimage. Even some sentimentality was allowed for this final visit to the campus.

No senior wanted to miss the impressive vespers service. This traditional non-sectarian ceremony was held in the Westwood Christian Church.

All in the spirit of things was the Hawaiian Club's intermission entertainment at the Aloha Ball. A more graceful farewell could hardly be imagined.

President LOU SACKIN crowned beaming Senior Queen GLORIA MURPHY as runners up TAWNY BUNCH and ANN MAUDLIN stood by.

Dubious honor of class Gold Brick went to STAN BERMAN. Sharing in the fun were permanent class officers, Veep DOT CRAWFORD, Prexy LOU SACKIN, Secretary CHAR WEISS.

Frank DeVol provided the tuneful background for one of the greatest Aloha Balls ever. Smiling faces and pretty formals crowded the floor all evening.

Once again the famous Hollywood Bowl served for what was, in most cases, the final and most important step in the educational life of many young people.

Dr. ROBERT GORDON SPROUL was the speaker at UCLA's 1951 commencement. The popular university president gave graduates a rousing send-off.

Congratulations were in order as brand new graduates met their proud families and friends after the completion of the Hollywood Bowl ceremonies.

A post-commencement reception found graduates and their friends receiving congratulations from class officers and university officials.

Gala junior class triumph of the fall semester was the annual Junior Prom, a two day affair featuring a pre-view in Royce Hall and the traditional dance held this year at the beautiful Del Mar Beach Club. Chairman Dave Nelson provided juniors and their dates with the music of Jerry Gray's orchestra and proudly presented Junior Prom Queen Jan Brown and her two attendants, Freddie Camp and June Hollingshead. Next on the junior agenda was a series of open houses held at the different fraternities in cooperation with the other classes. Also, during Pavilion Week the class was active in the planning and promoting of the Pavilion Week dance under the leadership of Dave Nelson, Toby Hale, and Peggy Burbank. In addition to these activities the junior council entered into occupational guidance work with the other three classes. During Men's Week the juniors decorated the coop in a colorful manner and also participated in the annual junior-senior football game. President Randy Parker was given a helping hand in supervising the year's activities by a spirited group of officers and a long list of outstanding council members.

Looking back on past fun and still able to plan for lots more in the future senior year, junior class officers all agreed that the junior year was by far the best year yet. Mighty class officers were, left to right, JACK KELLY, PAT DELANEY, President RANDY PARKER, and MARGIE KEJSAR.

Homecoming Queen ALYN SMITH, that pretty Pi Phi, posed with Phi Kap PETE MANN, BENNY DUVAL, and AOPi BETTY SULLIVAN. Pete managed the Junior Prom and Homecoming from the business angle. Betty was active on RCB and was also a Cal Clubber.

JAN BROWN, the pretty girl in the center, made a sparkling Junior Prom queen. With Jan were her Tri Delt sister NANCY BROWN and ZBT BERT SISKIN. Nancy was a busy lady on the Junior Prom and Homecoming. Bert was always on hand for work or play.

OCB rallied smoothly along under the guidance of Chairman DAVE HANSON. JOAN SEBEL also spent much time in KH 209. In addition Dave aided and abetted Gold Key and Cal Club, and the attractive AEPhi was a UCLA sang leader.

Just like a picnic except for the food. The young man was Theta Xi MORRIS PEELLE, surrounded by Tri Delt JAN SCHALLER, junior council enthusiast, and SHIRLEY ENGLUND, Miss AWS. On the right was Sigma Kappa JO SWAN of Welfare Board.

DICK LEONARD leaned leisurely against a tree while GENE BUBIEN, straw and all, and ZBT JERRY HOROWITZ enjoyed the scenery. The AMS vice-presidential chair was filled by Dick. Theta Delt Gene was responsible for the Homecoming bonfire.

Looked as though PEGGY BURBANK was being followed by yell leader DOUG UPSHAW and LEE WENZEL. Peggy was associated with OCB, Southern Campus, and Pi Beta Phi. Phi Delt Doug and Sigma Nu Lee both appeared on the Gold Key roster.

third year wonders

DAVE NELSON looked like the lone wolf beside damsels Alpha Chi STUART McKENNA and Tri Delt's TOBY HALE and JEAN NELSON. Theta Xi Dave was in full charge of the Junior Prom. Stuart and Taby boasted membership in Tralls and Cal Club.

junior prom

Smiling couples, entering the Del Mar Beach Club in hopes of a wonderful evening of music and dancing, were not disappointed. An annual affair, the Junior Prom was eagerly anticipated.

Enticed by the soft and dreamy music of Jerry Grey and his orchestra, prom-goers drifted across the crowded floor of the Santa Monica Del Mar Club in an atmosphere of winter wonderland.

Intermission time meant time out for refreshments, some conversation, and lots of laughs on the part of the promgoers. The Del Mar Club, overlooking the ocean, provided the setting for this major fall dance.

Winning queen contests was old stuff for vivacious JAN BROWN, Junior Prom queen, who also gained fame as Lambda Chi Sweetheart. Jan, a home economics major, was a member of the class councils and Spurs.

Over two thousand Bruins turned out to make the 1951 Sophomore Sweetheart dance one of the biggest campus events of the year. This February affair had the Los Angeles Breakfast Club as its setting and was guested by film notables Eddie Bracken and Janet Leigh. Miss Leigh was given the honorary title of All-U Sweetheart while dark-haired Dee Daniels was chosen Sophomore Sweetheart by class members. With Jerry Perenchio in the driver's seat, the council was steered on to many other successes. The year's final results showed a soph victory in the annual Fresh-Soph Brawl as well as a sizeable contribution to the URA Mardi Gras at which a soph-sponsored booth appeared. A booming open house was staged by the council at the end of the year. Vice-president Gwinn Allenberg, Secretary Sue Armstrong, and Treasurer Jim Devers were ever-present to supply that needed impetus. In recognition of a truly great year, the sophomore class was selected as the outstanding class of 1951 by Graduate Manager William C. Ackerman.

Talking shop, no doubt, were Southern Campus staff members BOB BAKER, ANN CHANSLOR, and BILL ROBERTS. SC sales, YMCA and OCB occupied Phi Psi Bob's time. Ann worked as managing editor and on Rally Committee. Photography editor was Lambda Chi Bill's official title.

Two weary sophomores were ZBT DICK ALTMAN and Phi Psi MIKE INMAN; but TEPsi STAN ARNOLD and Phi Delt DICK HANSEN were bright and shining. Baseball, Yeomen and Kelps divided Mr. H's interests. While Stan boosted OCB, Mike was a Welfare Board member.

What young man wouldn't enjoy being pushed around by three beautiful women? Phi Sig GIL HOFFMAN's chauffeurs were Alpha Phi JOAN MEYERSEICK, JOAN WILCOX, and ELEANOR TANIN. Joan and Eleanor were both members of the Spotlight staff. Joan Meyerseick worked on OCB.

DEE DANIELS' admirers were Delt LARRY MUENTER, Phi Delt RONNIE CASE, and ZBT HARRY NEBENZAHL. Dee was sophomore Homecoming attendant and Sophomore Sweetheart. Larry sparked on Rolly Committee, and Ronnie led a few yells here and there.

important sophs

On their way to somewhere were Tri Delt BARBARA McAFOOS, Phi Delt JIM DEVERS, SAE DICK HERSHBERGER, and NSA girl MARGARET McHUGH. Barbara and Margaret were both Spurs, Margaret also being chosen to join those in Cal Club. Jim served the sophs as treasurer.

The lone man was Phi Sig DICK STEIN. His three friends were Spurs JUNE TANNER, DIANE DONOHUE, and AOPi DEE KEJSAR . . . a real activity foursome! While class affairs managed to steal most of Dee's time, June and Diane spent many hours at RCB.

Intermission fun was offered by film comedian EDDIE BRACKEN at the soph dance. JANET LEIGH also appeared on the program.

Winner DEE DANIELS smiled happily as the sweetheart contest results were announced. Class President JERRY PERENCHIO and BILL FREEMAN were also happy.

The annual Sweetheart Dance was one of the year's biggest affairs. Satisfied Bruins gathered between dances in the patio of the Los Angeles Breakfast Club.

sophomore activities

Here's mud in yer eye! Vicious pie-slinging characterized frosh-soph relations during Men's Week. All in fun, of course.

The pie-eating contest provided plenty of laughs, though it was a little messy for the contestants. But as long as the pie was good, who cared?

Mud, mud, mud was the word for these mud-clod men who put the worst of the ferocious battle. Final results showed the sophomores in top position.

The traditional Frosh-Soph Brawl brought lower classmen out in full force for some good, muddy fun. Here was the famed tug o' war.

What's the reason for NORM PADGETT's big smile? It might be JAN STERLING and former Uclan GINGIE HALL. These film beauties guested "The Mating Season" dance.

KEITH WILLIAMS, who

freshmen activities

High above the hot and heavy struggle were Frosh-Soph Brawl judges. ASUCLA Prexy FRED THORNLEY and Veep JOY BULLARD STERN were on hand for the decision.

Paramount star JAN STERLING and husband, funny man PAUL DOUGLAS, drew laughs during intermission of "The Mating Season," named in honor of the Paramount picture.

Early rising didn't bother enthusiastic freshmen when it came time to paint UCLA's big 'C.' The traditional frosh activity meant lots of paint and lots of fun.

FRESHMAN FRESHMEN

Winning the trophy for the most outstanding class and for featuring the best camba in the co-op combo contests, this year's freshman class ran away with most of the prizes during Men's Week, starting its activities off right. Another publicity-bringing event for the class was the yami-yogurt bust held at the Theta Delta Chi house. Perhaps the best and most successful occasion of the frosh year was "The Mating Season," an all-university sponsored by the class. The dance's entertainment and publicity were aided by Paramount Studios, who helped on posters and brought guest stars Paul Douglas and Jan Sterling into the spotlight at the Bel Air Bay Club. Freshmen also entered enthusiastically in the events traditional to their class such as giving the big "C" a new coat of paint and guarding the bonfire during Homecoming. Plunging spiritedly into UCLA activities, the frosh operated a cake-selling booth at the Mardi Gras and also entered as a group in the Spring Sing, the only class to do so. Under the direction of President Lewis Leeburg, the freshmen began their four years in a sparkling fashion.

meet the frosh

ZBT brothers STAN CHERRY and ED GELTMAN were pretty happy with their pretty company, KD CRIS JOHNSON and DELLE COLEMAN. Frosh activities boomed under the promotion of these livewires.

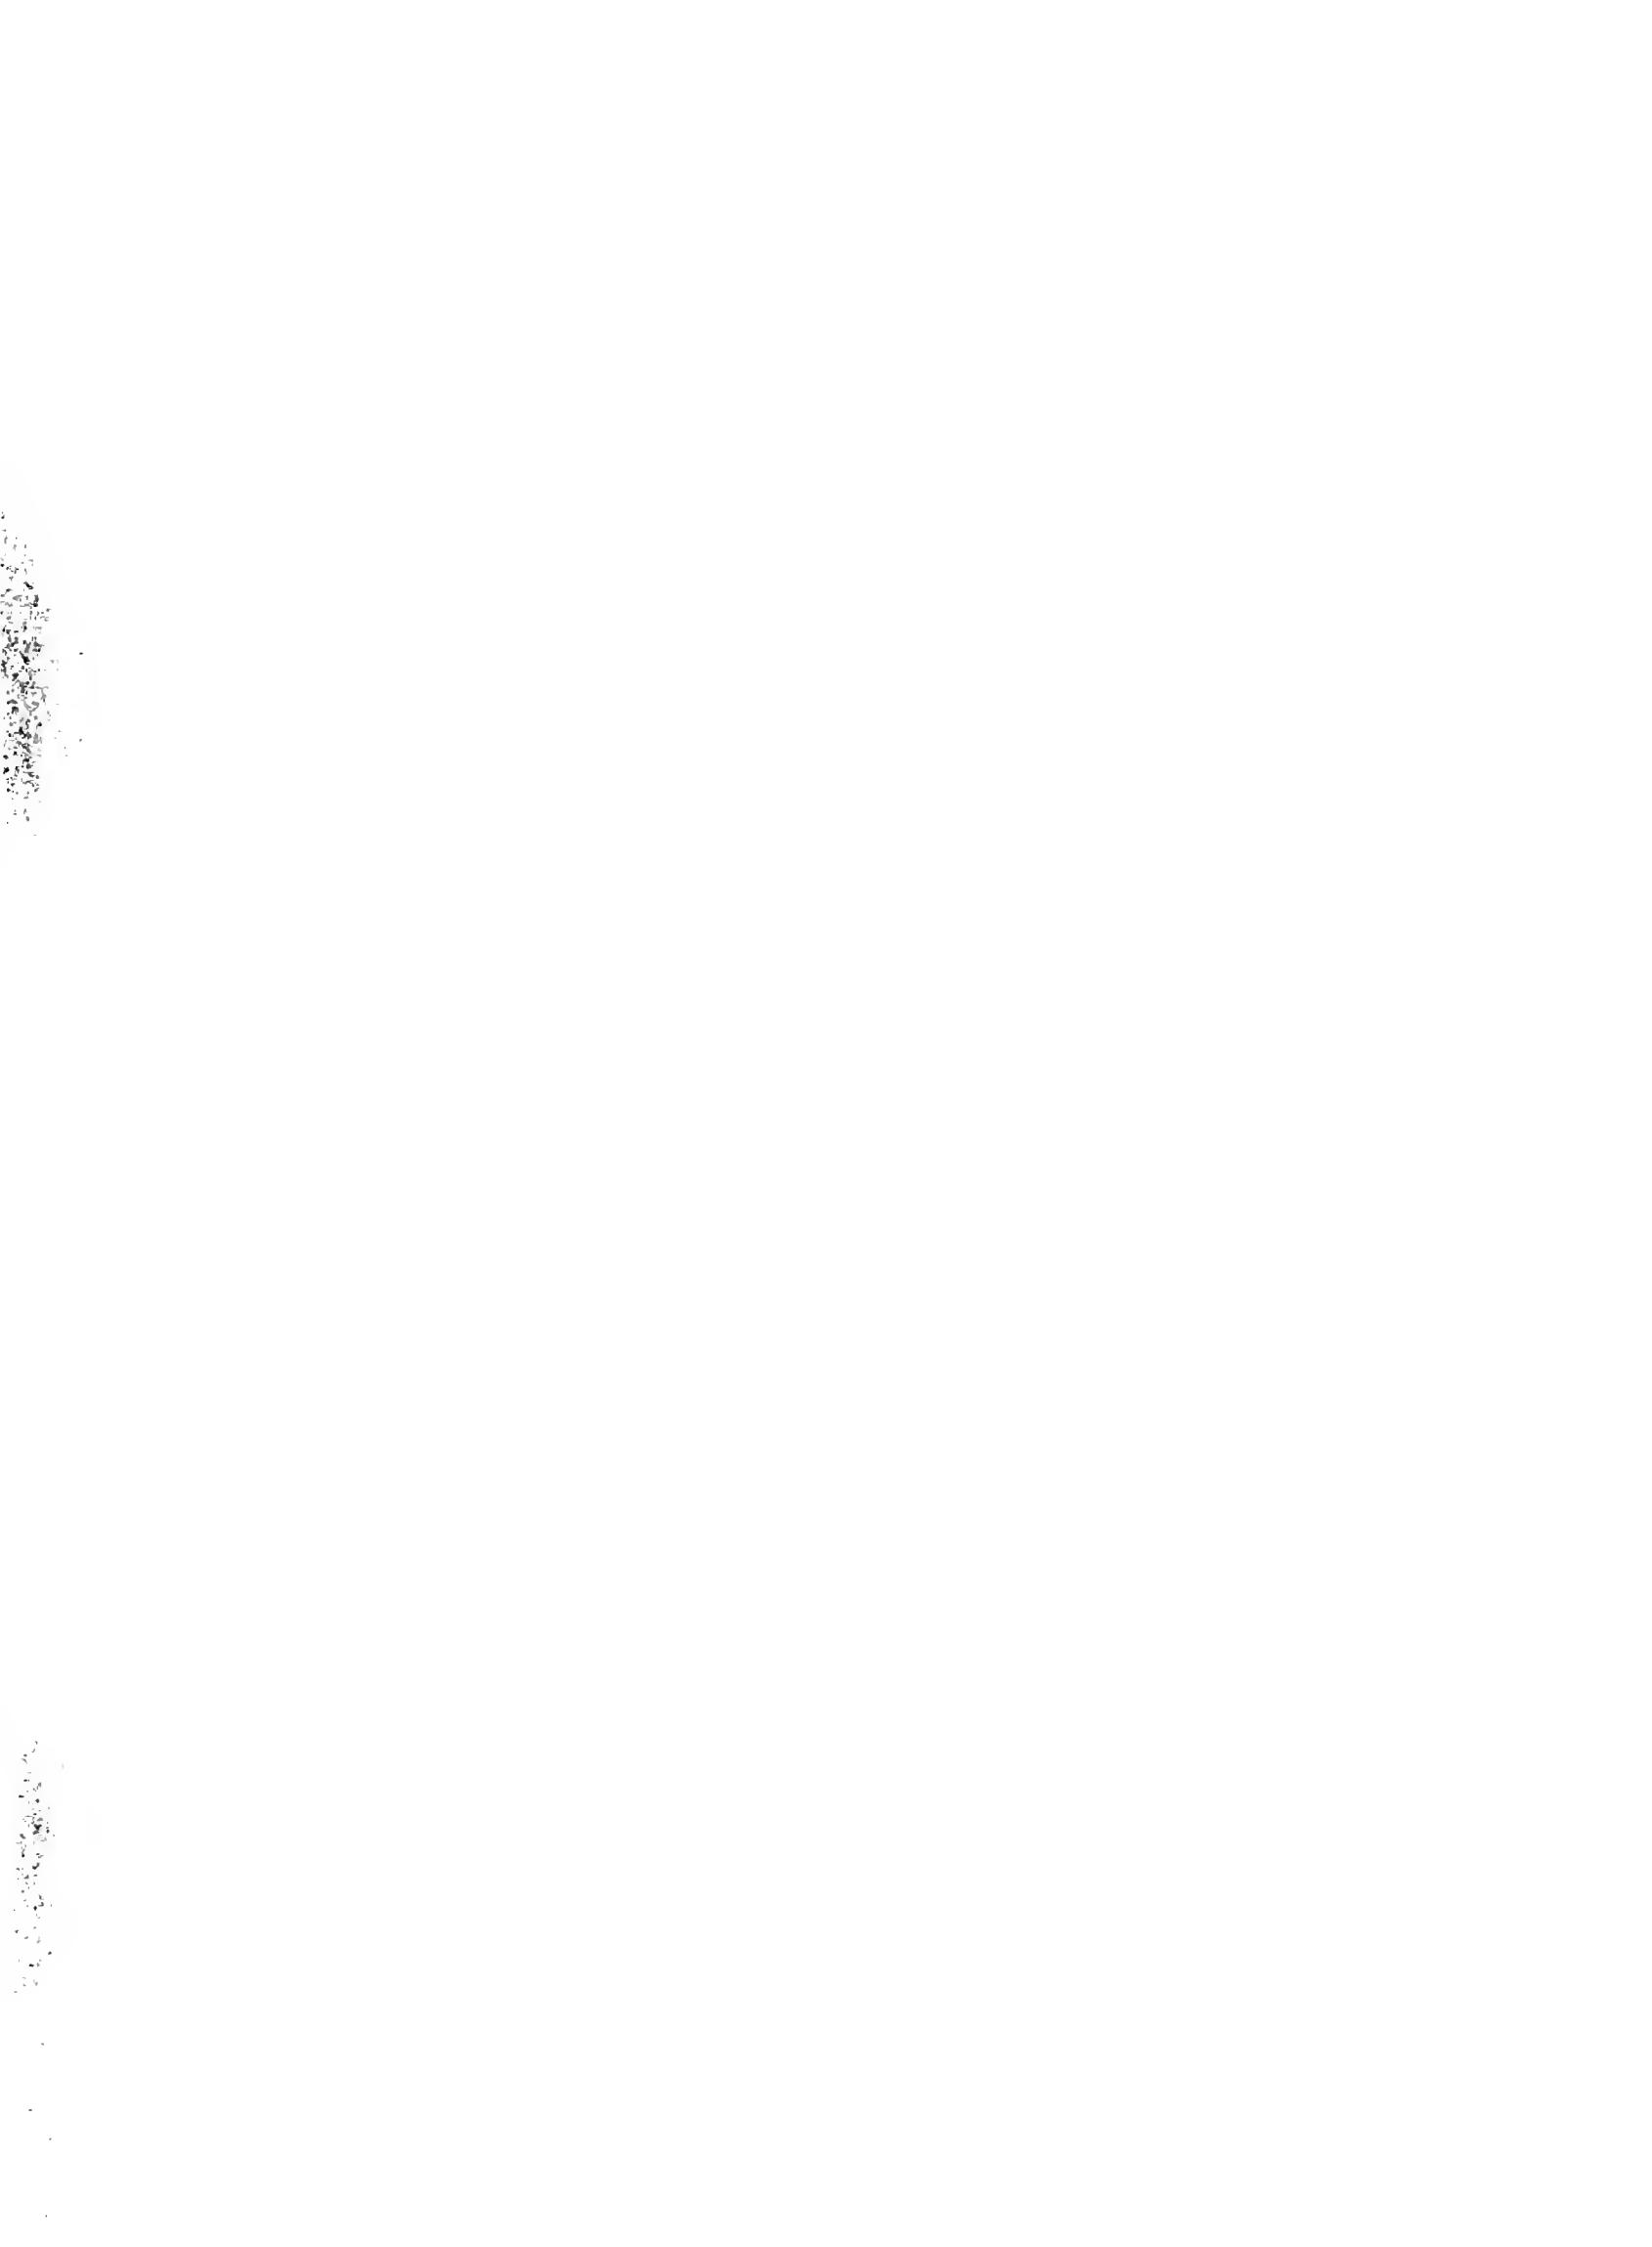

Pi Phi KAREN KERNS, Sigma Pi BOB BREWSTER, DG LYNN VALE, BASIL CLYMAN, and Tri Delt MARILYN McCORNACK gave their all to the frosh. Karen also sparked Spring Sing while the Y and Welfare Board were sidelines for Basil and Marilyn.

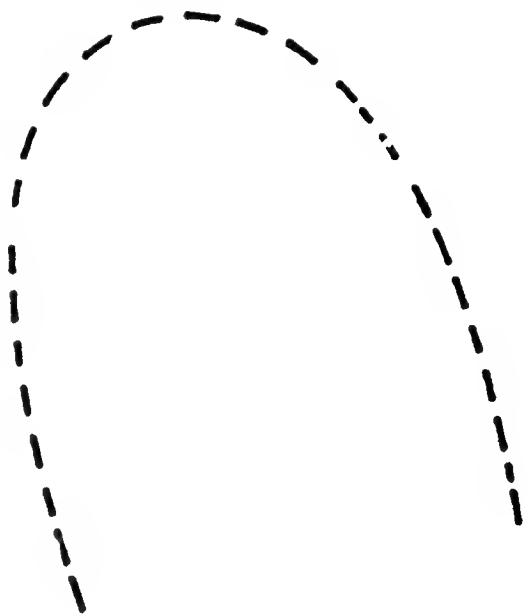

Smiling Theta Xi JOHN TOWNLEY, also a Kappa and Scopite, and Sigma Pi ROGER PETERS were joined by Alpha Chi NATALIE EKELSY and Tri Delt BEVERLY GRANT, who formed an attractive frame for this frosh crew.

The hard work of STEVE CLAMAN, BRUCE FLEMING, ANDY TANNURA and DEE RODRIGUEZ resulted in a truly great frosh dance. Sigma Pi Bruce and Alpha Chi Dee were boosters from way back, while ZBT Steve and DG Andy were sure fire for fun.

SEC members here seemed to have agreed on an issue and everyone appeared to be happy about the results. This year's Wednesday night meetings contained many a stormy session with SEC activity more than once making Bruin headlines.

asucla president

Retaining all of his pep and enthusiasm, ex-head yell leader FRED THORNLEY guided the ASUCLA through another successful year of student government. Numbered among his duties as president were the chairmanships of Student Executive Council and the Control Board. Through these media Fred strove to work out a reorganization of the structure of ASUCLA, also devoting much of his time and effort to promoting better public relations. Before taking over the head spot in Kershoff Hall, the buzzing center of all student government activities, Fred was active in AMS, the four class councils, Gold Key, Cal Club, and Yeomen, also serving as president of his fraternity, Sigma Pi. As a senior, Fred transferred his yell leader antics to the cavorting Kelps. Fred's college career was interrupted by the call of the sea but after several years in the navy he returned to UCLA to complete his general business education major. After graduation Fred will exchange his gavel for the perennial yardstick when he takes over the duties of the school classroom . . . that is, if the navy doesn't call again. But classroom or navy, Fred will always be remembered for the leadership which he contributed to ASUCLA.

asucla vice president

"Never underestimate the power of a woman." Blonde haired, blue eyed ASUCLA Vice-President JOY BULLARD STERN proved that she could combine activities, job, studies and romance and still come out on top. In addition to her duties as official hostess for ASUCLA, enthusiastic, fun-loving Joy made her presence known at Mortar Board, AWS Executive Board, and Welfare Board meetings. A past member of the freshman and sophomore councils, Joy wielded the Key and Scroll gavel during her junior year and brought all of her contagious good spirits to Troll meetings as a senior and also participated in the activities of Cal Club. Realistic and practical was the advice which Joy gave at SEC meetings as she devoted herself wholeheartedly to solving the problems of the students. A working girl on the side, Theta Joy maintained an enviable 2.0 average in her studies. Plans after graduation include a job in the field of advertising, where Joy hopes to be able to use her English major. The wedding bells rang in April when Joy married David Stern, a UCLA graduate student in economics. Amazing is the word for ASUCLA's vice-prexy, whose service will long be remembered by the university.

Head platter and plonner for Orientation was BARBARA ROUSH STAFFORD, chairman of the group of students who had as their purpose the introduction of new students and freshmen to the intricacies of UCLA campus life. Well prepared for the job by her former position as vice-president of AWS, Barbara also combined practice teaching and marriage with her chairmanship.

orientations

Into Orientation went a lot of thought, planning, and a full share of diligent work on the part of the committee members and many of the UCLA students. Committee members were, left to right, Chairman BARBARA ROUSH STAFFORD, PAT PETER HARDWICK, SHIRLEY ADAIR, BOB JORDAN, JEAN NELSON, HAL KASSARJIAN, RENEE CHUDNOFF, and BEA CHUDNOFF.

MARY ANNA MUCKENHIRN, in addition to her practically full-time job as president of AWS, found time to be one of the most active women on campus. To her credit went membership on the OCB Board, RCB Student Board where she worked on the Panel of Americans, and Mortar Board.

associated women students

Vice-President BARBARA KIMBALL presided over the Associate Board and coordinated the activities of the various AWS committees. A past Spur, Barbara was a member of the Masonic Club and the class councils.

MARY ANN WESCOTT, womens' rep-at-large, used her seat on the AWS Board to present some suggestions valuable for Bruin women. She was a staunch supporter of the program to redecorate the women's lounge.

Efficiency plus characterized JEAN MARTIN, who took careful minutes at the AWS meetings. Secretary Jean was a past member of Spurs, Key and Scall, and chairman of the AWS Philanthropy Committee.

Associate Board members were D. AEGERTER, C. ABRAMS, S. SEGAL, S. ENGLUND, A. DOWLIN, J. MARTIN, Chairman B. KIMBALL, V. BACKES, P. HARDWICK, S. GREENBAUM, and D. DOLFER; Standing, P. HOROWITT, D. KALAFATIS, J. NELSON, E. TAYLOR, J. HURST, S. MCKENNA, J. SWAN, B. CHUDNOFF, S. ADAIR, and P. DELANEY.

Under the chairmanship of Genevive Goede the annual Doll Contest again netted beautiful, humorous, and original dolls which were distributed among charitable organizations. Entered by various women's groups, the dolls were awarded prizes for the three different groups.

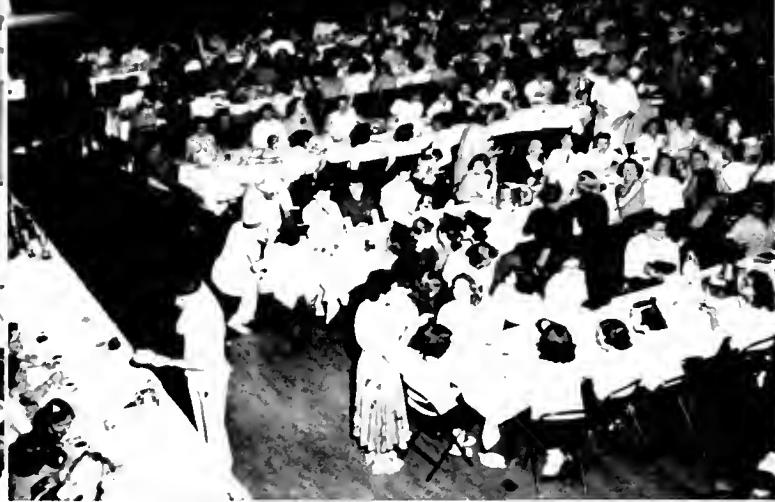

Already one of the fastest growing AWS committees, Made Josie was further enlarged by Chairman Marilyn Metz. The group received instruction in modelling from Carolyn Leane and presented several fashion shows for Josie Bruin, modelling clothes from Saks and Robinsons.

Setting the precedent for more of its kind, the Enoch Drawcab Show . . . AWS Backward Dance . . . saw Josie Bruin asking Joe and presenting him with a vegetable corsage. The first annual dance was patterned after those given by eastern universities and was a grand success.

AMS President GEORGE SEELIG was one of the busier boys about Kerckhoff. Ex-chairman of MAB and member of Varsity Club, this year George also gave time to his fraternity Tau Delta Phi and Gold Key.

AMS affairs were handled by an always on-the-ball executive committee headed by president GEORGE SEELIG. Hard work and high spirit combined to make this last a truly booming year for AMS.

Traditional Men's Week activities were carried out in the traditional grand spirit by the AMS Men's Week committee. TED STURMTHAL, seated at the head of the table, chaired the group.

men students

Having graduated from "corporalized vice-president", DICK LEONARD successfully finished another year of AMS service. Dick combined AMS activities with Gold Key, Rally Committee, and Junior council.

Navy girls and boys, when Joe Brin gathered them at the dorms for the annual Men's Stag. The festive program planned by Chairman Stan ... and featured the popular theme . . . "Lc. S.C."

Men's Week saw no end to competition. Musicians got a chance to show their fighting spirit in the combo contest. When the last note had sounded, the judges' decision found the freshmen in the winners' shoes.

reps at large

Always on hand with friendly advice was Rep-at-Large HARRY SHERMAN. Students found ready answers to their problems in the counsel of any one of the three in KH 222. Harry certainly appeared to have come up with the right answer to this question.

Known about campus for his friendly smile, Gold Keyer HARRY SHERMAN was relied upon for good counsel at SEC and Scabbard and Blade meetings. At present the former Theta Xi prexy's future lies with the army.

While promoting class activities and social events, Kelp MARSHALL VORKINK had extra time to devote to Gold Key, Cai Club, and Rally Committee. This future lawyer was a smooth skier in addition.

His shack of blond hair wasn't PETE KIPP'S only distinction; membership in SEC, Gold Key, and Scabbard and Blade, plus being past junior prexy were among the accomplishments that amazed his Phi Psi brothers.

Whatever brought these pretty misses to Rep-at-Large PETE KIPP seemed to have been forgotten, if the smiles of SUE SCHISSLER and DOREEN DAVIS meant anything. Bruins discovered that talking "gripes" over could be very helpful.

The most organized girl on campus was BEV NEMER, spring chairman of OCB. During her term of office OCB reorganized its system completely, so as to avoid duplication in the filing for social events and to function more effectively.

DAVE HANSON, OCB liaison chairman, worked to coordinate the social functions of UCLA's many organizations. Active on campus, Dave was a member of SEC Col Club, Yeoman, Gold Key, ROTC, and Conning Tower. His post-graduation hopes lie in the field of politics.

welfare board

With attention focused on Mike Inman, Welfare Board members went over the outline of one of their many programs designed to promote student welfare. Transportation and housing problems were handled by the group as well as many smaller but just as important difficulties. Welfare Board activities centered in the KH cubbyhole shared with OCB.

Actively presiding over the meetings of the Welfare Board, President JOHN O'BRIEN also acted in an advisory capacity to SEC. A member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, Jack's main interests were centered in KH 210 and anywhere a Gold Key meeting might be held.

JUNE wound up four years of noteworthy NSA service for 1951 coordinator, MARGARET KESTER. Membership on Spurs, Chimes and Mortar Board distinguished her college career, and she was voted the year's most outstanding senior by her sorority, Alpha Chi Omega.

On the far left one of the original students to take the job as coordinator in the international field, Margaret KESTER, has been succeeded by MERRILL MILLER's appointment as NSA coordinator for 1951-52, following up Margaret Kester.

Spur MARGARET McHUGH served NSA as executive secretary and then as administrator in the student affairs area. Margaret also was a member of Cal Club. She will be a real loss to NSA when she transfers to Cal.

HAL KASSARJIAN was the boy who handled the regional assembly for NSA. Through Hal, NSA exchanged ideas with schools in Nevada and Hawaii. Welfare Board and Alpha Phi Omega also made demands on Hal's time.

A chairman of the program board, BEV NEMER's job was to acquaint Bruins with NSA activities. Bex had to relinquish her NSA duties in the spring when OCB called on her to take over the responsibilities of chairman.

Student-faculty relations were supervised by ERNIE KATZ, who held the title of administrator of educational affairs. Coming to NSA in February, Junior Ernie was also active in the Psych Club.

The activities of the international affairs commission were efficiently guided this year by STAN MATTHEW, who acted as chairman. A man of ideas as well as a skillful coordinator, Stan was known in IAC circles as "the man who gets things done." And he did too!

regional national students association

Reasonable and comfortable transportation was made available to Bruins by CLEM MADDOX, who served as air transport chairman.

The February foreign student tour through California owed much of its success to the ideas and organization of Chairman MARTY ROSEN.

MARY RUSSELL handled the air exchange this year, giving Bruins a chance to get culturally acquainted with foreign and other American universities.

The political situation abroad was presented and discussed by PAUL MARINCOICH and under his guidance it made much progress.

Recreation chairman DOUG FIELD, in his capacity as chairman of the Foreign Student Association, did much to keep the students busy during their stay here.

The old buggy was loaded down and sent to go. Filled with those NSA boomers . . . the international affairs commission better known as IAC. The purpose of this outfit was to make international contacts in a thorough and business-like manner and the purpose was accomplished.

During the year IAC sponsored a weekly radio show over station KFI which featured a high school group modeled on the UN General Assembly. After the broadcast students toured the television studio and explored the working of TV. IAC's radio-TV contacts were well received on every hand.

Headed by Marty Rosen, the IAC foreign student tour was a great success. Taken during the between-term period, the tour covered all parts of California. One of the first stops was San Quentin where the students were granted an interview with the warden.

Violations of university or ASUCLA regulations by students came before the members of the Student Judicial Board for preliminary judgement and referral to proper administrative bodies. Combining their analytical and critical abilities to produce impartial decisions, this all-important group was composed of DON LEON, STAN KEGEL, DOROTHY SHIELDS, TOM McENROE, JUDY BOGEN, HARVEY GONIK, and MARY ANN STEWART.

election board

Holding the dubious distinction of being there to see the sun rise over the spires of Kerckhoff the morning after the primaries, the Election Board counted its way through a strenuous year of SEC sessions, missing voids, and free dinners in the annex. ASUCLA Secretary JANE WALL and Chairman DICK PRICE were aided by BUD SHEARER, MARCIA TUCKER, DONNA REHWALD, MORRIS PEELE, and DON SWENSON.

Former basketball coach WILBUR JOHNS completed a very successful fourth year as UCLA's director of athletics. Director Johns was the university's official representative in national and conference meets.

men's athletic board

Guiding the Bruin athletic teams will be another big, busy year. Seated at the head of the table are ALPER, BOB WILKINSON, HERBIE FLAN, HERVIN ASA-DORIAN, C. Director of Athletics' Representative JANE STRONG, HERB FURTH, JONES, and DON SMITH.

Star athlete EDDIE SHELDRAKE was the appropriate choice for chairman of Men's Athletic Board, netting an important seat on SEC. A hot shot on the basketball court, Eddie was graduated as a physical education major.

If it was a sport a Bruin was interested in, he named it and URA had it. It was the job of the executive board to keep the activities of its many clubs under its various thumbs . . . coordinating all planned activities, scheduling them so that they did not conflict with other URA and campus activities, and taking care of personal club problems. The executive board members who handled this job were front row, left to right, SAM SILBER, MYRON SOFEN, VIC HOCHEE, and Miss COLVILLE; back row, BOB MELNICK, BARBARA FREUDENTHAL, NANCY CARMODY, DICK PORTER, and the board secretary.

Come to the Mardi Gras!" was the watch-word for this committee whose members spent the greater part of their time promoting that Bruin fun-time special . . . the Mardi Gras. JEANNE BRAUER, center, was chairman.

One of the many colorful attractions of the Mardi Gras midway was the Bowery Shaw, co-sponsored by AOPi and Theta Xi. Pretty carnival girls and horse-voiced barkers added authentic atmosphere.

university recreation association

Ski enthusiast DICK PORTER transferred his interests from skiing in particular to URA in general, serving as president of the university's recreational activities in addition to attending Gold Key meetings.

The busy URA program was handled with care by the 1951 council. These twenty-three represented and directed the activities of the many URA clubs which provided so much worthwhile fun for so many Uclons.

Heading the largest recreation organization on campus were, left to right, Treasurer BOB MELNICK, Secretary NANCY CARMODY, and Vice-president VIC HOCEE. President Dick Porter was there in spirit.

With Palos Verdes providing the scenery for a Photography Club outing, members took advantage of the rocks and waves to get some good seascape shots and do a little experimenting with tripods, new lenses, and a K2 filter.

A new member of the Golf Club was given instruction by an old expert in the art of holding a club, sizing up the ball, and estimating distance. Could be that by the end of the year she succeeded in making a hole in one.

Flying off into the wild blue yonder was the favorite pastime of Flying Club members, who spent their spare time taking off for cross-country trips, racing, flying, and winning flying trophies and favorable publicity on the side.

The causes of good wholesome exercise and better international understanding were promoted by members of the Folkdance Club as they studied different cultural customs and national dresses, then performed new and interesting dances.

Backstroke, sidestroke, and an ordinary dog-paddle blended to make up the fun of Swim Club members as they took time out from classes for a pool party. Club bathing beauties participated in the annual spring swim show presented in May.

ura clubs

Smiles of anticipation showed on the faces of members of the Ice Skating Club as they laced their figure and hockey skates in preparation for a couple of turns around the rink to the tune of "The Blue Danube" and "The Skater's Waltz."

Battling at the birdie with a forehand twist of the wrist, these members of the Badminton Club matched their techniques in a game of singles. The Womens' PE courts provided the meeting ground for the many game enthusiasts.

Over hill and dale, rock and rill, members of the Hiking Club went out weekly for their daily dozen. Considered some of the most healthy Bruins club members included all-day and weekend hikes in the year's fresh-air-packed agenda.

Members of the Tennis Club stood by to praise as an expert club member demonstrated the perfect serve. New members were given instruction in the techniques of the backhand and forehand drive, the lob, and the wicked slice.

With a touche and an engarde, masked members of the Fencing Club stood ready for attack before an admiring audience of professionals and novices who gave encouragement and advice from the sidelines and waited to see who would be "failed" again.

Time out from their hard work were for fun. A morning of skiing was one of the best ways to work up an appetite. But once the skis were finished, these eager beavers were anxious to spend more time at their favorite sport.

Demonstrating his expert form of bottoms-up, DON EWING took a turn down the Big Bear slopes with a practiced smoothness. "It may have looked like fun, but it was not quite as easy as it looked."

This quintet was the Ski Club executives. Back row, top left, was V.P. MARY E. LAZARUS. Secretary JUNE HOLLINGSHEAD and Treasurer DON EWING. V.P. CHUCK GRIFFIN and President RUDY SAUSER were in front.

There was nothing like relaxing in front of a big open fire. After a day of gliding over the snow on their hickory sticks, Ski Club members took life easy at the organization's Big Bear Lodge.

These Ski Clubbers were making last minute preparations before embarking on a cross-country tour. Mammoth served as the starting point for this winter holiday jaunt. Skis waxed, a set . . . let's go!

Novices got free instruction during the Thanksgiving trip to Mammoth from the club instructor, ROGER PUGH. Ready for their first lesson, beginners soon learned that practice makes perfect.

Club sponsor DON CRAM posed for a few candids with some of the club members during the Thanksgiving trip to the snowfields. Again Mammoth was the scene for this ski-time weekend.

With a solid-off by s/o DAVE McMULLEN's, the ball was sure to make a hit somewhere. Individual styles added color to alley performances, making an interesting spectator sport.

CLERICAL STAFF: JEANNE HUGHES, MEREDYTH TOURNEL, CLAIR
BUTTE, MELINETTE RA. OLO. Meredith served as fall proxy, followed up
C. S. C. by Jeanne. Co. 1000 miles closer way to Al Joffe when she left the
T. B. office for the entire year were Secretary Jeanne and
D. G. C. Jeanne Hughes.

The Bowling Club was one of the many URA activities that provided fun and relaxation for the exam-harassed students of UCLA. Its main purpose was that of supplying recreation for all Bruins who had an interest in bowling . . . novice or expert. This year there were about fifty members in the club, which consisted of students who were just learning what a strike was and those who could throw a mean curve. The club was under the direction of President Alvin Joffe and its members met every Tuesday evening at the Westwood Bowling Alley. The members were divided into ten teams and finished off the year with a grand sweepstakes tournament entered by the club's best bowlers.

E. FAUCONIER, M. COFFE, R. MELLÉN

At the end of each session, Bowling Club members anxiously chalked up their final scores, carefully checking for errors, and breathlessly hoping for a number that was at least near two-hundred. Weekly trips to the alleys were always fun and scores nearly always showed the desired improvement. C for a perfect three-hundred!

Three-fold was the job of JOHN JACKSON, who served as secretary and business manager of the Alumni Association in addition to editing the alumni magazine.

Assistant Executive Secretary WALDO EDMUNDS also coordinated the activities of the many Bruin Clubs.

In his position as president JOHN E. CANADAY coordinated the varied activities of the Alumni Association, which included the class reunions, the fall homecoming and the annual picnic. Formerly the Association's executive secretary, Canaday worked ten years with Lockheed Aircraft before occupying the presidential post.

alumni association

ASUCLA President FRED THORNLEY addressed an enthusiastic crowd at the famous annual alumni picnic. Held out on UCLA's Spaulding Field, the affair was attended by a myriad of ex-Bruins, their friends and special guests. Just one semester of university attendance entitled a Bruin to the title of an alumnus of UCLA.

Kneeled down in front of the Board were the officers of the Alumni Board. Seated left to right were MIMI PHILIPS, ALICE ALSHULER, GEORGETTE MCGREGOR and Dr. DOROTHY McVANN. Standing were RALPH ST. LEE, DR. WILLIAM BROWN, JOHN JACKSON, RICHARD VALENTINE, CLIFFORD GARNER Jr., and H. M. WAMMACK.

ASUCLA's head man, Graduate Manager WILLIAM C. ACKERMAN, supervised all student activities, including matters both social and financial. Advisor and secretary to SEC, Mr. Ackerman also served as liaison officer between student administration, alumni, faculty, and public, promoting those genial relations which kept ASUCLA running smoothly.

Ex-basketball star DON ASHEN was ASUCLA's money magnate, serving as chief cashier.

Chief Accountant REYNOLD BLIGHT put aside his books for out-of-town travel occasionally.

News-minded HARRY MORRIS, director of publications, coordinated all Bruin journalistic activities.

NORM PADGETT divided his time between assisting Bill Ackerman and coaching the Bruin rugby team.

With one eye on the budget, Purchasing Agent STAN REEL bought the supplies for ASUCLA activities.

The various ASUCLA officials were the men behind all student activities. To them fell the social and financial problems of the activities of all Bruins, in addition to the formulation and promotion of the plans for those activities. Many and varied were the responsibilities of ASUCLA with every student having some contact with most of the departments. Financial problems were handled by the accounting and auditing departments and the cashier's office. The food service took care of many hungry Bruins while those who brought their lunches were closely trailed by the custodian or chief clean-up man. The publications and photography departments and the news bureau gave Uclans the Goal Post and made the Daily Bruin and Southern Campus possible. From the warehouse to the student store went textbooks and supplies while the ticket department furnished everything from game to bus tickets. It was due to the cooperation of these departments that efficiency was achieved in ASUCLA activities.

kerckhoff hall officials

Keeping things clean in Kerckhoff Hall . . . that was the job of GUY BUCKINGHAM, chief of the custodians.

Managing the cafeteria was a full time job but ROY CULLISON still found spare minutes for a photography hobby.

VIC KELLY, director of the News Bureau, kept the world posted on the latest ASUCLA events.

Celebrating his twentieth year with USUCLA, JOE FELKER managed the receiving department.

T. D. STANFORD, the man behind the Bruin financial scenes, made sure that ASUCLA saw no red.

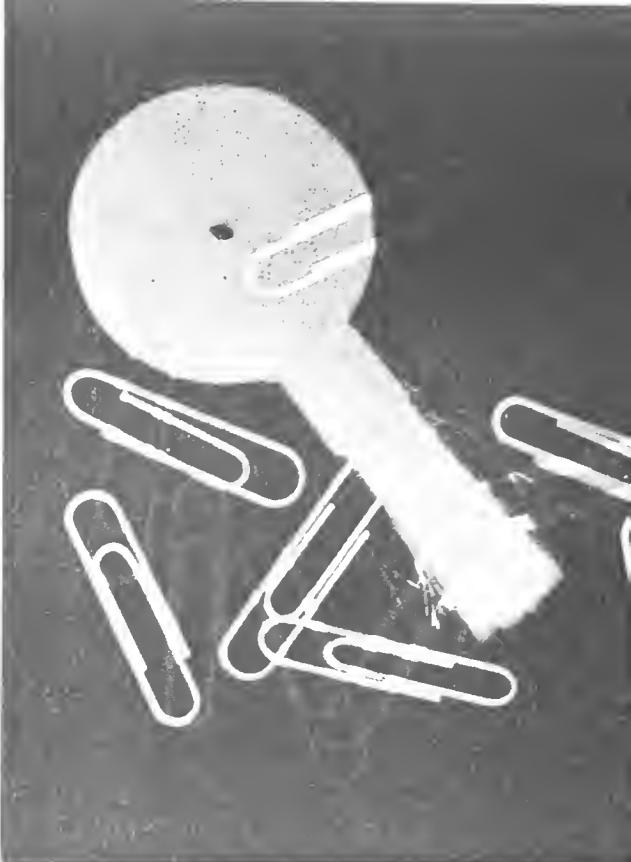

FRANK STEWART, assistant director of publications and the News Bureau, handled all publication problems.

Credit for planning the additional bookstore space went to RALPH STILLWELL, the general manager.

The man with the camera, STAN TROUTMAN, photography director, was in on all campus activities.

Modestly rating himself as artist, wit, lover, father, and husband in that order, Southern Campus designer STAN HODGE produced the subtle in both art and humor, debated whether to seek security in a teaching job or to free lance in the advertising field, secretly contemplated taking a few theater arts units to indulge his dramatic impulses.

book. With membership in Prytanean and election as permanent senior class secretary,

Alpha Chi Omega Char was recognized for her outstanding service to ASUCLA.

A bit of Trallish humor was added to the KH 304 by the presence of the associate editor, JACKIE SHAHBAZIAN ex-law potentate of the dubious organization. Combining a musical talent with journalism, Jackie moved up the scale from 1950 engravings editor to the associate spot on the 1951 book climaxing four years of Southern Campus endeavor.

While conducting Southern Campus money matters with a dramatic flourish formerly belonging only to Wall Street financiers, theater arts major FRED NELSON ruled the business office royally, directing the staff members with a firm hand and maintaining a sound financial standing for the 1951 volume, at the same time bestowing his Beta badge on

Pi Phi Shirley Kimbell and planning a June graduation for himself.

General Christmas tree and fish bowl custodian for KH 304, office beauty ANN CHANSLOR was also a party time expert in addition to holding down her normal job of photo librarian. In the spring Annie climbed out of the filing cabinet into the job of managing editor.

If the printer missed a comma, proof editor VIRGINIA ZOROTOVICH was sure to catch it with her eagle eye. Golley proof was all in a day's work for Virginia.

Sophomore wheel DEE RODRIGUEZ contributed her writing talents to the dormitory section, preserving in printed form the many activities of the living groups.

Injecting a casual air and a rollicking spirit into the fraternity copy, BARBARA McAFOOS served ably as the editor of her extremely popular section.

Playing with words from his colorful vocabulary, PETE MANN produced a superlative honor and service division, planned to switch to a career as a dramatic writer.

Tracking down mysterious seniors, senior section co-editor BARBARA STOECKLE could qualify as an expert in deciphering students' hieroglyphics.

Two thousand graduating seniors seemed like two million to senior section co-editor MARION CRADDOCK, who typed and filed away the year in KH 304.

A pun is a pun is a pun to sports editor CAM MILLER, originator of a brand of humor "comish" in nature and owner of Angus, Scotch conine terror of KH 304.

Administration editor LAURA UPDEGRAFF was an authority on the habits, hobbies, and accomplishments of most of UCLA's distinguished professors and officials.

Student government editor BEVERLY TAYLOR managed to turn in excellent copy and to find time to make an impressive grade on the senior English comprehensive.

Sorority section chief and the copy editor's reliable assistant, freshman JEAN HUNT was known for her ability to get things done well and on time.

Despite the fact that Elections Board, Rally Committee, and Uni Camp offered her free meals, MARCIA TUCKER was not to be enticed away from her first love, Southern Campus. A Kappa Kappa Gamma, Tuck proved the printer's ink in her veins by acting as 1951 engraving editor and by merit ing election to the editor's position for 1952.

Plagued all year long by the office gremlins who continually borrowed her pico ruler, copy editor MARILYN LINDSAY still managed to inspire her ten section and division editors to turn in top quality material. A Chime and Pi Delta Epsilon member, Marilyn recruited most of her Tri-Delt sisters in an all out effort to meet editor's deadlines.

Even though CAROL HEMBORG spent many an hour in the Southern Campus office directing her crew of picture posters, or spreading a little rubber cement here & there, her thoughts often wandered to her husband and pin mate Fort Ord. A Chi Omnia, Carol was regarded as an unusual editor, due to an unusual type to have around the yearbook office.

If the telephone rang at even in the morning or eleven at night, it was probably photography editor BILL ROBERTS trying to get the reader awakened individual to make a Southern Campus picture appointment. An entrepreneur and who knew how to mix business with pleasure, Bill planned his Rubbed Ed badas on another Southern Campus, ie. Colette Rosner.

recording another year

MARGARET SCHIRACH wielded a mean mat knife as assistant organizations editor, as she carved senior and organization pictures into their proper shapes and fastened them on huge cardboards with the aid of the art major's best friend, rubber cement.

All the informal photography in Southern Campus came from the cameras of STAN TROUTMAN and his crew of dependable shutter clickers. The second floor photo lab was Stan's domain, as he produced pictures for every ASUCLA publication.

The man behind the men behind Southern Campus was sales manager BILL EICHENLAUB, on whose dynamic and financially successful campaign the rest of the book's operations depended. Choosing yearbook hucksters with sales appeal, Phi Psi Bill superintended living group and general campus canvassing with a practiced hand.

mixing business and fun

Those clever posters decorating every available bulletin board on campus and within the living groups were the handiwork of artist KAY BOURNE.

When the staff needed a shot of enthusiasm, FRAN THOMPSON wrote a poem or dreamed up a startling and book-selling display for the Kerckhoff show case.

With a winning smile WIN MILLET kept the graduating seniors on the steep and narrow path toward Manning's Studio and their senior picture reservations.

PEGGY BURBANK exploded Southern Campus into the public eye with a splashy publicity campaign involving a multi-colored nightmare called Used ChevraletA.

As contract manager on the business staff SHARLA PERRINE tried her mathematical ability as well as her patience in arranging organization page contracts.

If a salesman needed coaching on the right way to sell a Southern Campus, he just listened to the smooth line of HANK SUNDERLAND, assistant sales manager.

Having an office staff ready when there was work to be done and having work available to keep the secretaries busy was CLAIRE JACKSON'S double-trouble job.

Assistant organizations editor MAGGIE SCHIRACH put staff members through their paces, instructing them when and where to slice that picture. Eager learners were LOUISE MACLIN, GLORIA GARDNER, FRANCIS REY NOLDS, PAT MARTIN, BEVERLY HUBBARD, BETTY JEAN CICCIARELLI, and CAROL McGAFFEY, who were experts themselves by the end of the year.

A more flash happy group of photographic would be hard to find than this positive set of negative enthusiasts, who were in the first row JACK TOWERS, head man STAN TROUTMAN, and BALDWIN BAKER; second row WILL JOHNSON, WALT KEESHEN, RAY CIPPERLY. Every type of informal yearbook picture from sport to graduation was shot by these dark room dwellers.

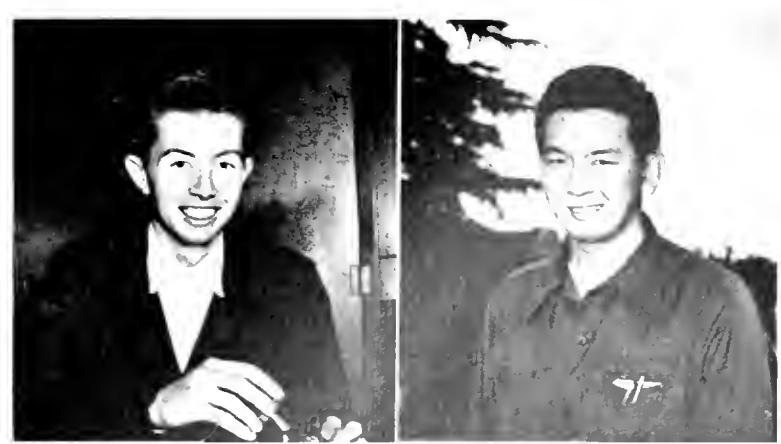

These six people could sell a refrigerator to an eskimo if they tried, but mostly they sold Southern Campuses to eager Bruin buyers. During the three week campaign VIRGINIA FOWLER, RITA TOAL, BILL EICHENLAUB, ANDREA CLAUSEN, HANK SUNDERLAND, and KAY BOURNE spent most of their time rounding up prospects with five dollars and fifty cents ready.

Between pounding out some fancy quanade on the Southern Compound's typewriters and doing a little ea work to interview a elec, the 1951 group of copy writers got their introduction to college life in the hard way as SALLY NELSON, FRAN RUBENSTEIN, MARILYN BASE, DIANE WELLS, and BEVERLY HUBBARD would read + testify.

Ready to type a letter, to alphabetize a file or to file innumerable pictures at a moments notice were office secretaries BARBARA VANCE and COLLETTE POSNER who enjoyed the job no matter how odd it was.

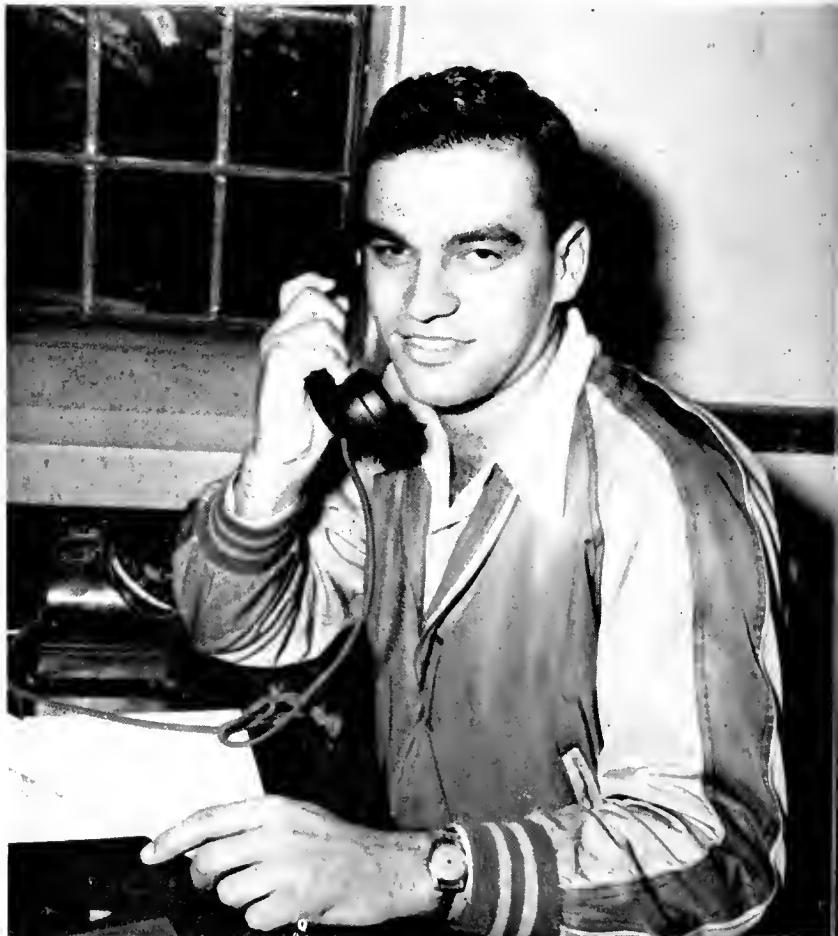

The editors in chief of the 1951 yearbook were CHUCK GRIFFIN and ROBERT COOPER. These two, whose three years of experience in editing the yearbook were of great value to the 1951 staff, will be missed.

Daily

Although he rated 4F with the service, fall editor GENE FRUMKIN ranked 1A with DB staffers. A quiet, dignified pipe smoker, Gene puffed away over some of the year's best political editorials. While majoring in English he worked his way up during his four years to king spot on the Bruin.

MARTIN "Bow-wow" BROWER, one time winner of the best news writer plaque, took over the spring editarship of the Bruin. A joker at heart, Martin kept the campus laughing with his comic editorials. Likeable and easy-going, Martin was past city editor and associate editor.

Bruin

JERRY SCHLAPIK, fall semester managing editor, served as acting editor for a short time in the spring. A graduating senior physics major Jerry was a member of Pi Lambda Phi and F Delta Epsilon.

BOB MYERS, my classmate in the fall semester, supervised the lab projects and generally kept things in order. As a major, Bob worked hard and did a great job.

Famous for evertraing wastebaskets and generally losing his temper was spring city editor PETE GRABER. Pete, a political science major formed the Glutz roofing section at basketball games and also won a best night editor award.

Campus crime reporter JOE LEW S served as fall desk editor and spring night editor. Although calm and collected in the office Joe was chief cut-up at DB parties.

Considered the hardest working staffer in the history of the DB fall night editor JACK HEFFLEY spent his evenings at the shop poring over copy.

JACK WEBER, a member of the DB staff for three semesters, was elected the best news writer for the fall semester. He filled the post of desk editor.

Hidden behind "The Circle" all spring was VIVIAN SHULMAN, desk editor. She was noted for her efficiency and promptness, assets to any newspaper.

An all-might master of the printing press was JOHN MACGUIRE, spring night editor. Personal business took John away from the staff before the semester ended.

General all-around handi-woman ANN COOPER lent her many talents to do most anything that had to be done in KH 212. Ann's cheerful smile was always welcome.

Active as Welfare Board's student discount head, KAREN NAMSON was also hopping as a DB night editor. English major Karen hoped for a career in magazine writing.

A quietly effective fall desk editor, BILL INMAN handed out assignments to the cubs, checked returned copy, and lent a helping hand to the night editor.

CARL CAIN holds the coveted reputation of being one of the best news writers on the DB staff. His talents advanced him to the job of desk editor.

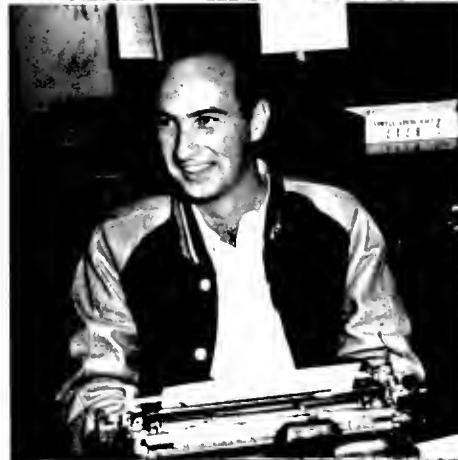

Newly-elected sports editor, BOB SEIZER covered basketball and swimming for the DB. Last fall he was awarded the best sports writer plaque.

presses

Patient RUTH SOLMITZ directed her energy toward fulfilling the duties of desk editor for the spring semester and was noted for her good-humored efficiency.

Although a gain to the armed service, JIM ADAMS was a loss to the DB. As fall sports writer he turned out some of the best copy to appear on the year's sports page.

Top reviewer on spring '51's Bruin staff was desk editor JACK RENG STORFF. Jack, an English major was a native of Los Angeles and was partial to its beach weather.

Head of the DB Advisory Board for the year, JACK RHODES was also in charge of the feature page and worked on the interim staff of the paper.

Well-liked LARRY SWINDELL faithfully served the Bruin during the spring semester by filling two posts those of night editor and night sports editor.

Hiding behind his horned-rimmed glasses, EUGENE BLANK, seemingly a strict intellectual, turned out some down-to-earth DB copy as a desk editor.

With a desire and a drive to be top... GEORGE GARRIGUES will be the best man for the job. From dusk to man night he spent his time in the shop as night editor.

roar

Three semesters of hard DB work netted AUDREY KOPP membership in Spurs, sophomore women's honorary. She rose rapidly to the job of spring desk editor.

From "a cub and minor reporter to spring night and desk ed," summarizes the rapid rise of IRENE RADDON. She also served as campus political reporter.

The blaring trumpet in KH 212 was the property of MARV SACKS, who just couldn't get away from the Bruin Band. Marv served as sports night editor.

Scouting around for the latest news in politics was the job of RICHARD SCHENK, political reporter. He also served as spring night editor.

Zany cartoonist LEONARD PRITIKIN, he of Scop and Bruin fame, livened up the feature page with his masterly cartoons on school life. Result was the fall feature page award as the best contributor.

A transfer student from Stephens College RUE COREY invaded the DB at the beginning of the spring semester and took over the editorship of the social page, adding many new feature ideas.

For the dance of the people for the big party when JERRY WEINER arrived fall party, winter and spring night after. Officially Jerry organized the Dance of the Seven Ruler.

Vivacious red headed SONYA LEVIN managed to curb her proverbial temper long enough to serve as a calm associate editor during the fall and a capable night editor during the spring semester.

"Author of that illustrious column In the Press Box," HERB FURTH rose from full night sports editor to spring editor of the sports page, producing colorful copy for eager sports fans.

Kappa Sig VARNEL JORDAN carefully supervised the Bruin business staff from February on. Besides seeing that the Bruin broke even, Varnel also oversaw a certain grammar school group. A June graduation was in order for Mr. J.

The advertising talents of PHIL GARDNER netted him the position of fall business manager, carrying on the Kappa Sig tradition. "It's gotta sell" Gardner supervised eye-catching copy and kept the Bruin in the black during his five month term.

behind the typewriters

The classified ad section was handled by cute Alpha Chi TERRY SMITH. Uclans got quick results through ads placed in the Bruin and Terry more than had her hands full.

Besides seeing that Uclans got their Daily Bruins on time, FRANK UNDERWOOD was also busy on OCB. This Kappa Sig was to be congratulated for a job well done.

GENE "Happy Glaw" GOULD turned on the charm for prospective advertisers and won for himself the job of spring circulation manager on the business staff.

The Bruin office was always in tip-top shape thanks to office manager JEAN RHODES. Jean was the efficient gal who could locate anything at a moment's notice.

Production Manager STAN FELDMAN's main interest . . . boring Scop . . . was building radios. Technical perfectionist Stan took them apart and put them together but mostly listened to their classical music. Stan often held up Scop production because a few periods were missing.

Voted the most likely to succeed, although who knows what, JOAN LEVEY, managing editor, was one of the office "characters." Joan was a sharp gal who knitted with a vengeance and talked a man's language, thereby holding her own in the Scop office. She composed French Revolutionary songs on the side.

Pint-size BOB ENGLISH had the full-size job of Scop editor. An English major, Bob brought his writing talents and his literary background to bear in putting out a magazine that was noted for its good, healthy sex interest. A swimming enthusiast on the side, Bob was a member of the URA Swim Club and helped with its annual swim show.

Two men responsible for those fine photographs that graced the pages of Scop were BALDWIN BAKER and RAY CIPPERLEY. Taking no chances on getting any results other than perfection itself, the boys carefully checked their light meters before snapping the shutters. Baker holds the flash while Cipperley reads the meter. Scop was only one of the Kerckhoff stops for these busy fellows.

FRANK HEWITT, post editor, served as a writer and general all-around handiman. A promoter of sophisticated party games, Frank also did professional radio writing and tape recording.

Balancing the gay humor with a little solid seriousness was JERRY WILLIAMS, associate editor. An English major, Jerry's efficiency and talent netted him the editor's post for 1952.

Associate Editor RON HURWIT was a "developing" writer. An avid reader of satire, Ron added humorous stories and some equally humorous poetry to the literary magazine.

Steadying Scop's staff was the old married man, RAY JAMES, associate editor. In addition to writing humor and satire, Roy pointed out possible pitfalls for the magazine.

MORRIS BURELOFF, cartoon editor, spiced Scop with his risque cartoons and poetic parody. He planned to use his creative talents in the field of newspaper or magazine publications.

Associate Editor GEORGE COULTER, hailing from down Arkansas way, added the southern brand of humor to Scop. A member of Conning Tower, George will see navy duty come fall.

Associate Editor LOU BARTFIELD wrote the feature articles. Considered the staff's most controversial writer, he authored "Enlightenment" and stimulated feature page comment in the DB.

Considered the most outstanding writer on the staff, SHELLEY LOWENKOFF served as an associate editor. Absent-minded Shelley drove cars on sidewalks and wrote combustible and subtle humor.

Taking charge of the fashion page in February, SONYA LEVIN did a job that was truly first rate . . . spring fashions really bloomed. Blond JUDY REED checked up on some fashion copy that has to be typed. Starting her Scop career as an office secretary in September, Judy was graduated to assistant office manager in February for a job well done.

JEAN HUNT was one of the two responsible for the sparkling fashion pages of the fall issues of Scop. Fashion came into its own during this past year and provided a full-time job in organization and public relations for this active freshman.

all campus magazine

Art Editor DAVE LAUREN was a most valuable member of the Scop staff. Not only did he keep the campus laughing with his academic humor cartoons but he also had a beach home in Malibu which served as the ideal location for Scop parties.

UCLA's favorite cartoonist, LEONARD PRITIKIN, was a busy man, holding down the job of associate art editor and also that of production manager. A jack of all trades, Leonard was the master of them all as well, an enviable position.

The snappy fashion shots that appeared in Scop were to the credit of ELOUISE WOHLWEND, fashion editor. She promoted the display of campus clothes as modeled by campus personalities and added a definite feminine appeal to the magazine.

NORM Dod JACOBSON business manager, kept his staff occupied with his jester type of humor. A writer of sorts, Norm was in demand at Scop parties because he was the sole owner and player of that new addict instrument, the uke.

Exchange Editor JEAN PERRY traded Scop humor for various other brands of college laughter during this year. SUE HOWARD, perched on the desk, held the fort in the office, jumping from a lowly secretary to assistant office manager.

Managing the Scop office sounded easier than it actually was and the full-time job fell to NANETTE SULLIVAN, who, with her characteristic efficiency, attempted to keep the humorists in line and see that the secretarial work was done on time.

Scop circulation was handled by JOHN TOWLEY with business-like efficiency. Bruins found an unending supply of Scop humor at their disposal when distribution time came around. A small ten-cent levy didn't increase John's business one bit.

publications board

Coordinating the activities of the four major campus publications . . . the Daily Bruin, Scop, Southern Campus and Spotlight . . . and posing on the slates for new positions was the job of the Publications Board. Board members were, seated, left to right, GENE FRUMKIN, Daily Bruin editor, fall semester; CHAR WEISS, Southern Campus editor; BOB ENGLISH, Scop editor; JERRY SCHLAPIK, Daily Bruin managing editor, fall semester; LEE MONTELEONE, Publications Board secretary; and JACKIE SHAHBAZIAN, Southern Campus associate editor. Standing, left to right, were PHIL GARDNER, Daily Bruin business manager, fall semester; HARRY MORRIS, publications director; BRENT BOWEN, presidential appointee; SID BASS, Spotlight editor; NORM JACOBSON, Scop business manager; and FRED NELSON, Southern Campus business manager.

LEE MONTELEONE, a UCLA graduate and ASUCLA's publications secretary, diligently took accurate minutes for Publications Board and worked with the Daily Bruin business staff. During the football season she was assistant editor of The Goal Post.

HARRY MORRIS served UCLA for over twenty years as Coliseum manager and editor of The Goal Post. This year, in addition to these two activities, he saw that all ASUCLA publications met their deadlines and stayed within the boundaries of their budgets. He also served as game manager for all of UCLA's football and basketball games.

pi delta epsilon

Leaving pico rulers, mot knives, and other badges of the trade behind them, local members of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary, filled the year with partytime, guest speakers, and more partytime. Talks by journalists Robert Harris, L.A. Times; Leonard Riblett, Examiner; and Robert Kirsch, Hollywood Citizen News, highlighted the year. The party parade, led by Uncle Frank and his fun gomes, included the spaghetti banquet and the high-powered pledge production of "The Thing," scripted by playwrights Baker and Pritikin. Climaxing the year was the presentation of PiDE awards to outstanding staffers Char Weiss of SoCam, Frank Hewitt of Scap, and Gene Frumkin and Martin Brower of the Daily Bruin.

The man who wielded the brush that kept football spectators happy at half-time was expert stunt designer CHUCK GRIFFIN, who also smiled his way through a year as editorial assistant on Southern Campus and as a member of Gold Key and Pi Delta Epsilon.

"Blue up there . . . BLUE!" How popular Rally Committee Chairman JAY LILLYWHITE managed to keep his voice during a season of frantic and efficient stunt directing was a riddle that Bruins were unable to solve. But keep his voice he did, and he also remained calm enough to see that his committee functioned smoothly and effectively throughout the fall campaign.

rally committee

"Smiling destruction" was the half-time threat as the Frontier Bruin brought Injun ruin, a battlingly brilliant climax to the Homecoming celebration.

While the Bruins showed one in honor of their guests, the Oregon State fans cried "Beaver!" and gave up the ghost to a hard-driving UCLA eleven.

Bruins paid a friendly tribute to their visiting foes from the Farm." However, this Uclan card stunt produced the only gleeful Indian of the day.

Providing the impetus to Bruin football spirit was the constantly plodding Rally Committee which ushered, planned and executed stunts, and distributed seating passes to those who rated. Guided by genial Jay Lillywhite, the group also did its share of cheering, booing, and party-timing. Following the Trojan fracas in November, Rally Cam met for a shindig at Stunt Designer Chuck Griffin's home, and Irwin Rickel showed colored films of the previous year's stunts. In the usual tradition, the season was topped by the annual banquet in the spring, at which thanks were offered and elections were held. Just as Rally Cam was proud of its school, UCLA was proud of its Rally Committee, one of the nation's most streamlined.

Keeping Gold Key in turning condition was a task which required diligence and perseverance on the part of the honorary's officers, who were, left to right, Delta Sig CRAIG LEWIS, Sigma Chi CHUCK NOGLE, Lambda Chi JACK BRATTON, and Delta Sig TED NISSEN. Any day, at any time, one or more of them was certain to be working in one of Kerckhoff's dark corners.

With Delta Sig Craig Lewis and Lambda Chi Jack Bratton serving as fall and spring presidents, respectively, Gold Key turned successfully through another season as UCLA's upper division men's service honorary. Membership was limited to fifty in this organization, which stressed honor rather than service. Nevertheless, the men found time to usher at Spring Sing and other important campus events and to boost school spirit in general. Sociably, the year featured an all-honorary beer bust in which the group participated with its lower division counterpart, Yeomen, as well as with Chimes and Spurs. The guys with the blue-and-gold trimmed white sweaters again proved that Bruin honoraries are strictly honorable.

Active senior women with ideas comprised the membership of Mortar Board, which boasted as its officers four of UCLA's busiest co-eds. They were, left to right, CECILE BONNET, who was fall Red Cross chairman; JOANNE PENROSE, who worked for the Y Coop; President DOT CRAWFORD, who was also a TROLL about town; and SUNNY KATSH, who was spring Red Cross leader.

mortar board

With leadership, scholarship, and service as prerequisites and Dot Crawford as president, Mortar Board concluded a year of activity as one of eighty-three such senior women's honoraries throughout the United States. Each local chapter was required to have between five and twenty members, all with grade averages of 1.6 and over. Founded on the Westwood campus in 1923 under the unusual name of Kalai-Agathai, the organization became part of the national honorary in October, 1939. Attempting to unite girls from various phases of student activity into a discussion and solution group, Mortar Board climaxed its busy year with the annual tea presented in May, which honored outstanding female leaders in Kerckhoff and campus affairs.

Anything but a music society, Chimes nevertheless worked out intricate harmonies in performing services for UCLA. Formerly called Key and Scroll, the group merged with the national honorary for junior women and gained its present name. Outstanding activity of the year was the annual Clothes Closet drive, held in conjunction with Spurs, which provided Bruins on a limited budget with campus wardrobes and restocked the Chimes Clothes Closet for another year. The girls offered invaluable aid at the dean's coffee hours and ushered at the "I" House festival. They also joined in a dinner with their Trojan chapter, where ideas and university aid were exchanged. With Jayce Sheets as president Chimes served the school "with bells on."

"Bleeding the Bruins" was the goal of Spur's, sophomore women's honorary, as it participated with vigor in the fall Red Cross blood donation drive. President Pat Williams led the fifty females as they hustled and hustled through activities of all varieties, from the famous Pom-Pom "C" to the orientation of new students. In the spring Spur's enthusiastically co-sponsored a clothing drive to fill the Chimes' Clothes Closet, aiding students on a low clothing budget. The local chapter of a national organization, the Uclan Spur's attended both regional and national conventions during the year. Never tired of working for their school, these girls proved over and over the merit of their organization. In short, these were Spur's that "jingle, jangle, jingled" and positively refused to be "fenced in."

YEDOMEN

Setting sail in September for another year of school service were the Yeomen, active freshmen and sophomore moles. They made their greatest splashes in the activity sea by supplying invaluable aid to the Homecoming celebration's alumni picnic and shaw and the Men's Week shaw. With Jack Watkins, Vern Clark, and Ronnie Case serving at the helm, they boosted spirit at every campus rally and worked for the Uni-Camp drive and the URA Mardi Gras. Previously a strictly-soph organization, Yeomen in 1951 expanded to allow deserving freshmen to sign on as well. Faculty sponsorship for the organization was capably provided by Ralph Phelps, honorary skipper of the crew.

Providing school service with an inter-campus flavor, Cal Club completed another year of activities laden with potential and power. With Rush Backer wielding the gavel the group made guest speakers and visitors feel at home in Westwood by virtue of its friendly and gracious receptions. In December Cal Clubbers hosted delegates from other chapters at the annual convention of the All-U honorary. Since the organization is limited to twenty members on each campus, the chosen few are appointed by University President Robert Gordon Sproul. Demonstrating expert ability in selection, President Sproul had ample reason to be proud of the Bruin members for 1950-51, who fulfilled his expectations.

The complicated knots of student government were untangled by the ever ready members of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, who continued their scout work on the college level. Still helping people across streets, the men rode herd on thousands of "Frontier Bruins" at the Homecoming float parade and ushered at the show as well. Float Chairman Tom LaBouff was president in the fall and was succeeded by Chuck Borst in the spring. Both presidents strove to keep their troop one of the most active on campus, and both succeeded with little trouble, for Alpha Phi Omega was eagerly sought to perform jobs of every type. This was service with a thousand smiles.

Scouting around for something new to do for ASUCLA, the officers of Alpha Phi Omega always found a different project for their members to undertake. Leading the campus leaders were TOM LABOUFF, president, KIRK COUNTRYMAN, HAL KASSARJIAN, and PAUL POSNER, who directed the many large and small events which made the organization a going concern.

cal men

Off to a conversational start, Cal Men held on orientation open house in the men's lounge to acquaint interested Bruins with their activities. The remainder of their time was spent in less talk and more action. Led by Gaylen Blancher in the fall and Ed Hane in the spring, they did everything from constructing Queen Allyn-Smith's float for the Homecoming parade to ushering at the annual Spring Sing. Taking time out from their service efforts, Cal Men expanded socially by holding an exchange with Phi Mu social sorority and concluded each semester with a banquet at the Bit O' Sweden. Sponsored by Associate Professor of Geography Henry Bruman, the group did much to promote school spirit.

With one thought in mind, that of serving UCLA, the many members of Cal Men gathered at regular meetings to discuss the furtherance of that aim. Their officers were, left to right, ERNIE VARGAS, fall President GAYLEN BLANCHER, BOB COLE, JOE SCHEITZACH, and spring President ED HANE, who were among the most spirited men of Cal.

Activity extravaganza for Col Men last fall was the construction of the regal float on which Homecoming Queen ALLYN SMITH and her court rode in the annual parade down Westwood Boulevard.

Displaying the brand of sportsmanship for which Varsity Club was noted were three of its most devoted supporters, left to right, ASUCLA President FRED THORNLEY, Graduate Manager WILLIAM C. ACKERMAN, and Tennis Coach J. D. MORGAN. Each was vitally concerned with the fellowship, contentment, and well-being of the many talented Bruin athletes.

varsity club

The sporting blood that races through their veins pulled the men of UCLA's Varsity Club through another eventful year. Composed of lettermen in every varsity sport, the organization gained seventy-five members at its initiation banquet last fall. Ace basketball player Eddie Sheldrake directed group energy with the aid of Sponsors David Bjork and Wilbur Johns. In the spring the annual Varsity Club Day was presented with usual gusto; alumni watched the spring football game, enjoyed luncheon, and witnessed the Bruin-versus-Trojan track meet. With bigger and better Bruins on the battlefield of athletic endeavour, Varsity Club proved that rugged Uclans are also friendly and spirited.

Serving as president of Varsity Club and chairman of MAB proved to be merely sidelines to hoop-happy EDDIE SHELDRAKE, who was named a member of the "Little All-American" basketball team for the second consecutive year.

alpha lambda delta

Flashing their 2.5 averages, members of the freshman women's scholastic honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta, elected Renee Chudnoff and Ursula Greenbaum, respectively, to preside at their fall and spring meetings. With a program designed for well-rounded collegiate life, the organization sponsored philanthropic and social events galore, in addition to participating in such campus activities as the AWS Christmas stocking drive and the URA Mardi Gras. At the beginning of each semester the traditional, appropriately-named "Smarty Party" was held for the purpose of introducing new members. In these many ways Alpha Lambda Delta proved that its members were campus conscious as well as book conscious.

Freshmen who made their marks were duly elected to honored membership in Phi Eta Sigma, which offered them added incentive for continued marksmanship. Guiding the group were, left to right, ELWIN SWENSEN, graduate advisor; EDWARD WITKE, secretary; JOSEPH KOPIN, president, and JOHN BOEHNLEIN, vice-president.

phi eta sigma

Poised on the peak of scholastic achievement in their freshman year, the members of Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary, undertook a large-scale tutoring program for lower division students under the guidance of John Gioia, fall president. Believing that education should be well rounded, the men held an exchange with their female counterparts, the girls of Alpha Lambda Delta. Joe Kopin, spring president, held high the symbolic key and plaque as he represented the Bruin faction at the honorary's national convention in Texas. With these and other activities to spur them on the members of this scholastic honorary aimed at the possession of a Phi Beta Kappa key upon graduation.

Those "girls," EDNA HUMMEL and ERNESTINA STOCKERT, joined DANIEL GALLIVAN and the aggregation of Kelps to rock the Hollywood Bowl with their roaring rendition of "John and Marcia." In the words of the famous admiral recently recalled from Constantinople, this was one Spring Sing performance that didn't "peter out."

Being the wackiest wits in Westwood was only a minor occupation of the Kelps, who vied with Trolls for that distinction. These men were more interested in singing on the steps of Royce Hall every Wednesday and parodying the trojan (this should be capitalized?) football team on the turf of the coliseum. Pogo-sticking his way through a second and slimmer year as Low Potentate, Ed Hummel, along with numerous other low individuals, led these "ashes of seaweed" . . . that's Webster's definition . . . because he most fully measured up to the qualifications of his office. Most noteworthy activity of the year was the unusual appearance made by the Kelps in the Spring Sing . . . they sprang and sang!

"A Troll," says Webster, "is a supernatural being, conceived sometimes as a dwarf, sometimes as a giant, fabled to inhabit caves, hills, and like places." The old boy could be right. Trolls, the zany organization for the disorganized, was certainly composed of both dwarfs and giants with a few of normal, though not too normal, size thrown in. Their cave was the coop, their hills were those of Bel Air (many's the party), and "like places" referred to the beach where they held their pledge breakfast fiasco at three a.m. What Webster did not know is that they formed an all-female union with the sole purpose of shriveling Kelp. This operation was performed whenever and wherever.

Those who admit an affinity for the pen, typewriter and faithful service are sure to be members of the Secretariat Society. Typing, shorthand, and ready wit seem to characterize the girls of Secretariat, who never tired of the first two or bared anyone with the third. Haunting KH 204B, they were ever eager to assist any ASUCLA official or organization in the need of secretarial assistance. With Marge Frambach as president and Phyllis Brownfield, Ruth Rogers, and Judy Reed rounding out the cabinet, the group found time for social events in addition to their duties. The big moment socially came near the end of the year when the annual banquet was held for the purpose of electing new officers. Constantly growing in size and importance, Secretariat reached a high of more than forty members, the cogs behind the wheels of Kerckhoff.

ORGANIZATIONS

Counting on a co-educational membership to spark the society's activities, the presiding officers of UCLA's group of number enthusiasts scored another successful year in the big black book. Statistics proved capable leadership lay in the hands of JOHN R. PERRIN, vice-president; RON MINSK, secretary; ORRIN KABAVER, president; and JERRY ENGEL, treasurer.

accounting

Writing off another year in the black, members of the Accounting Society closed the fiscal year with their semi-annual end-of-the-semester banquet. Toasts were raised to the two presidents of the past year, Orrin Kabaker and John Perrin, who served in that order. Ever seeking knowledge, the co-educational organization sponsored lectures by visiting CPA's, dignitaries, and firemen from Kansas City. Highlighting the year's endeavours was a guided tour through the accounting department of the Lockheed Aircraft Plant. The society attempted through these contacts with the professional world to offer its members a glimpse of things to come and prove the practical value of accounting.

Blue books never worried the girls of Alpha Chi Delta, for they discovered that education, like a ledger, could be easily balanced. Led by, left to right, President JOYCE BURGESS, MARGIE CONSTANCE, and EDNA SHORT, they plodded through a pair of busy semesters during which they were never impractical . . . well, practically never.

alpha chi delta

A coalition of female bus ad, bus ed, and econ majors, Alpha Chi Delta, honorary sorority, completed a year of diversified activity sparked by the leadership of President Jayce Burgess. Topping the list of events was the sponsoring of the annual picnic for the faculty and other students of the School of Business Administration. However, the achievement of which Alpha Chi Delta was particularly proud was the award given to the girl in each of its three departments who had maintained the highest grade average over a period of two years. Thus, combining pleasure with business, Alpha Chi Delta did much to aid its members both in the collegiate world and the business world.

alpha chi sigma

Beakers and Bunsen burners might well symbolize Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity, which this year celebrated its sixteenth anniversary on the Westwood campus. With President Roy Whiteker mixing the chemicals, a compound of work and pleasure was brewed to keep the members hopping. On the serious side, Alpha Chi Sigma tutored freshmen and presented seminars for them. Delegates were sent to the district convention at Paso Robles, where the national society was represented by its California chapters. Occasionally exploding into social activity, the chemists held three rush stags and later journeyed in a body to Cal for the football fracas.

alpha delta sigma

To effectively bridge the gap between college life and careers in advertising was the goal of the men of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity. Lectures by top-notch executives in the field punctuated a year filled with fervent activity, which included an explosive publicity campaign for Southern Campus. With Norm Jacobson as president, the group wrote, edited, published, and circulated a brochure containing information concerning its members and their achievements. Its purpose was to aid the men in procuring post-graduation employment by distributing the publication to prominent advertisers. In short, Alpha Delta Sigma exemplified the seriousness of ambition in modern students.

Students must do more than parlez-vous to gain membership in Alpha Mu Gamma, UCLA's foreign language honorary. They must achieve a 3.0 average for two semesters in a foreign language course, be enrolled in a third of the same, and have a 1.5 average in other university work. This campus apparently had an abundance of brilliant language lovers, for the honorary listed over one hundred members for 1950-51. With Phi Beta Harvey Grossman acting as president, the group bounded through a round of activities. They dined, danced, and listened to lecturers, all under the capable guidance of Sponsors Dr. Frank Reinch and Dr. Eli Sobel.

Proving that language was not a barrier but a bridge to the furthering of understanding among the family of nations, the members of Alpha Mu Gamma were capably led by President HARVEY GROSSMAN, Secretary MARJORIE DACE, and Vice-President RICHARD HOROWITZ.

Crowded with future bureaucrats, the American Society for Public Administration functioned principally to inform its members of employment opportunities in government, to offer them practical government contacts and to publish a news bulletin announcing civil service examinations. With approximately fifty student members and fifteen national professional members, the organization also took educational field trips to local governmental agencies and heard panel discussions by speakers of experience in the field. Presidents John Dennis and Charles Norris fostered understanding of public administration and management. At informal social affairs members practiced cutting red tape.

Climaxing the year by spreading the splendor of the "Arabian Nights" over the campus with its dance of that name, the Arab American Club showed other Bruins how to successfully cement relations between native and foreign students. The spectacle of this combined dance and show was merely one in a chain of social and cultural events designed to bring the Near East atmosphere to UCLA. Another outstanding activity of the year was a pageant of Arabian culture entitled "Eid Al Adha," a colorful celebration of the great feast of the Moslems. With a membership composed of both Arabians and Americans the organization was commanded by Amin El-Gamassy.

arab american

Arabic and Indian shows and music highlighted the society's spectacular celebration, "Eid Al Adha," which began an active year. During the course of the evening, Bruins were treated to typical Arabian and Indian delicacies and acquainted with various customs of those exotic lands beyond the seas, furthered the understanding of a vastly different culture.

Arabs and Americans gathered forces in this organization for the purpose of exchanging cultural ideas. Working and planning together, they fostered a deeper understanding between Bruins of varied backgrounds. With a calendar which combined educational and social activities, the group never lacked abundant interest for its members.

beta gamma sigma

Whiz kids of the School of Business Administration, the members of Beta Gamma Sigma chose Bruin Alumni President John Canaday as an honorary member this year. By receiving this distinction Mr. Canaday joined a crowd of intellectual students and faculty members in an organization which numbered approximately sixty-five mental giants among its ranks. The group, presided over by Roger Korrenbrock, began an extensive publicity campaign during the spring semester, the purpose being to acquaint business students more thoroughly with the facts and figures of the national honorary. The group officially closed the spring semester with the annual initiation banquet.

A 2.5 average was not a dream but a reality to the members of Beta Gamma Sigma, business honorary, who were capably directed by the year's officers, left to right, Dr. ROBERT TANNENBAUM, vice-president, faculty sponsor, and professor of personnel management; ROGER KARRENBROCK, president; and DICK KARRENBROCK, treasurer.

Jovial JIM MAKRIS provided punch and pleasantries at Bruin Host meetings, over which he presided. Never tired of giving his all for campus coordination and unity, Jim made it a point to appear at each of the organization's affairs. His presence assured that a party would be entertaining and enjoyable.

Genial hosts and hostesses to their fellow students, the members of Bruin Host board were ever ready with a smile and a handshake. Their small neighborhood gatherings became a by-word in campus social life. The officers were, left to right, LAURA DUCLOS, President JIM MAKRIS, BILL FOCHLER, and DOROTHY MELE.

bruin host

Adding a personal touch to the campus life of UCLA's commuting crowd was the major aim of Bruin Host, active service organization. A small but efficient group planned and presented ten parties, five each semester, during the past year. The parties were all held in private homes and attended by approximately thirty Bruins from the surrounding neighborhoods. Both graduate and undergraduate students were extended a cordial welcome and urged to participate in bridge games and dancing. Dionne Marcil served as president of the organization, which was supported by ASUCLA, functioning in close coordination with the vice-president's office.

"Five no trump," "Double," "Re-double." Bridge was a popular get-acquainted game at Bruin Host events, which were held in private homes for the purpose of drawing together Bruins who lived in the same neighborhoods. Refreshments were served, and conversation was the featured diversion of these invigorating sessions.

With thermometers and rubbing alcohol handy, the Bruin Nurses were always ready for duty. Although serious in their ambitions, the girls found time to laugh at the antics of their officers, left to right, Secretary BETTY MITCHELL, Vice-president ESTHER ANOYO, President PATTY AYERS, Publicity Chairman ROSE MARIE HAGEMEIER, and Social Chairman SUE MILLMAN.

Graduate nurses, of whom the Bruin Nurses Club is composed, assisted at the birth of the Pre-Nursing Club last fall and did much towards nurturing that organization to blooming health. This, in addition to the group's usual professional and social activities, made their calendar a full one. Presidents Patricia Ayers in the fall and Kay Wainwright in the spring kept the thermometer reading slightly above the normal throughout two semesters of such affairs as pot-luck dinners, hay rides, and dances. At each monthly meeting guest speakers dwelt on various phases of the public health nursing field, in which the fifty members expressed a vital interest.

business education

Official objective of the Business Education Association was to forecast future opportunities for its aspiring white-collar workers. The organization's seventy-five members jained forces with the business education staff of the university to participate in professional activities which featured lectures by leaders in the world af work. Meetings were held each month and were often attended by alumni of the department. Commanded by Gene O'Rourke in the fall and Dick Newell in the spring, the Bruin naval science honorary, Canning Tower, enjoyed a varied social calendar. Proving their might and mettle, the men in the blue and white held date exchanges with four social sororities and gathered for many informal bull-sessions. Spring activities featured the annual "Pirate's Den" costume party, naturally in the nautical motif, and spotlighted the also-annual "Stripe and Star" formal, at which the Navy did things up royally. Requiring only enrollment in naval science and "C" average in the university, Canning Tower achieved its aim of increasing fellowship in the ranks, and providing good times for all.

Sea-going Bruins took justified pride in their outfit and in its neat and natty officers, who were, left to right, BRUCE YOUNG, BUD SCHEARER, ALLAN STROM, fall Commander GENE O'ROURKE, faculty adviser Lieutenant GILLILAND, and spring Commander DICK NEWELL. William Kasza and Lee Wexler, fall and spring presidents, led the thirty members through a multitude of services to the art department, including the designing of posters and the construction of exhibits. In addition Delta Epsilon sponsored three scholarships to aid deserving artists at UCLA. All and all, these Bruin brush-and-palette enthusiasts were too busy to let their hair grow long.

engineering honor society

Eagerly awaiting its acceptance into Tau Beta Pi, national engineering hanarary, UCLA's Engineering Honor Society completed its fourth year of activity in Westwood. Composed of interested engineers in the top eighth of the junior class and the top fifth of the senior class, the group chose Bob Davis as its fall president and Tom Ellis as its spring leoder. Under their direction and that of Spansar Edward Taylor, the compass and straightedge kings conducted junior college students on a tour through the engineering department and held a slide rule seminar for curious Bruins. The men also published the Student News Letter and tutored classmates who requested assistance in any course.

With true analytic ingenuity, the Engineering Honor Society helped contribute to the mathematical interests of campus life. Engineered by Vice-President MAURICE POLLACK, Faculty Sponsar EDWARD TAYLOR, President ROBERT DAVIS, and Secretary JAMES RIOPELLE, tours and lectures found ready response omong technicians and laymen alike.

Bringing the east to Westwood, Epsilon Pi Delta, club for Chinese Bruins, proved that the twain do sometimes meet. Basically a social organization, the fraternity's co-ed membership chopped its way through a maze of activities of varied purposes. With Ed Lew and Randy Gee serving as fall and spring presidents, respectively, the group presented many elite affairs, including a semi-formal Easter dance in Hollywood and an annual picnic in Griffith Park. Plans for philanthropic expansion progressed with the proposal of a freshman scholarship to be awarded on the basis of high school grades, the award being made annually starting in the fall of 1951. In short, Epsilon Pi Delta put campus events on an international plane.

Prospering under the leadership of President Earl Heintz, the Geographic Society enjoyed a busy season. Whirling off early in the year, activities reached the top almost immediately with the gala international costume party at which members appeared sporting the dress of various nations. In a more practical vein, field trips were taken to the Frazier Mountain area, Palomar, and Idyllwild. Lively parties were tossed after each jaunt with the purpose of showing movies and slides to review the recently completed trip. Also on the agenda was a guided tour of the Los Angeles Harbor area. Open to all Bruins with an interest in geography, the society was sponsored by Dr. Ruth Baugh and the UCLA geography department.

With a map in one hand and a friendly handshake lurking in the other, each leader of the Geographic Society did his best to keep the group hustling. The officers were, left to right, BOB PANN, HARR ETTE HUFFMAN, JEAN PERRY, GWEN HASKELL, DON PHILLIP, PHYLLIS BAILEY, MARY ANN MARTIN and BETTE BOTTGER, all lover's of latitude and longitude.

geographic society

Trucking off on another geographic adventure, the group combined an escape from traditional classroom work with plenty of fresh air and also acquired information valuable in current school studies.

Suckers for a good time, members of the group charted a course through a year of activities which included both social and educational interests all designed to coordinate geography and the UCLA campus.

Seeing stars under educational circumstances, members of the society were fascinated by the largest lens in the world, located at Palomar Observatory, which brought into close range the mysteries of the milky way.

Getting down to the rock bottom of things, the Geographic Society returned to nature in its many field trips, which enabled students and faculty members to explore the many phenomena of southern California.

home economics

Cooking and sewing its way through another activity-filled year, the Home Economics Club trained its members to handle the intricacies of housekeeping. The club was led by President Kathy Dahms in the fall and was taken over by Vice-President Dorothy Carlson in the spring. The girls bartered a myriad of wafers at their cookie sale and later in the semester industriously fashioned toys for charity organizations. In the spring a tea honored faculty members and new home ec students, and in addition a buffet dinner-dance highlighted the social schedule. Climaxing the eventful year was the annual fashion show, at which the girls exhibited their handiwork to show high school guests exactly what the home ec department had to offer.

hui o welakahao

A spirit of a South Sea island paradise pervaded the exotic activities of the campus Hawaiian club, which held surfing parties and moonlit yachting cruises. But whether they were enjoying the magic of the seashore or meeting at the fireplug between the chem and physics buildings, they had fun.

Constantly growing in size and endeavour was a distinguishing feature of Hui O Welakahao, whose members were not only aware of Hawaiian life, but of campus culture in general. Their interest in Bruin society, however, was manifested in the wearing of flowered shirts and crepe paper leis.

Hawaiian hula-downs were common among the dropouts who were always welcome. Undoubtedly, Hilo Hattie supplied the pol of favorite entertainers and Sweet Leilei was almost one on the Hula Parade. However, the guitar and the ukulele battled for instrumental honors.

Exemplifying a spirit of friendliness for which Hui O Welakahao stands are the club's Iauau-clad officers, who were, left to right: CLAIRE CASSIDY, vice-president; MARY SHORT, secretary; RALPH McGOKIN, social chairman; JERRY IKEDA, president; and HOAGY HONAMA, treasurer.

Roast pig always absorbed the attention of the crowd of uke-playing Westwood islanders. A luau wasn't a luau without it. Fresh pineapple and coconut, as well as pears, apple and betel nuts, filled the remainder of the feasting pile as the "natives" dug in for refreshment.

While most students used the library for checking out books and socializing, the girls of Kappa Phi Zeta checked up on the systems used behind the scenes to keep the books circulating. Officers of the group were, left to right, Vice-president ETHYL DWYER, Treasurer LYN HUDSON, President BARBARA CATER, and Secretary SHIRLEY WILLIAMS.

kappa phi zeta

Keynoting Kappa Phi Zeta's busy program during the past year were the words, "Know your library." Members of this national professional fraternity, which was formed exclusively for future librarians, held meetings devoted to studying the departments of UCLA's library. Also on the crowded agenda were field trips to the Southern California Library School, Huntington Library, and Andrew Clark Memorial Library. Barbara Cater, president, saw that the group balanced business with pleasure by planning several informal get-togethers and turning work into play. The fraternity progressed greatly by admitting male and graduate students and by proving that its members were bookworms with a practical purpose.

mu phi epsilon

Everything from Kaussevitzky to Katchaturian occupied the time and talents of the melody-minded members of the Bruin professional music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon. The girls appeared in monthly programs at the local veterans' home and in noon concerts in Rayce Hall auditorium. Concentrating their efforts, they offered their annual evening concert to the student body during the spring semester. The group also sponsored a regional music contest, which was won by member Lorraine Eckardt. President Elfrieda Dolch supervised social and service activities, which included the annual Christmas party, the Founders' Day celebration, social exchanges, and philanthropic projects connected with the field of music.

Hibernating in the well-known ivy-covered building near the corner of LeConte and Westwood Boulevard was a necessity for the active officers of the Masonic Affiliate Club, who were, left to right, BETTY GUTHIERIE, all-efficient secretary; LOUIS GORDON, ever-present president; and CAROL HOOKANSON, never-nodding vice-president.

masonic club

Westwood's Masonic Club started the year in festive fashion by featuring Freddy Martin's "Band of Tomorrow" at an all-fun party. President Louis Gordon kept all MAC activities on a comparable level, as the group sponsored charitable affairs, such as its traditional Thanksgiving dinner for underprivileged children, and launched the Uni-Camp drive with a dance featuring Keith William's Orchestra and movie star Keenan Wynn. Between semesters, members travelled to Wrightwood to enjoy winter sports. Ending in the style in which they began, they closed the year with their annual Grand Master's reception, which this time honored Judge Arthur E. Paulsen.

phi beta

If the talents of Lily Pons and Ethel Barrymore were incorporated in one Bruin, she would undoubtedly become a member of the local chapter of Phi Beta, national music and drama honorary. Boasting among its membership many of UCLA's outstanding musicians and actresses, the sorority was led by President Jackie Fischer. The organization, which began on campus in 1925, has thirty national chapters, three in Southern California. Membership requirements are unique as all aspirants must audition for admittance. Concentrating on benevolent activities, the future stars held a Christmas party for orphaned children and entertained regularly at the neuropsychiatric wards of veterans' hospitals in the surrounding area.

phi chi theta

Girls with business futures banded together in Phi Chi Theta and proceeded, business-like, through a round of interesting activities. President Barbara Slack guided her group of industrious bus ad and bus ed majors through such successful affairs as the annual faculty picnic in May, which did much towards cementing faculty-student relationships. At the scholarship tea in June members of the honorary announced the recipients of the yearly awards for high scholastic achievement, for which only members of the organization were eligible. Ably sponsored by Mrs. G. W. Robbins, the girls of Phi Chi Theta enjoyed mixing business with the pleasures of education.

Honored musicians of note gathered for many a sang fest and serious discussion under the capable leadership of, left to right, RALPH SHAFFER, President BENTON MINOR, BOB CARROLL, BERT BAYLIN, and RALPH HIEDIEK. Everything from long hair to bop appealed to these versatile students, who knew the scales up and down.

phi mu alpha

To advance American music through continued performance was the purpose of Phi Mu Alpha, national music honorary, which required only interest in music as a requisite for membership. Being president of the society was the major activity of Benton Minor, who also played in the Great Bruin Band. He led the group through a series of events which included the annual spring concert, and an evening program in Royce Hall at which original compositions of students and faculty members were offered. Social exchanges with coed musical societies were also held. The organization was run on a one-semester pledging basis, during which time the hopeful candidate's zest for music was evaluated. This kept membership at the top of the scale.

Evidence of the reason for the popularity of Phrateres' annual garter-throwing booth at the URA Mardi Gras festivities was provided by the organization's officers, who were, left to right, MARILYN SCHLESINGER, secretary; JOAN PACHTMAN, president; and JOAN HERSHAM, treasurer. Vice-president Geroldine Miller, not pictured, also served the group.

phrateres

Performing a dizzying amount of work, Phrateres, national women's social and service organization, began the year by aiding the freshman orientation program and proceeded to assist such vital ASUCLA functions as the Uni-Camp drive and elections. The energetic girls acted as hostesses at URA recs and dean's coffee hours, and they once again gained recognition for their noteworthy garter-throwing booth at the Mardi Gras. Jaan Pachtman was president and Mrs. Patricia B. Laffler of the physical education department served as sponsor. With all this activity surrounding them, Phrateres still found time to fraternize by holding exchanges with various men's organizations.

pre med

To keep America healthy will be the major aim of these aspiring medics throughout future years, but in 1951 they were chiefly interested in keeping UCLA's Pre-Med Association active. Left to right, they were BILL BERG, corresponding secretary; JOHN ROSS, president; MARY ELLEN ROLPH, recording secretary; SAK KAWATA, historian; and BOB NEWMAN, treasurer.

A sure cure for frustrated medics was available through membership in the Pre-Medical Association. However, interest served as the only requirement for belonging, as the group presented stimulating speakers from various related scientific fields. Meetings, which were led by President John Ross, were also highlighted by the showing of absorbing films on surgery. For diversion, the aspiring doctors conducted guided tours to various local laboratories and promoted friendly student-professor relationships. One of UCLA's more serious-minded organizations, the Pre-Med Association attempted to offer a complete picture of the problems and practice of medicine, in order to encourage or discourage its members.

"Service and aid for those in need" was the slogan which sparked the campus Red Cross to a highly successful year. Sponsored by Mrs. Nala Rogers and financed by the national organization, the group performed many worthwhile tasks. Of paramount importance was the fall blood drive directed by Ronald Farrar, Jeanne Perry, and Sunny Katsh. Bruins donated more blood proportionately than any other western university. Led by President Cecile Bannet, the Red Cross also sponsored a motor corps division which offered parties and entertainment for hospitalized veterans. With a membership consisting of interested Bruins, UCLA's Red Cross unit held high the banner of mercy by concentrating effort and enthusiasm.

rowing club

Crew lettermen with a vital interest in pramating that spart on campus formed the nucleus of the Bruin Rowing Club, which functioned in conjuncian with the all-female crew auxiliary, Shell and Oar. Concentrating on both a service and social program, the organization was capably led by Commodore Jim Nichals and First Mate Dave Rich. High point of the year was the eagerly anticipated Crew Week, which was climaxed by inter-class races at Ballana Creek and fallowed by a dance at which the queen of crew was crowned. The club also held many successful social exchanges. After a year of struggling for the recognitian of their spart by the university, the men were finally rewarded by keeping crew afloat.

Wielding the important oars of Bruin Rowing Club was only a pleasant postime for men-about-campus JIM NICHOLS and DAVE RICH. Jim divided his time between presiding at club meetings and sociolizing at the Fiji house, while Dave was his chief assistant and wheel-at-large. With these able coxswains at the helm, another year was smoothly sailed.

shell and oar

"Smooth sailing" described the activities of Shell and Oar, women's honorary auxiliary to crew, which came to port calmly after another year of stormy and relentless crusading for its favorite sport. With a campaign to keep crew on campus and raise money to cover its necessities of life, the girls, commanded by President Jan Schaller, illustrated the height of Bruin spirit. Early in the year they painted the barge and the oars and gave crew cuts to reluctant team members; on the more social side they held an exchange with their boys. Taking to the medium of television like crew members to water, the girls appeared on the programs of "Hogan" Hawthorne and N.T.G. as they branched out into the entertainment world.

scabbard and blade

With muskets loaded and bayonets fixed, the men of Scabbard and Blade, Westwood's military honorary, charged through a year of planned maneuvers which included two outstanding social happenings . . . the annual fall Saber Dance, which was held in Beverly Hills, and the also-annual Armed Forces Day Dance at the Officers' Club on Sunset Boulevard. Eligible for membership were high calibre cadets of the army, air force, and navy branches of the local ROTC. Phi Psi Art Karma followed Cadet Colonel Don Carmichael into the post of president, and both conducted meetings which were equally educational and enjoyable. The group, sponsored by Captain William H. Lindahl, actively participated in many campus events.

sigma alpha iota

Backed by a serious interest in things musical and by the approval of other members, many campus co-eds were accepted by Sigma Alpha Iota, national music honorary, during the past year. From that point on they were kept busy by a whirl of activities, which included the gala celebration of the organization's twenty-fifth year at UCLA, its Silver Jubilee. A very successful Christmas party and musicale followed, as did the sponsoring of two concerts in the Education Building. The girls participated in many ASUCLA affairs, notably the AWS Christmas Stocking drive. Boasting several prominent off-campus members in addition to Bruins, Sigma Alpha Iota also had chapters at USC and Occidental.

Friendly spirit with a guiding purpose pervaded the activities of UCLA's Society for the Advancement of Management, one of eighty-seven chapters throughout the nation. Providing a better understanding of improved management facilities and offering excellent contacts with local businessmen, the organization was both industrious and effective as it managed its way through numerous functions. Presided over by Tom Campbell in the fall and Hal Dobrin in the spring, the men held bi-weekly meetings at which films were shown, prominent guest speakers appeared, and current business was discussed. Highlights of the year was a semi-formal dinner-dance held at the Del Mar Club.

Bruins who did the most to advance the Society for the Advancement of Management on campus were these officers of the organization, left to right, TOM CAMPBELL, president; JAY CREEKMORE, first vice-president; GENE CARROLL, second vice-president; KEN SCOTT, treasurer; HARRY CARSWELL, third vice-president; and DON JACOBSEN, secretary.

With a howdy and a handshake, the Nisei Bruin Club once again achieved a high degree of campus friendliness as its members entered various student activities. President John Miyauchi cracked the whip, and the group drove on to the finals in intramural football and participated in intercollegiate basketball tournaments. Nisei Bruins greeted new freshmen with their semesterly frosh reception, and actively joined Homecoming and Men's Week events. Socially, they roared through a Hallowe'en Dance and cavorted through beach and mountain picnics. But the topper was an affair which was sandwiched in between the club's many other endeavours; it was the annual spring formal, which combined smoothness with smartness.

band concert

Men's Glee Club and A Cappella Choir under the direction of Patton C. McNaughton. Program: J. S. Bach, Marcel Dupre, Vaughan Williams, Stravinsky, Milhaud, William Grant Still, Francis R. Shanley, Henry Leland Clarke, Thomas Lammell.

At 8:30 P.M. in Royce Hall Auditorium.

Forever searching for new and peppier arrangements for his musical prodigies was Director PATTON McNAUGHTON, who generally produced something which kept rooters' hands clapping and feet stamping in time to the dramatic drums and the tempestuous tubas.

Against a background of Bruin rooters and their traditional blue and gold signature stunt, Patton McNaughton led his troupe through a series of intricate, exacting, and entertaining formations which held the thousands of spectators spellbound.

One of the three wheels who kept the Bruin Band in rolling condition was Manager TOM LOMMELL, who oiled the machinery efficiently. The lubrication had obvious benefits, for the aggregation succeeded once more in proving its versatility and vitality.

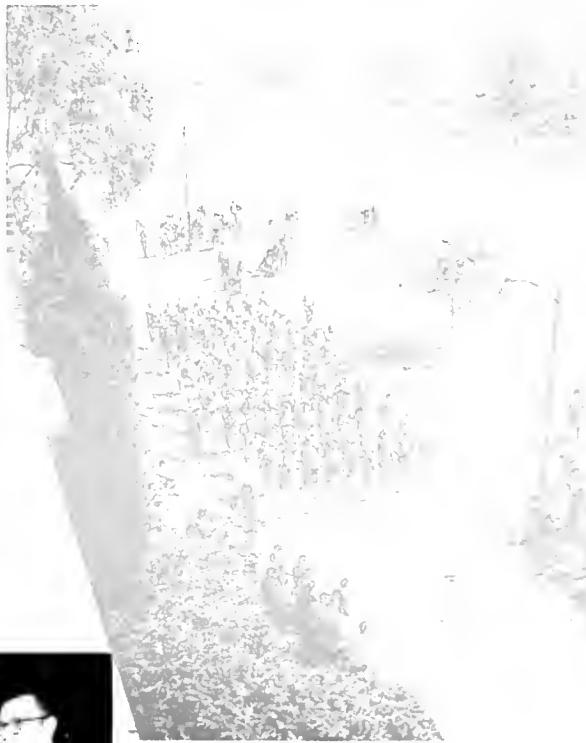

Stepping sprightly with a baton balanced neatly in one hand was but one of many feats performed ably by the Bruin Band's assistant director, GORDON WHEATLEY. No matter how difficult the rhythm he managed to give the old Bruin try.

Appearances in Rayce Hall concerts demonstrated the Bruin Band's ability to play more than fraticling football spirit-roisers. At such times the group offered original versions of popular Americana in addition to many works by the highbrow masters. Students and guests alike admitted the definite quality which prevailed in these and other performances.

bruin band

Playing at student rallies on the quad offered diversion and spirit to both ASUCLA members and their band. Selections usually ranged from the bouncy "By" to the solemn Alma Mater, and Bruins never tired of lending their vocal talent to expert instrumental stylings.

Bruin Band as expected, required many executive leaders to handle its administrative problems. A committee of such size often encounters functional difficulties, but not so in this case. "Smooth" was the one word which adequately described their activity.

Tenors, baritones, and basses provided a masculine touch to the campus musical scene, as the Men's Glee Club brought versatility and virtuosity into each of its numerous performances. The season was heralded by appraisal, applause, and even acclaim from always attentive and appreciative audiences. The men were led by, left to right, RALPH HIEDSIEK, secretary; JOHN GRAHAM, president; GORDON SACKETT, vice-president; and CARL TAPIA, librarian, who never tired of driving the group through countless rehearsals and technical discussions. The results, however, proved the fruits of labor.

men's glee club

Singing for enjoyment rather than for their supper, the Men's Glee Club supplied Bruins with musical entertainment by presenting noon concerts in Royce Hall Auditorium and appearing in such talent exhibitions as the annual Homecoming show. With John Graham as president and Raymond Moremen as director and advisor, the male melody-makers were selected through a series of auditions. Representing UCLA at several off-campus functions, they visited Occidental and Los Angeles Valley Junior College and performed at the charter day program at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Doing a little social harmonizing, they joined their sisters of song, the Women's Glee Club, in many efforts, both serious and otherwise.

Exemplifying how the "glee" got into "glee club" were the organization's five officers, who were, left to right, GENEVIEVE GAEDE, vice-president; PHYLLIS BLOOM, secretary-treasurer; CAROLYN MATHIAS, assistant librarian; NEELTJE WITBAARD, president; and RITA REYNOLDS, librarian. Under the able direction of these girls, the group approached an almost professional skill in vocal acrobatics, appearing in several concerts and campus shows. Rigorous training and continual practice are required of every artist, and UCLA's Women's Glee Club proved that group singing is an art.

women's glee club

Harmonizing in a most professional manner, the Women's Glee Club combined class work with school service by offering various recitals, including one in December at the Westwood Community Church and one in Royce Hall Auditorium in May. Led by Neeltje Witbaard, the group also participated in the International House festival and the annual inter-collegiate glee club convention at Occidental. Composed of approximately fifty coed carolers, the organization attempted to attain high standards of musical expression, but at the same time the girls found moments for social pleasure. Topping the extra-curricular activities was a combined party with the Men's Glee Club in March, at which the vocalizing became vociferous.

Samerset Maugham's The Circle became a living thing on the UCLA boards, as one by one its characters were vitalized by experienced theater personalities, including Stanley Gleen, Marcelle Farlier, Martha Deone, and Ralph Freud, who made its satire surprisingly real.

Papa Is All rocked Royce Hall auditorium with mixed emotions, the laughter and tears of family life. But there was no mixture in the response of its audiences. All spectators were in accord that this was a show which combined expert craftsmanship with unlimited enjoyment.

With Pat Metten, Stan Malatte, Margaret Ann Curran, and John Halden all winning award nominations for their efforts in The Late Christopher Bean, the play easily became one of the most fascinatingly and warmly human foot light offerings ever to play the Bruin boards.

campus theater

Concerned with the recapture of a usurped throne and its symbolic garment by their rightful possessor, The Yellow Jacket not only won its audiences and critics with tense, fast-paced drama, but was named the "Best 170 Production" of the fall, a highly esteemed CT award.

Highlighted by the performances of Margaret Ann Curran and award-winning Frank Wolff, the Bruin attempt at Shakespeare's Macbeth emerged as an ambitious and successful achievement. Sets and costumes combined with acting dynamics to give the theater more memorable moments.

An exciting libretto and an enthusiastic cast, starring Barbara McCann and Charles Varbach, combined to make Dark of the Moon, a fantasy based on the ballad "Barbara Allen," a thrilling climax to one of UCLA's finest dramatic years. The show was lively and captivating.

UCLA's Speech Activities Baard was composed of seven busy people. Seated were VERN GILBERT, DICK STEIN, Vice-president SHELDON MITTELMANN, and GRAHAM RITCHIE. Standing were Pi Kappa Delta President BOB HOLTZMAN and HENRY ALBINSKI. Baard chairman, ERIC WEISSMAN, was missing.

speech activities board

Music and Service Baard members were seated, left to right, JUDY REED, Chairman STAN BERMAN, DICK STEIN, JOAN PACHTMAN, MARGE FRAMBACH, and NEELTJE WITBAARD. Standing were JOYCE SHEETS, BOB BUTLER, JOHN GRAHAM, JOHN WALKER, HANK SUNDERLAND, CHUCK BORST, and ED HANE.

Handling the executive details, and there were many, of Campus Theater was the chare of three particular Bruins, wha were cantinually inspired by a driving interest in things dramatic. They were, left to right, LUCILLE LANGDON, Chairman JINX HONE, and DICK ALTMAN.

campus theater spotlight

With a devoted reading audience, the Campus Theater Spotlight staff issued copy after copy which merited that devotion. Featuring complete coverage of Bruin theatrical activities from "first night" reviews to the presentation of the coveted acting awards, the publication proved that students with a vital interest in the stage could produce not only footlight entertainment, but literary.

Campus Theater's rep-at-large DICK ALTMAN was constantly in search of stories, as he served as news-feature editor.

Taking time out from being a Spur and general wheel, JOAN WILCOX managed to be an efficient managing editor.

Known to staff members as a "bundle of endless energy," motion picture major CHARLOTTE FREELAND was spring editor.

Before he left to cover air force capers, amiable SID BASS edited Spotlight during the busy fall semester activities.

Drawing and more drawing occupied much of the time of PAUL HOLTZ, who had a flair for the original.

Executive secretary ELEANORE TANIN typed while she memorized her lines for professional radio appearances.

Under the watchful and exacting eye of UCLA faculty member DEBORAH HOFFMAN, who instructed classes, Dance Wing members learned the right way to do a spiral fall. In the classroom, it looked anything but easy. However, after making good use of the old adage "practice makes perfect," these young dancers were able to perform this deceptive trick with an ease that made their audiences gasp. Dancing took more than just charm and grace. Real "know-how" and a strong technique were equally as important.

dance wing

Tripping the light fantastic in a strictly modern fashion, Dance Wing members whirled and leaped through a year of major and minor productions. With the accent on personal interpretation appropriate to the present trend in dance the terpsichorean experts were not above using some of the traditional ballet movements . . . on extension often became just an arabesque, while a leap turned out to be a jeté. Meeting three times each week, dance enthusiasts worked rigorously to improve their strength and technique and, at the same time, exercised their creative abilities in the choreographic sessions. Lucille Langdon, who shone in Sunshine to Burn, acted as president this year, and faculty advisor Deborah Hoffman instructed the technique classes. Occasional off-campus get-togethers provided a social outlet for the ambitious people who, nevertheless, were happiest when at work.

DOUG UPSHAW, another of UCLA's rip-roaring yell leaders, was a junior majoring in business administration. Activities to his credit included Kelps, Yeoman and a lot of hard work on the 1949 Homecoming. Doug was also a member of Gold Key and served as the queen contest chairman for the Junior Prom.

BUD MURPHEY, one of UCLA's spirited yell leaders, helped to put pep and punch in to the Bruin football and basketball games both at home and away. Bud, a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, formerly served as freshman class president. An enthusiastic Kelp, he was a key figure in the major production presented by that group at the Spring Sing.

WELLS WOHLWEND, an insurance major in the business administration department, worked his way up from fresh yell leader. An active Yeoman, Wells served with the student board for the Religious Conference, the four-man council, and found time to be a very active member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

RONNIE CASE was a yell leader who gave his all to promote the spirit and enthusiasm at UCLA's big conference games. A sophomore and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, Ronnie was a past member of the freshman swimming team, an active member of Kelps and Yeoman, and was particularly interested in sports and music.

yell leaders

Bruins . . . Bruins . . . Bruins . . . whisper, talk it, yell it! Mighty Sam and his yell crew led the Bruin rooters as they contributed that all-important moral support to the fighting eleven. Yell leaders were, left to right, DOUG UPSHAW, STAN BERMAN, SAM GROSSMAN, RONNY CASE, BUD MURPHY and WELLS WOHLWEND.

Congratulations were in order for UCLA's head yell king, SAM GROSSMAN, whose sparkling spirit put zing and zest into the year's sports. Sophomore Sam, a TA major, also added plenty of pep to the theatre arts department.

Spirited STAN BERMAN added pep and personality to the Bruin sports events as he joined his fellow yell leaders in directing enthusiastic rooters. Among the student activities to Stan's credit were Kelp's, Yeomen, Gold Key, Crew, and the chairmanship of Music and Service Board. A political science major, Stan planned to continue his studies in the UCLA law school after graduation.

With black-eyed peas and sugar-soaked yams as his favorite dish . . . next to winning football games, HENRY "RED" SANDERS, in his third year as head chef, topped his menu with a Man of the Year Award, chosen among outstanding Los Angeles celebrities.

football

BOB WATSON, veteran flanker, proved that it paid to stub his toe, provided it was on a football, as the dapper Delt was called on to boot the ball between the uprights. Serving as captain, Bob showed he was the inspiring type.

Once again tabbed to finish near the top only if the standings were turned upside down, the amazing UCLA Bruin football team wound up deadlocked with the Washington Huskies for the place spot in the Pacific Coast Conference. Under the tutelage of Henry 'Red' Sanders, the boisterous Westwooders split even inter-sectional-wise, bowing to Illinois and pasting Purdue, but capped their season with a most satisfying 39-0 win over their arch crosstown foes, SC. Their Rose Bowl hopes completely smashed by California, the Bruins staged a comeback against Troy which went down in history as the greatest victory for a Uclon team. Hampered by an injury jinx that struck at the most inopportune times, mostly at the Bruin backfield, and by a girl named Dame Fortune who continually thumbed her nose in Mister Sanders' face, the Ukes refused to fold until the ill-fated Bear hunting trip. Despite the calamity and being nipped by a whisker at Seattle, the well-coached Westwooders still managed to finish ahead of the highly touted Stanford Indians and Coach Jefferson Newell Cravath's Trojans. All-in-all, a won-seven, lost-three record was not so bad for a team that was figured to hold up the rest of the loop.

"Don't rub me the wrong way, Duck," were sprinter BOB WORK's words to head trainer DUCKY DRAKE while Dr. ED RUTH and assistants PAT TURNER and RALPH WITT stood by, tape-wise.

Another newcomer to the Bruin braintrust was WILLIAM "Bill" BARNES, who also barked signals with a southern drawl during his college days. Barnes instructed the Uclon flankers with aplomb.

Towering TOMMY PROTHRO, serving his second year under the ole redhead, tutored the Uke backs on how to zig while the opposing linemen were being zogged out of their brogans.

A former Florida flash, TOMMY HARRISON was responsible for the Uclon defense being in the opposition's backfield, serving as head scout for Sonders' closely-knit combine.

men behind the coach

Upped from fresh mentor, genial GEORGE DICKERSON was both admired and feared by opposition coaches for his brilliant scouting maneuvers and ace sleuthing techniques.

An ex-Tennessee terror, DEKE BRACKET joined the ranks of the transplanted mint-julep mentors at UCLA, taking over Tommy Whitley's line l'arnin' tasks plus helping Henry the Red on all angles.

Back for another whirl as line coach, JIM MYERS liked his ham southern style but demanded a knock-em-down and stamp-on-'em type of play from the Bruin forward wall.

Making it a house function, the Delta Sigma Phi triumvirate of MARY SEARGENT, GENE O'ROURKE, and RON COLLINS, along with IZZY SISKOWICZ, handled the chores of managers for the Bruin pigskinners.

Whiz-kid WHITNEY ARCENEAUX managed three backfield positions in his first varsity season for the Uclans.

Playing his first year in the forward wall, JIM BUCHANAN ended his varsity days with many great plays.

Proving all good things must come to an end was husky DON COGSWELL, completing three years of stellar play.

Catapulting Copy Smith jack-knifed through the line for a nice gain as the Bruins submerged the Oregon Ducks 28-0 in the homeowners' grid opener. Sanders' crew threw a natural in each period while forcing the Webfoots to tread water throughout. All-Coaster Bob Wilkinson snagged an aerial from Bob Moore far tedeo number one. As for the Oregonians . . . just take a gander at Del Clemmons (62).

There were more scares to come, but here Bob Moore was just about to play tick-tack-toe in the Washington State end-zone for the second UCLA touchdown, as the Westlanders went on to post the Palousers 42-0. Highly touted, the Cougars had their tails twisted by Coach Henry Sanders' hard charging line and the slippery running of Messrs. Moore, Narleski, Florence, Marvin, and company.

Another of Red's sophomores, WERNER ESCHER will see plenty of action in the next two years at right half.

After a two-season respite, oft-injured JOHNNY FLORENCE was a main cog in the Sanders' machine.

ED FLYNN, who will return next season, earned his first numeral with sterling play at right guard.

Combining know-how with go-how, Zowie HOWIE HANSEN zipped along the way to paydirt with DON COGSWELL (42) leading the parade; but the margin of a toe proved the difference as the Washington Huskies booted the Bruins 21-20 in the Seattle stadium. Renewing a Rose Bowl acquaintance of three years ago with the fighting Illini, the Bruins wound up with a Champagne headache following their ball of the foot variety with the midwesterners. The nocturnal mix saw the Ukes' backs broken when Tony Roklevitch plowed through the line and, thumbing his nose at Sanders' secondary, lumbered to pay dirt. The Bruins came back strong in the second half, but not strong enough.

Rough-em-up ROY JENSON climaxed three seasons of varsity action with powerful performances at left tackle.

A punching power house at the fullback position, LUTHER KEYES proved that he had the keys to success.

HERB LANE, left end, demonstrated his come-through ability in the Trojan cross-town horse race.

Sideline-stepping JOHNNY FLORENCE scooted along the white marks as Stanford's BILL MCCOLL (3) came up to put the brakes on Jorrin' Johnny. The Uclans went on to take the wow out of the Indian's paw-wow, dumping the Braves 21-7 as a part of the "Frontier Bruin Brings Injun Ruin" homecoming celebration. Play of the day in the crunching contest was a Norleski to Wilkinson waltz, Wilkie lateraling to Williams.

Ruining a homecoming celebration for the Lafayetters, DARRELL RIGGS acts as a go-between on an aerial intended for ROLAND BLAND, Purdue flanker. The Bruins caught the Boilermakers with their steam down, toppling the conquerors of Notre Dame 20-6. Highlights of the afternoon were Ted Narleski's kick-off runback and Joe Sabol's teedee'd pass interception, which stunned the stadium.

At defensive guard CLIFF LIVINGSTON earned his 'C', keeping his opponent's gained yardage to a minimum.

Co-Captain BRUCE MACLAUGHLAN won all-coast honors in his last year of playing guard for the Bruins.

Guard FRANCIS MANDULA climaxed a colorful college career by falling on an SC end-zone fumble.

Leap-frogging HOWIE HANSEN tried to take to the air, realizing that it was impossible to go around or through the gigantic California line on that particular Saturday afternoon. Spelling Gayle Pace at center, OSC transfer GEORGE MORGAN showed great promise during his first varsity year.

Peady TEDDY NARLESKI, skiddery sophomore, skipped into the end zone three times to lead the Bruin Troy-umph.

Keeping up the pace at all times, GAYLE PACE did yeoman duty at offensive center for the Bruins.

Sometimes he put his foot in it, but this play saw Bob Maare fake a punt and flip a pass to HOWIE HANSEN (34), who was on the pay-off path. Coming up with a superlative game, the best of his career, red-headed Hawie completely bamaozled Trojan defenders with his dazzling reverses. It was the third time in Uclan history that the Westwaaders tapped the boys from south of the county jail.

Able JOE SABOL punctured the Purdue Boilermakers offensive attempts with his many pass interceptions.

Dynamic DICK SHORT switched from the fullback post, taking to his new position in fine fashion.

CAPPY SMITH, another sparkling sophomore, teamed with Donn Moomaw to form impregnable line backing Delta Sig duo.

Pigskin pilferers DONN MOOMAW, IKE JONES, and JOE SABOL leapt skyward to bat one of Wilbur Robertson's pitches out of DAN ZIMMERMAN'S paws. Instrumental in the trompling of Troy was the stellar linebacking of Moomaw and Cappy Smith, who repeatedly spilled Figueron fleet-feeters for large losses. The 39-0 rout was the worst ever suffered by a Crovath-coached team in Pacific Coast Conference clashes.

"For whom the bell tolls" . . . for UCLA, of course, and ring it did 39 times as Jeff Crovath's Trojan horse looked more like the old gray mare in falling before a fired-up Bruin gong 39-0. TEDDY NARLESKI, the Collingswood comet, propelled the jet-charged Westwood rocket which shoved Troy clear out of the Coliseum. It was the most satisfying victory for the Ukes in their history . . . and for Red Sanders, too.

Always believing that action speaks louder than words, Coach RED found that, if the players were ever in doubt, the best plan was to give them a few pointers based on years of experience on the playing field and the coaching bench.

WILKINSON and JONES got the point. Who was the prof? . . . none other than Coach RED SANDERS, the southern gentleman himself. Bruin rooters soon learned that when the coach gave special instructions the opposition was in for a bad time.

Garnering his third stripe on the varsity, BRECK STROSCHEN was a Rock of Gibraltar at the tackle position.

Elected co-captain at the beginning of the season, automatic BOB WATSON foed the extra points time after time.

While the band blared a rousing rendition of "By," the tubas missing on oomp or a pooh here or there, IKE JONES (22) and WERNER ESCHER (26) headed the Bruin contingent which was to plow its way across the Coliseum greensward. Playing before fewer people this year, Red Sanders nevertheless provided the pigskin pundits with a brand of football that promised to pack the oreno in the future.

football sidelines

From his blocking-back spot JULIE WEISSTEIN laid many an opponent low with bone crunching play.

Rapid ROBERT WILKINSON, pass catching phenomenon, again nabbed all-coast honors for superlative play.

Devastating DAVE WILLIAMS ripped opposing lines to shreds with his straight ahead offensive play.

Junior BOB ZELINKA served notice that he will be mighty rough to handle in the future at guard.

Captain of the 1950 Brubabes was ex-Burbank gridder DON FOSTER. Leading the way for many of his teammates' long gains and putting in a few licks at toting the ball himself, Don laid the groundwork for a fine varsity career.

Manager BOB EMMONDS carried the water, supplied the towels, and made great friends with the poor pigskinners on the bench as he sweated out the close games and cheered on the wins that the Brubabes slacked up.

The pigskin went soiling right by the outstretched hands of Stanford's TONY SCHEIDECKER and Brubabe BERNIE RICHTER in the clash between the Palo Alto peagreeners and the Uclon frosh. Coach Sanders could well look forward to the 1951 football season when Richter, the former Conoga Pork frosh, will lend his talents to the varsity squad.

Hands in pockets, possibly hiding the bruises they received from knuckling the first year pigskinners through a lengthy season, were these four browny frosh football coaches. From left to right they were RAY NAGLE, EDDIE EATON, JOHNNY JOHNSON, and LYNN HALE, who crocked down on the Brubabes with a rigorous training program which produced impressive scores.

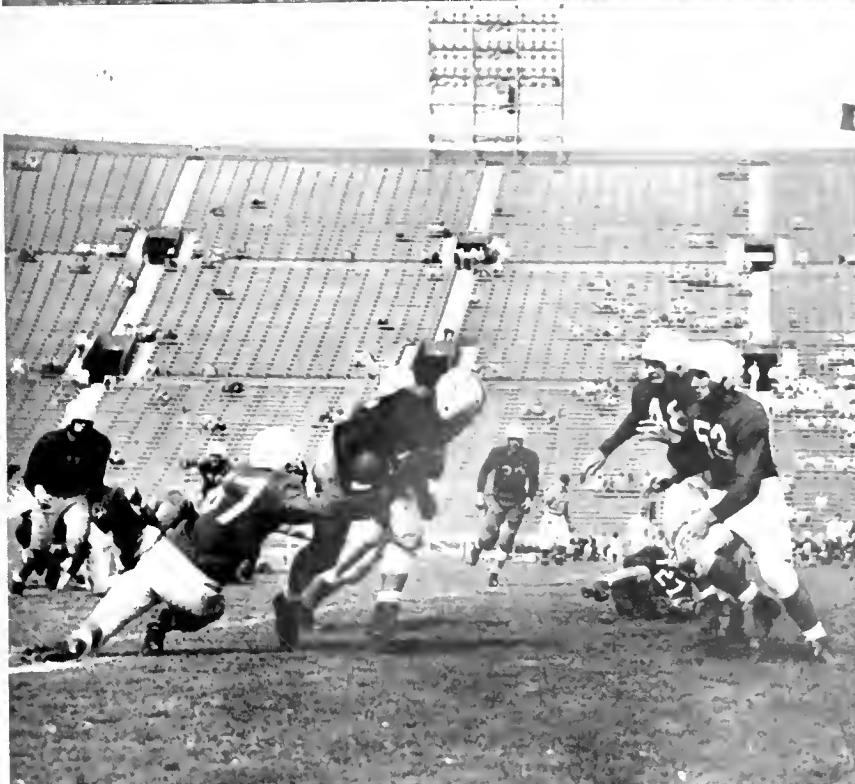

Fullback on Bert La Brucherie's Rase Bowling Bruins of '47, JOHNNY JOHNSON assumed the reins of the Brubabe pigskinners for the first time, directing the peagreeners through a successful year.

frosh football

This Stanford frosh gridder learned about number 13 as linebacker BILL STITS prepared to put the high-sign on him. Stanford's BILL SCHEIDEKER and Uclan TONY DICKINSON came up on the outside to check the results.

With head lowered and legs churning Brubabe DON FOSTER didn't appear fazed by the mean glances being thrown his way by but three Indians. Team mate FRED ANDREWS (33) came up the middle to help pave the way.

This Berkeleyite with the striped shirt couldn't do a thing with that botched ball as two outstanding defensive Bruins, DON PUTHBAUGH and AL RAFFEE, made sure that it didn't get past their goal line. JIM THOMAS and PETE DAILEY came up to check on the proceedings.

UCLA's rugby team rolled over all local opposition in great form to win the Southern Rugby Union Championship. California, with Mal Howell an All-International from the famous Australian Wallabies and All-American Les Richter, and Stanford, with experience on its side, were just too much for the comparatively inexperienced Ukes. Outstanding on the UCLA ruggers were Pete Dailey, Ralph Stalwick, Hal Mitchell, and Julie Weisstein. They, along with team-mates Tibbs, Albright, Thomas, Kroebert, and Wilcox, will be back in 1952 to form a nucleus for a rugby team that should prove to be the Bruins' greatest.

Under the enthusiastic direction of NORM PADGETT, the 1951 Bruin rugbymen pounded to their best season since the sport's rejuvenation in 1948. Norm, a Bruin great in both football and rugby as an undergrad, made this English brand of football regular tea and crumpets for the Ukes.

SOCCER

With a lightning-quick offense and a rock-ribbed defense, UCLA's 1950 soccer team, under the direction of Coach Jock Stewart, completely dominated southland play for the second successive year. While capturing the Walter Tetley trophy and the southern California professional championship, the team romped to ten victories in fourteen starts. Yausry Chitany and Warren Wang sparked the attack, while such stalwarts as Sam Fong, George Kauffman, Bob Phillips and John Rozati combined for a web-like defense. Limiting the opposition to thirty goals, the Bruins compiled a season total of forty-four points.

Proving that every move had a point, SAM FONG, one of the top Bruin scoring threats, booted the balloon past the frustrated goalie to aid his team in putting the shillelagh to another Uclan foe. Once again Stewart's stalwarts, like all cream of the crop, rose to the top.

Big things come in small packages as evidenced by Captain EDDIE SHELDRAKE. Married and a father, manager of Sheldrake Inc., eager Eddie ran rampant in his senior year, shattering a one-game total with 39 points.

basketball

As quiet as snowfall in the Tabernacle off the court but a ringed-toil terror to near-sighted referees, JOHNNY WOODEN once again proved to be the greatest melon mentor around, bringing the Bruins home on top.

Flanked by his two aides, ED POWELL, recently voted UCLA's most eligible bachelor, and ex-Bruin baseball great BILL PUTNAM, JOHNNY WOODEN grinned with glee over a highly successful round-ball season. Once again the tremendous trio came through.

Keepers of the ball were the titles that ROY SUTTON, JACK MATLIN, and HAROLD CRAWFORD earned as managers. With Matlin serving as the directing force of the trio, this triumvirate toiled endlessly in aiding the Bruin's drive to another conference crown. Long hours, hard work, and an occasional jaunt across town served as their rewards.

Trotting through the fields of corn gave those athletes from Ioway the oomph to jump as Howkeye ROBERT CLIFTON was so beautifully demonstrating. But, with grimaces all over their faces, Bruins ART ALPER and GENE WILLIAMS were there to make sure that the ball didn't go through the net. The result . . . the tired Bruins, finishing a long road trip, succumbed.

This is basketball? Bruin JERRY NORMAN (52) appeared to be going through a push-up routine while LSU ace JOE DEAN exhibited the fine art of soccer. The Bayou basketeers bagged down early in spite of Gene Murphy's sensational set-shots, and Wooden's wonders chased Tigers clear out of the crackerbox in tallying 95 points, a new Bruin high-water mark.

Later to be ruled from the game an "fixing" charges, LIU ace SHERMAN WHITE (2D) was giving his best when the Bruins journeyed to the Gotham Garden. Although EDDIE SHELDRAKE (75), DICK RIDGWAY (54), DON JOHNSON (73), and company tanked 72 points, the Blackbirds brake the tote board by dumping in 91 digits of their own.

The boys from Pitt, under the guidance of Coach Don Carlson, all had but one thought in mind, "is it going in?" But old Haapalang never missed on those twisting hook shots he was here demonstrating. The Bruins had no pity on the Pitt men that night, and although the Carlson Clowns were there to grab the rebounds, the Bruins just couldn't miss.

non-conference

While the disconcerted duo of Braves ELMER BEHNKE (32) and All-American GENE MELCHIORRE (23) gazed in dismay, demon DICK RIDGWAY drove in for the bunny shot. Although all-the-way Ridgway dunked the daughnut for 21 points, the Bradley bulls-eye boys bounced the Bruins for the second time in as many years in the Pearia pavillion.

While Bruin ART ALPER (72) and Bear BILL HAGLER (14) were extending the hand of fellowship, JERRY NORMAN spun past the Bear basket brigadiers. Entering the Cal cagers' catacombs far the first time in 1951, the Bruins wound up secand best in a two-horse race.

DON JOHNSON (73) drove down the court to lay this one up and lead his teammates to victory. Needing a win at any Price, namely Nibs, the Ukes caught fire early, and while See, Hagler, and company tried to douse the conflagration, the inflammable five continued to burn up the court.

Stringy ART ALPER, playing his last year for the Bruins, pulled many a net string tight with his long, left-handed shots.

Another of Wooden's second year whirlwinds, JERRY EVANS fit nicely into the headman's plans for a go-fast attack.

Fullerton J. C. transfer DON JOHNSON highlighted a driving season with two great series against California.

GENE LOGAN versatile second year man garnered his first big C for coming through when the chips were down.

Up for the tip went JOHNNY MATULICH (57) as Cal's all coaster BILLY HAGLER vainly tried to put the kibosh on the paint-getting routine. While several thousand squashed casabos kibitzers sweated it out with Coach Johnny Wooden, the Bruin blitz buggy got a downhill start on the Berkeley basketeers, and it was UCLA full speed ahead.

The Bruin round-bailers were well on their way to another home court victory as fade-away RIDGWAY (74) cast off one of his fabulous fade-away shots. Gozina hoopward with a triple whammy were BOB SEE (22) and the double trouble RICKSEN twins JOHN (5) and RUPE (13). Waxing hot and cold the Bruins applied the pressure and steamed through to defeat a Bear win.

Grover LUCHSINGER, push-shot pivot man, ended three years of play with a sparkling exhibition at Washington.

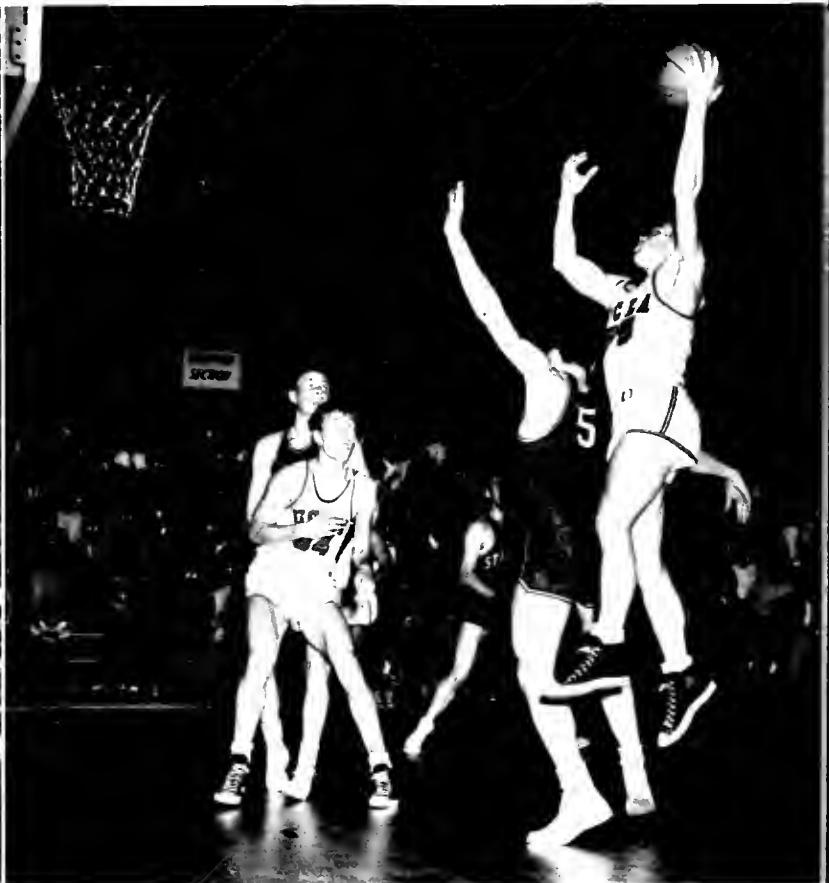

Rated one of the Bruin's greatest prospects as a peagreener, JOHN MATULICH proved to be a handy man as a forward.

JERRY NORMAN, without the aid of a pogo stick, raised his six-foot frame to grab rebounds from apposing giants.

Back to the casaba wars after a year lay-off, BARRY PORTER drew applause for his splendid defensive work.

GROVER LUCHSINGER (19), a key man in the Bruin setup, slight-of-handed the ball past Indian guard BRUCE IVERSEN (6) and Stanford team-mate, a slender, tallest man on the Wooden squad, retained this nasty habit throughout the half, thus contributing to the ultimate removal of the jaded elite topflight.

The whirling dervish of Westwood, EDDIE SHELDRAKE (75) seemed to have mystified Stanfordite GEORGE ZANINOVICH into believing that he was guarding someone else. Crouching nearby was that master of the keyboards, DICK RIDGWAY. Sheldrake and Ridgway combined constantly to eventually eliminate the dangerous Indian hazard.

"Ah, ah . . . don't touch," mouthed the infamous man in the striped shirt as fiery JERRY NORMAN (52) drove in for a difficult lay-in, being doggedly shadowed by Polo Altoan JIM RAMSTEAD. Norman connected and the Indians' wigwam wabbled.

The fast break worked again when the Bruin aggregation, here temporarily thwarted by efficient Indian guarding, forged gradually ahead. Furnishing ample proof of John Wooden's tremendous coaching ability were sophomore forward DICK RIDGWAY (54) and guard DON JOHNSON (73).

One of the original hoop-de-da'ers, JERRY NORMAN (52) leaped in far a lay-up while Bruin teammate GROVE LUCHSINGER and his cagey opponents counted the crowd. Norman's network went far naught as the Trojans assumed the roles of five Sam Spades.

Proving that there was the Ridgway as well as the right way, UCLA's answer to a beanpole, DICK RIDGWAY, went high to outleap Trojan BOB UNDERWOOD. Waiting for the ball to float downward were the entire Twagaad crew and the Bruins' rangy rim rider, DON JOHNSON.

BOBBY POUNDS caused many a raised eyebrow in the spectators' stands with his fleet-foot floor game.

The Haopalang Kid, sophomore DICK RIDGWAY, shattered records with his phenomenal tips and long shots.

Mighty-mouse EDDIE SHELDRAKE, taking time out from Sheldrake Inc., finished four years at guard in magnificent fashion.

By hook, but not by crook, capable GENE WILLIAMS capped his senior year with aggressive play at the pivot post.

Sometimes it pays off to play hook-ey from school as evidenced by GENE WILLIAMS (32), who sank this shot to aid the Bruins in turning the tables on Troy. DICK RIDGWAY (54), who rocked up 36 digits for the two nights, and two of Twogooder's do-gooders, TOMMY RIACH (6) and BOB BOYD (19), gazed netward waiting for a Bruin basket to be registered.

"That was a Riach one," yelled GENE WILLIAMS as he wheeled past Trojan TOMMY RIACH (6) for the hook-in. Genial Gene winding up his tenure with the Bruin basketeers was a major cog in the Bruin's superlative Pan Pacific performance that netted them a win in their second engagement with their vaunted but completely fogged crosstown foes.

washington playoffs

Sidetrined by a flu bug which showed a decided preference for star Bruin basketballers, the unhappy twosome of EDDIE SHELDRAKE and ART ALPER was joined in remorse by Coach JOHN WOODEN and LOIS SHELDRAKE as they watched the Bruins get two-timed by the Washington five in the Huskies home pavillion. However, the Westwooders came out on top at the end of the season.

"Okay, gang, let's go mod!" Head yell king SAMMIE GROSSMAN and the senior class goldbrick, STAN BERMAN, whooped it up before a large gathering of loyal Uclon followers. One of the quad get-togethers, the rally let the Bruin basketeers know that win, lose, or draw, the rooters were always there.

A crowd of roh-rohers gathered around the stage that took the Seattle sashayers plane-word. Despite being given a rousing send-off by the Bruin boosters, the combination of a Sheldroke-less and Alper-less starting quintet and a towering Husky hoop squad dashed Uclon hopes.

"... and I know that my boys will do their level best to whip the Huskies," uttered JOHN WOODEN at the rally prior to the Bruins departure for the Puget Sound area. But, with all the Bruin rooters' support, including the Kelps who were in attendance, the Broons best still was not good enough.

frosh basketball

Scintillating Ed Powell continued on his winning way as coach of the preps for Johnny Wooden's varsity cagers. Subduing his sense of humor long enough to teach his charges the advantages of the fast break, Coach Powell, with the assistance of ex-Bruin great Carl Krashaur, ended his fourth year as Brubabe mentor with his best record. Outstanding performers included Mike Hibler, who set a new scoring record, little Ron Livingston, and many more who will certainly be seen on next year's varsity squad.

The laughing lads, aide CARL KRASHAUR and head melan mentor ED POWELL, guided the freshman basketball team to another winning season. Gifted with Mike Hibler, who set a new frosh scoring mark, and Dixie Kilgore, soft-spoken Kentuckian, Powell and Krashaur found it easy to smile.

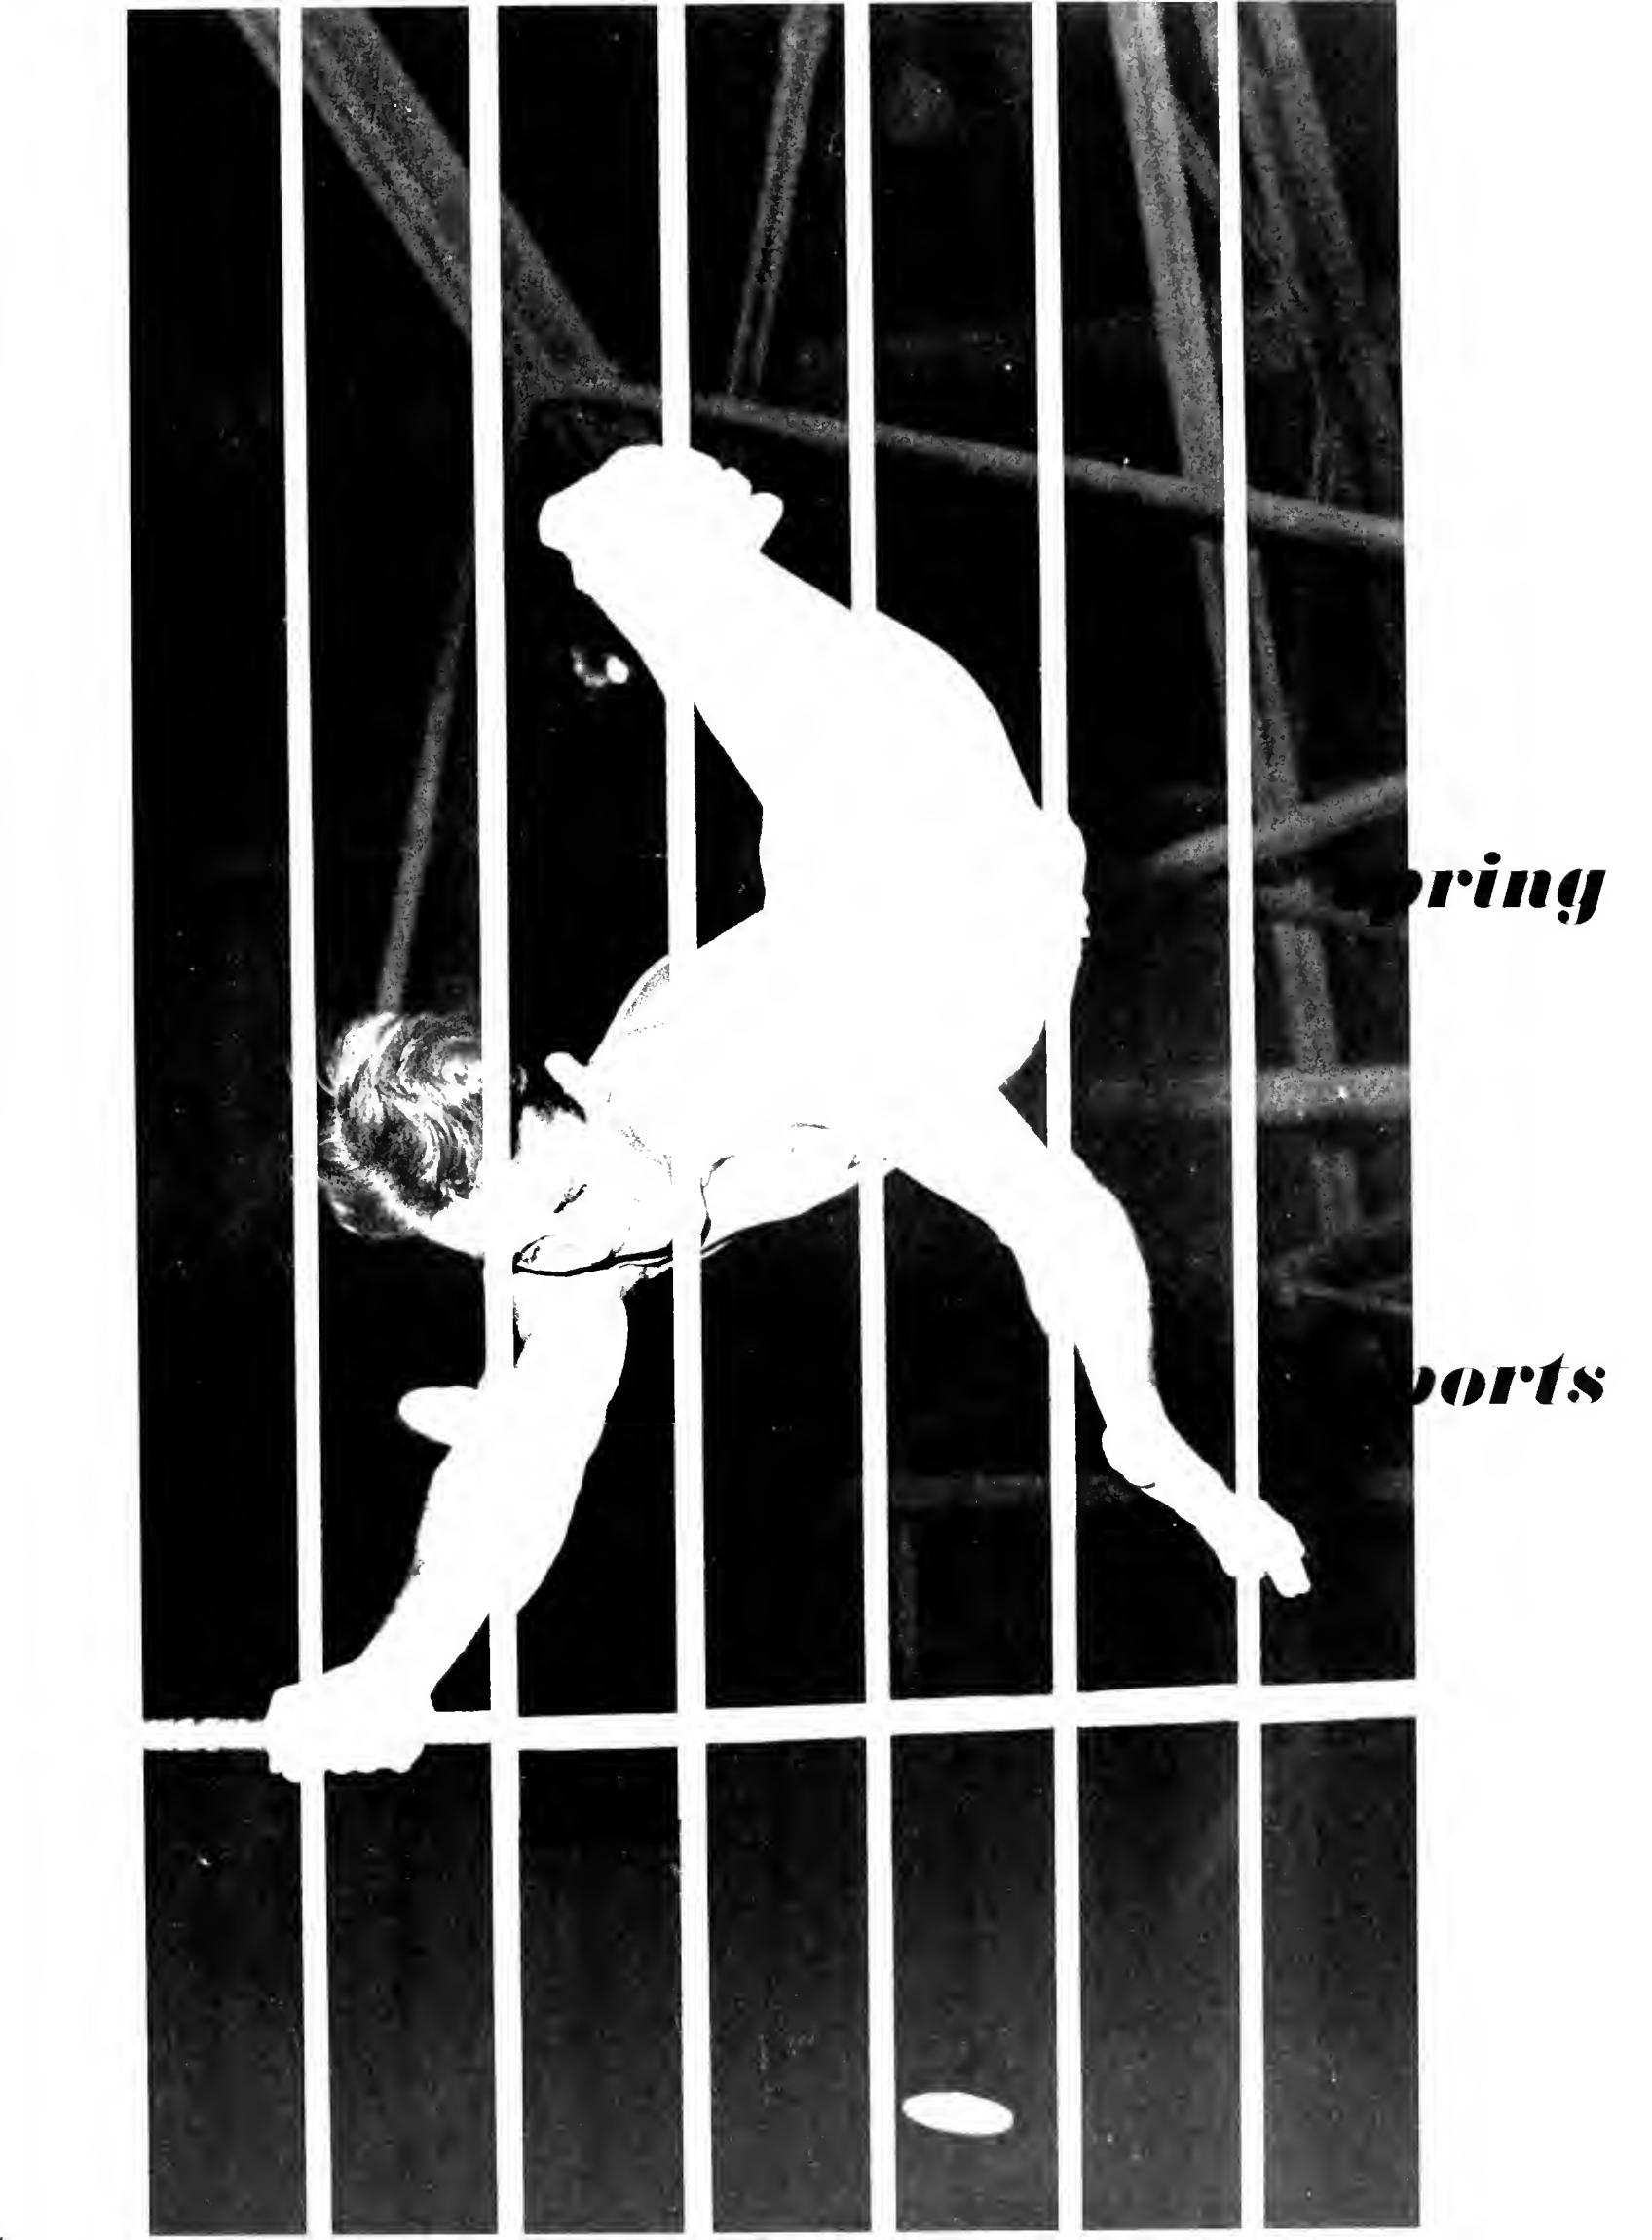

Captain DICK "Dixie" KILGORE at the left apparently pleased Manager HAROLD CRAWFORD no end. Dixie, with the help of Harold's towel to wipe the perspiration off his hands, was notorious for his long two-handed set shots and his demonstrations on how it should be done.

Hurryin' HANK STEINMAN (71), one of Coach "Bullreigh Jr." Powell's fantastic Brubabe bucketeers, snared the ball from the outstretched flanges of two tussling Troyearlings. Watching the better than 100 point slaughter of the SC peagreeners was MIKE HIBLER, Bruin high-paint hoopster.

The former pride and joy of Orange Coast JC, KENNY MOATS was honored as team captain, though only a junior. Possessed of an arm like a whip and the ability to clout the ball, Moats was regarded as big league stuff.

Guarding the hassacks, harsehide, and hickory was the task of HAROLD GROSSMAN, manager of the Bruin bat and ball corps. In his role of handy man under Coach Reichle, Grossman drew the praise of all.

Second place in the CIBA standings was the result of the efforts of these 1951 Uclan hardballers, who were in the first row, left to right, Coach ED POWELL, TEDDY NARLESKI, DICK GILSON, BOB MACNEIL, FRANK MUÑOZ, BUDDY BACTELLE, LARRY McMULLEN, ALVIN ROSE, and Coach ART REICHLE; second row, KENNY MOATS, CARROLL ADAMS, DICK HANSEN, GEORGE HUNTER, RAY O'CONNOR, DEL NUZUM, HAL CROW, and JERRY THOMAS; third row, HAROLD GROSSMAN, RICHARD LEIVERS, GENE CORSO, JOHN MORRILL, and RON GERST.

Another Bruin tally went up on the board as TED NARLESKI spiked home, barely beating the toss. Narleski, in his first year at short for the Bruins, gave a slick performance, plus clubbing at a .370 clip.

TED NARLESKI, who led the CIBA in stick-work, legged it to first against Loyola, but was tagged out. Tiny Teddy, the pride and joy of Red Sonders, proved equally adept while covorting at the shortpatch.

"We wuz robbed," screamed the avid followers of Coach Art Reichle's horsehide heroes. Finishing but a single notch behind the PCC champs, Rod Deadaux's potent Trojan nine, the UCLA Bruins gave great joy to the Westwood fans. Included in the great year were a twin win over the California Bears on the Berkeleyites home diamond and a split-even series with the Trojans. Laurels went to Ray 'Irish' O'Connor, who twice turned Troy on its ear, and to a sparkling Uke infield. The most glittering gem on the diamond was Ted Narleski, the leading sticker in the CIBA and one of the finest of all-time UCLA prospects.

ART REICHLE, president of the American Association of Baseball Coaches, and his able sidekick, ED POWELL, masterminded the Westwood horsehiders into a second spot behind the SC Trojans in the CIBA League.

Like a gazelle, sophomore GENE CORSO sped around the outfield, snagging many a blow that was destined for extra bases.

Prepping for the pros, leftfielder RONNIE GERST helped form the nucleus of one of the strongest Bruin outfields in years.

Horsehider DICK GILSON, sophomore chucker, started his Bruin career right by chalking up many hard earned victories.

The opponents ate just that as HAL CROW gave them the bird by his performance both at the plate and in centerfield.

Up from the frosh at the catcher slot, JERRY THOMAS displayed a batting eye and a throwing arm needing little improvement.

All-around athlete TEDDY NARLESKI boll-hawked from his shortstop spot and was a giant with his war club at the plate.

on the diamond

DEL NUZUM, a transfer from Long Beach City College, scampered throughout the season, catching flies way out in leftfield.

Returning letterman BOB STEWART wasn't one to stew about opposition while bolstering the already powerful outfield.

With his big first-base mitt and his un-conny ability to hit extra base blows JOHNNY MATULICH shone for the second year.

Moving from shortstop to second base which he snopped up like a natural, DIC HANSON had little fear of the horsehid-

Burning his skipping curve-ball over the plate seemed to be mighty easy for right-hander RAY O'CONNOR.

A letterman returning from the 1949 season, GEORGE HUNTER stalked the right-field, letting nary a fly ball get away.

On the mound for the Bruins, LARRY McMULLEN mowed down opposing batters with a snaky curve and blazing fire ball.

BOB MACNEIL, a hustling hurler from the 1950 aggregation, whisked his blazing fast ball past many a stunned opponent.

Another Wildcat bit the dust as BUDDY BACHTELLE (5) put the apple on the Arizonian for the p.o. Bochtelle, along with Norleski, Hanson, and Matulich, handled the inner defense in a smoother'n glass fashion.

King Kong KUKO MUNZO had his bat ready for the Cal hurler's offering and pasted it into the outer reaches. Swinging a mean war club, Munoz, Matulich, and Moats proved to be the much needed long ball hitters.

The hot corner looked mighty cool with smooth fielding BUDDY BACHTELLE scooping up the many balls that came his way.

Speedball spinner WARREN HART, letterman returnee, spun a very respectable record, pitching the Bruins to many victories.

FRANK MUÑOZ, grabbing hot grounders zooming through the infield, proved that his three year lay-off had no bad effect.

KENNY MOATS, captain of the 1951 Bruin nine, wielded a big stick at bat and was a stellar back-stop for the fireballers.

Grinning broadly in anticipation of the 1952 season and positions on the varsity squad were these members of the 1951 baseball Brubabe team. From left to right, first raw, they were LEO ALARID, STEVE WISE, DICK REEVES, TOM BISHOPBURGER, FRANK PIKE, and AL BATES; secand raw, left to right, Manager JACK BROOKS, MARTY STILES, LEE CARLSON, DICK KILGORE, RON MARSH, and Coach JACK MYERS.

In this practice session Coach JACK MYERS was putting two of the boys through a few paces. Waiting anxiously to tag out that Bruin runner was Brubabe first-sacker AL BATES. DICK REEVES (20) looked fine sliding but that ball was just too far ahead of him.

frosh baseball

Sporting one of the fanciest marks in Brubabe annals, Coach Jack Myer's frosh horsehiders will go down in history as one of the finest. With Marty Stiles, ace first year hurler, doing most of the mound work, aided and abetted by Dick Kilgore, freshman casaba star, the Brubabes posted an enviable seasonal record. At the plate, Leo Alerid and Frank Pike carried the brunt of the attack, their stellar sticking driving many opposing twirlers to the cooler confines of the training quarters. The winning season came as a fitting going-away present for Coach Myers, who will be joining Idaho's athletic staff.

These three horsehiders performed just about everything that was done on the frosh diamond. Coach JACK MYERS, at the right, guided the Brubabes to a successful season; Catcher LEO ALARID captained the 1951 frosh baseballers; and Manager JACK BROOKS was there to pick up the bats.

cricket

Going against an old adage that it wasn't cricket to win all the time, Coach Joe Drury's Westwooding cricket team bowled over all foes but one, to hang up another nine and one record. Kingpin of the wicketeers, and aiding in making all Joe's opponents drury, was Cliff Severen, who repeatedly wound up as batting ace as well as serving them up as chief bowler. Cricket, the tea and crumpeter's delight, rapidly gained favor in its second year as a minor sport at UCLA. Wicket watching, new to many fans, again proved that UCLA gave the fans what they desire in the way of athletic events.

Wielding a wicked cricket paddle himself, Coach JOE DRURY led the cricket team through a superlative season, assisted by BOB McDONALD, vice-captain; MARVIN SACKS, manager; and IRWIN THOMPSON, captain. All was well with Drury in charge.

track

Captain HUGH MITCHELL, the inspirational wheel horse of a nane-taa-deep Bruin scant clad squad, outlasted more than one foe in traversing the quarter mile, the twice-around event, and anchoring the relay.

There with a water bucket, or when a towel was needed, or even when a charlie-horse needed rubbing down were these three managers of the 1951 track team, who were, left to right, DON ROSS, CLERK WINGERT, DON ESACOVE.

Winding up his fourth year at the helm of the Bruin track and field forces, Ducky Drake could look back with satisfaction at having coached one of his finest cinder squads. Paced by record breakers George Brown, Rod Richard, Don Hangen, and Jerry Withers, the Bruin spikers rolled over all opponents until meeting their across-the-way nemesis, the SC Hill-siders. Knee deep in top notch dash men, the Drakesters ran wild in various relays, overpowering other baton wielders. Highlight of the season came when the Broons kicked the spikes from underneath the favored Stanford thinclads, garnering second in the PCC meet.

Teaming up to give UCLA the best possible in track mentoring, ELVIN "Ducky" DRAKE, he of the broad smile and bald pate, and PATRICK EDMARINE TURNER, Drake's assistant, tutored the Bruins to their greatest year.

Durable DON HANGEN, the double duty leather lunging, ran off and left his field in winning the mile against Santa Barbara. Hangen was later to obliterate Ray Balch's mile mark with a scintillating 4.20.

Number one bambaa-zler LEN EILERS sailed off into the wild blue yonder, soaring as high as 13'6". Along with Bill Walling, another member of the Bruin vaulting crew, Eilers stands to erase the UCLA p.v. standard.

Bare foot boy with cheek was JOHNNY KALIN, who spearheaded the Drokester's vertical leap corps. The tandem of Kalin and intramural champ Luke Anthony was potent enough to warrant foes fretting.

"Let George do it," or "Let's do it up Brown." Either of these phrases could have been applied to GEORGE BROWN, quarter-mile-sprinting-broad jumper, who established a new horizontal leap of 25'6 3/4".

Getting his long legs after service in the navy, CHARLEY PHILLIPS joined the Droke land forces, choosing to travel around and around the oval until the distance of three knots or two miles was covered.

Throwing the 16-pound globe was little trouble for comparatively small but mighty weightman DON CARTER. This ex-Glendale JC athlete did much to solve the shot put problem that had Coach Drake losing sleep.

Flesh FREDRICK "The Great" BECK snatched the baton from versatile GEORGE BROWN in the Indian-Bruin duel affair. Beck's truly great performance was to come later in nabbing a second in the SC 880.

Captain HUGH MITCHELL and JACK SAGE tore down to the wire for the Bruins to give the Uclan one-lappers a one-two punch in the Stanford setto. This duo racked up valuable digits in the Uke's win.

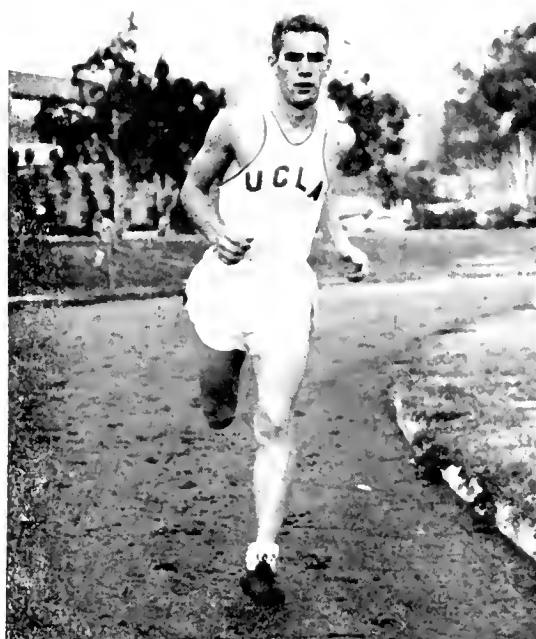

BOB WORK and ROD RICHARD seemed to be taped together as the Bruin sprint team played Alphonse and Gaston with each other throughout the year. Richard set a new Bruin zenith in the 100 with a 9.5s.

Hustlin' HUGH WILSON, the Phi Psi prexy, bore the brunt of the Bruin barrier work, being used in the high hedge hopping (14.1) as well as sailing over the low sticks in the very respectable time of 23.7s.

on the oval

Chief man on the Bruin cross-country team, MARTY DONOHUE carried this endurance to round out the mile and two mile entrants of Coach Drake. With two seasons remaining Marty was still a threat to the records.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, Mr. CLIFFORD LIVINGSTON has demonstrated the manly art of spear fishing for flying fish." Javelin artist Livingston snagged his shore of the hard earned Uclon digits.

Although not threatening to push Peter Potter off his podium, plotter spinner DAYE WILLIAMS doffed his moleskins for scanties and whipped the discus out near the one hundred sixty foot area.

JERRY WITHERS found little trouble in negotiating the distance of two miles as he sped around the oval to gain points in most of the Bruins' meets. A strong finisher, he found the eighth lap the easiest.

frosh track

Jumping broad came easy for peagreen trockster MALCOLM RILEY as he clenched his fists and yelled, "Look out. Here I come." With the perfect form exhibited here he was a certain point getter and left no worries for Coach Pat Turner about this event in any Brubabe meet.

Coach PAT TURNER, on the right with the stop watch in his hand, was apparently showing the distance runner and captain of the Brubabe trackmen, LARRY CARTER, one of his record-breaking times. Looking on was Manager Ross Kerlin, saying, "It was the Hadocol I gave him that did it."

Led by diminutive Lawrence 'Larry' Carter, Pat Turner's freshman track and field squad bowed before only three opponents, one the deadly SC Trobabs. Carter shattered all existing Bruin frosh mile marks by touring the four laps in 4:24s. University High School contributed Malcolm Riley to the Brubabe cause along with Don Guttery. Riley skipped the low hurdles and broad jumped over twenty feet while the gritty Guttery gamboled over the four hundred and forty yards in around fifty-one seconds. Peak performances were given by all in the SC meet, which saw the underdog peagreeners nearly score a topsy-turvy.

cross country

Setting a withering pace, JERRY WITHERS, both footsie in the ozone, galloped away from all leather lungers in Westwood's back woods. The Turner trotters, headed by the willowy Withers, MARTY DONOHUE, and CHUCK PHILLIPS, found the rough terrain to their liking in many wins.

Stop watch in hand, daur-faced PAT TURNER, UCLA's cross country coach, discussed the uphill battle the Bruins would face throughout the cross country season with the Uke hedge-hopping captain, AL MINJARES. Another successful year was completed by the Uclans under the able Turner.

"The best record in the annals of Bruin tennis fare" . . . these were the wards of Coach J. D. Morgan following the tennis season that saw the Bruins sweep aside all foes to take PCC tennis laurels. Members of the championship squad were left to right, back row, LYNN JONES, KELLY STARR, HUBERT SCHMEIDER, ANDY TOMAS, KEITH SELF, ROBIN WILLNER, ED KAUDER, LARRY HEUBNER, and Coach J. D. MORGAN; front row HILLEL BAKER, HUGH WASHBURN, Captain JACK SHOEMAKER, JACK HASTINGS, GERALD GOLDSTEIN, and SAM MOORE.

Giving this Hickock a belt, Stanford's GEORGE HICOCK, JACK SHOEMAKER led his team to a win over the Pala Alta hard-court heroes.

Double trouble for foes was the captivating combine of ROBIN WILLNER and ED KAUDER, who often teamed to two-time oppressing netters.

tennis

One of the Jones boys, LYNN JONES was entrusted with keeping the balls bounceable and the rockets in tip top shape for the year's Morgan-mastered tennis team. He had a deuce of a time.

Winding up his final fling as a Bruin racket wielder, JACK SHOEMAKER was elected squad captain. Alternating with Robin Willner as top man, Shaemaker proved that a sizzling serve was his ace in the hole.

Taking over the guide lines from Bill Ackerman, J. D. MORGAN made an auspicious debut by coaching the Uke netters to a Pacific Coast Conference championship, tumbling Troy twice along the way.

Steady senior ED KAUDER was a team mainstay, held California intercollegiate doubles title with Robin Willner.

An ace for the '49 Brubabes, KELLY STARR lived up to his surname in his second year on the Westwood hard surfaces.

A net gain to the championship squad was HUBERT SCHMEIDER, who picked up valuable points in the Bruin title drive.

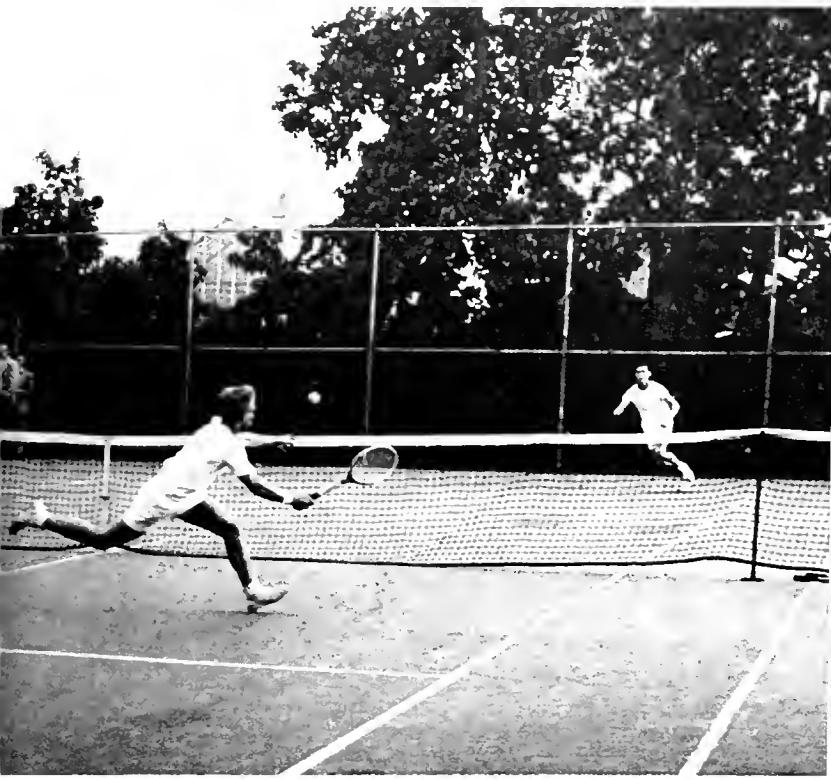

Never nettled over a loss, Indian GEORGE HICOCK extended the hand of sportsmanship to winner JACK SHOEMAKER.

After tennis touring abroad for a year, LEFTY WILLNER returned to Ucland to alternate with Shaemaker for top position.

A sizzling serve which kept opponents hopping made ANDY THOMAS a powerful asset to any doubles partnership.

Performing before the gentry, ROBIN WILLNER blasted his Brave opponent, GEORGE GENTRY, clear off the Bruin courts.

This devastating doubles team composed of Captain JACK SHOEMAKER and LARRY HEUBNER romped to victory in many tandem tries.

on the court

Service with a smile was the motto of LARRY HEUBNER, who gave this adage a new twist as a top flight rocketeer.

Skillful SAM MOORE shone as a strong finisher in doubles play, aspired to become a singles stalwart in the future.

Captain of the most successful tennis team in Uke annals was the title going to JACK SHOEMAKER, number one netter.

Never one to ball up the works, KEITH SELF earned the grade "A" label for his top notch racket wielding.

These racketeers of the 1951 Brubabe tennis team lobbed the little white ball back and forth across the net to end up with a highly respectable season. They were left to right, first row, LARRY GREENE, CONRAD WOODS, JOHN IRELAND, BERK EICHEL, DON PLATT, and GEORGE MOORE; second row, Manager LYNN JONES, DON FONTANA, STAFFORD CARSON, Captain BOB PERRY, DOUGLAS MARKEL, BOB JACOBS, KEN POLLACK and Coach J. D. MORGAN.

Hitting the little tennis ball in the right way was easy for this doubles team. Here demonstrating the necessary coordination was CONRAD WOODS, as he returned an opponent's volley. STAFFORD CARSON, on the right, was as much as saying, "It ain't much. Wait 'til it's my turn."

frosh tennis

With bounding Bob Perry wielding the number one racket with amazing aplomb, the star-laden UCLA frosh tennis team stroked its way through an undefeated season. Perry, who ranked high in national junior ratings, teamed up with a couple of future Canadian cuppers, Conrod Woods and Don Fontana, to form a tremendous triumvirate of the tennis courts. Guided by J. D. Morgan, the yearlings of Westwood raced by foe after foe and gave much credence to the statement that UCLA was destined to become a mecca of the intercollegiate tennis world. With youngsters like this coming along, Morgan could find that this coaching of tennis was quite a racket after all.

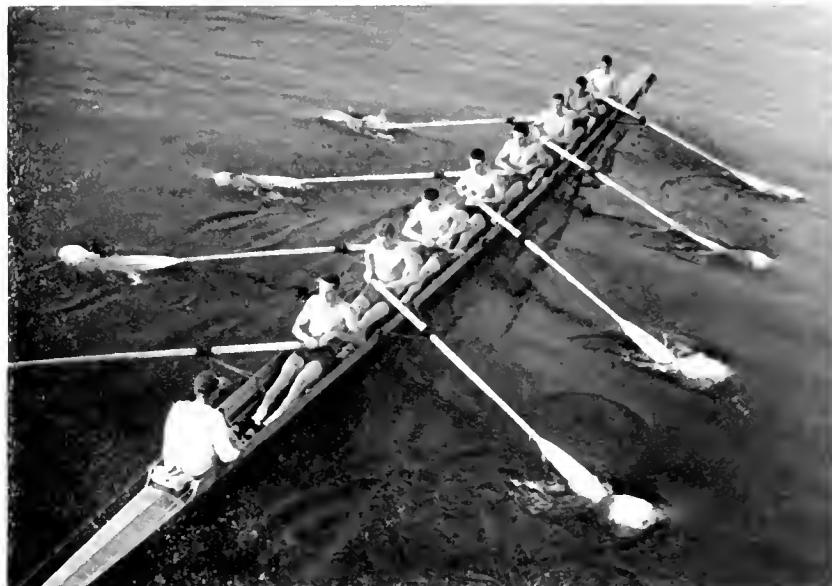

Under the direction of Coach J. D. MORGAN, on the left, and captained by BOB PERRY, in the center, plus the talents of GEORGE MOORE, the Brubabes wielded their rackets, taking the words of these three persons as law. And right they were, as the team went on to many victories.

crew

Coach Bob Schaeffer for the second year in a row molded a shapely eight-some from comparatively inexperienced strokers. With but one year's paddling under the belts of most of the aspirants, little was expected from their efforts. Enthusiasm and freely given time won out as shown by the results of the season. Victory over the crosstown rival was sweet, but a lesson now and then was also good for the paddlers, the latter being administered by brother Bear. Crew-sing down the river, commonly known as Ballona Creek, brought forth applause from all onlookers. Crew at UCLA kept on making the right moves.

Here was the total group of eager Bruins who had hopes of becoming the select eight plus that little gremlin called the coxswain who fill the varsity shell. Day after day they took the shells from the Ballona Creek boat house and glided up and down the 2000-meter run, pulling as one of the word, "Stroke!" With Coach Bob Schaeffer alongside in his motor driven launch that one fateful word from the coxswain had to be law.

With coxswain BILL SMITH at the helm prodding the crew to greater efforts, the varsity shell was seen flying over the water. An ultimate in teamwork was needed in this sport, and the constant practice time devoted by these nine men resulted in perfect form.

Pooling their thoughts in an effort to spur the Bruin splashers on to bigger and better things in the way of swimming were Coach BRUD CLEVELAND, Manager TONY GORSLINE, and captain of the Uke paddlers, MONTE NITZKOWSKI. This trio was responsible for the Bruins' fine tank efforts.

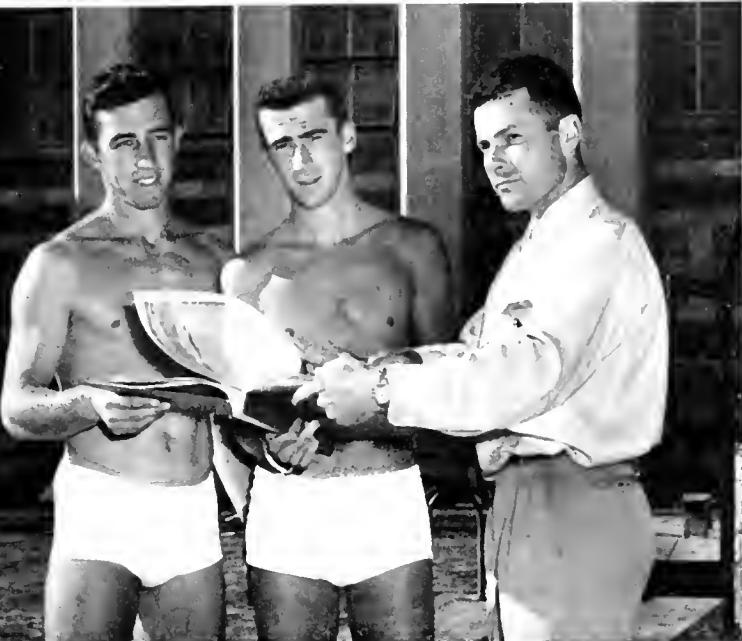

"Only fair ta middling" . . . that would be the term used to describe the success of the Bruin swim team. Although boasting one of the best two hundred meter breaststroke men in the business in Captain Monte Nitzkowski and two fine free style thrashers in Jack Spargo and Johnny Chandler, Coach Brud Cleveland's natators never really got in the swim of things. A lack of depth of polished paddlers hampered the Bruins' chances of finishing any higher than third in the PCC standings. With most of the splashers back next year, Coach Cleveland had high hopes for a winning team in 1952.

"Well, I swan," cried AL TREFRY as the ace Bruin diver sprang from the bouncing board in the Westwood pool. Trefry, along with Jack Brodowy, frequented dives regularly in spearheading the Uclon department that called for fancy copers and oh's and ah's from the audience.

Attempting to prove that one can still win while going backwards, a trio of tonkers shoved off from the Westwood aquarium in what was obviously the backstroke. Churning furiously, the Bruin boisterous backstrokers frequently outsploshed foes who streaked through the Uke waterway.

water polo

The churning Bruin water poloists of 1950 enjoyed their most successful season under the driving hand of Coach Brud Cleveland. Winding up the season with a victory over the vaunted SC Trojans and the team championship in the Southern California AAU water polo tourney, the paddlers displayed the winning form that has been developing since the last great southern division championship team of 1942. Besides showing fine teamwork throughout the season, this year's squad produced several outstanding players. Net tender Doyle Britton, winner of the Bob Starr memorial trophy, and point getter Pete Stange were two of the best.

Hard hit by the loss of such poloists as Jock Nelson and Bab Koenig, the Bruin water polo paddlers still managed to keep their heads above water as evidenced by these stalwarts in the back row, left to right, JOHN CHANDLER, GEORGE BARLOW, JERRY LADHOFF, WEBB CULTER, and Coach BRUD CLEVELAND; front row, left to right, JOE POPOVICH, JOHN GILLESPIE, LARRY BALL, and MONTE NITZKOWSKI.

This was one the Uclons couldn't lose if they tried because the shot showed the Bruin water poloists opposing each other. GEORGE BARLOW zoomed the ball toward the net while MONTE NITZKOWSKI (4), JOHN CHANDLER (3), JERRY LADHOFF (7), and goalie JOE POPOVICH attempted to ward off the ball.

Clouting RICK TEMPLETON traded blows with a California Poly pugilist in a match that saw Templeton duke his opponent, although the Bruin team suffered one of its three losses. Again the Bruin boxers bested a majority of their opposition, adding stature to the Mike O'Gara record.

boxing

Guided by ex-pro Mike O'Gara, the 1950-51 edition of the Uclan mittmen squad slugged its way to prominence in the intercollegiate baxing world. Led by heavy-weight Bab Edworts, the belting Bruins bawled over a string of opponents, including California and the lads from Figueroa way. This year's fine squad was lacking in experience, but with O'Gara bringing the boys along in fine fashion, Bre'r Bruin's beek-busting talents began to show before the season was too old. O'Gara, who was still able to outskip most of his charges, wreathed many smiles after his leather pushers racked up a victorious year.

"Nice work, Bob," beamed Coach MIKE O'GARA as he fondly eyed the trophy, emblematic of the intercollegiate state championship held by heavyweight BOB EDWARDS. Edwards, a senior and captain of the Bruin boxers, nabbed this honor in Sacramento to give Irishman O'Gara something to beam about.

wrestling

Bending elbows with the best of them, the 1950-51 wrestling team threw its weight around in setting an imposing record of six wins against a duo of defeats. On the plus side the Uclans registered victories over San Diego State, Cal Poly, El Toro Marines, Orange Coast JC, LACC, and the Los Angeles YMCA. Defeats came at the hands of San Jose State and California. Noteworthy accomplishments of the sweat and strain stars were garnering a first place in both novice and junior AAU competition and a second place in the senior AAU meet. Only in the Pacific Coast Conference meet did the Bruins go pointless.

Attempting to imitate Al Capp's octopus, Bruin FOY, the grunt and groaner who was on top, tangled arms, legs, feet, and hands with Cal Poly's DONER in another Uke intercollegiate scrap that saw the Huntmen subdue their northern foes 19-8. There was nothing phony about these matches.

WELLINGTON SMITH and OSCAR VAN CLEVE traded saber points in this intriguing sport that called for intricate maneuvers, precision of balance, and agility. Others gathered around the match were, left to right, WAYO WONG, CHARLES WIMBERLY, RAY WESCOTT, and HUBERT OLLANGER.

Getting to the point, the 1951 Bruin fencing team was captained by Charles Wimberly. Under his tutelage, these masters at poking fun at each other sashayed their way through their most successful season since the sport was first stuck on the UCLA agenda. Sharp performances were turned in constantly by the entire team, but outstanding were fencers Burt Marks and Manny Kaster. An outdoor sport, the matches were often played on the area between Rayce Hall and the library; the Ukes lost not one of these quad-rangles. Needless to say, this sport could be called the art of self-de-fence.

Parrying WALLINGFORD VAN EVERY's thrust with incredible ease, the Bruin fencing captain, CHARLES WIMBERLY, showed amazing dexterity in fending off his foe's feints. This art, which gained fame in the old country, was brought up to date by the Uclan's terrifying touches.

golf

Running their win list to nineteen in a row before finally being upended by Pomona College, Coach Vic Kelly's linksters still managed to compile a very respectable won-four, lost-eight record. Finishing third in the state intercollegiate tournament and nabbing another third in the PCC, Kelly's tee-masters capped their season with an upset victory over favored Southern California. In Ben Alyea, team captain, the Bruins boasted one of the four top collegiate divot diggers in the state. Others meriting statewide attention were Ray Steelsmith, Dave Stanley, and Seymour Black, all vies for fairway laurels.

One of the top four intercollegiate golfers in the state . . . that was the honor garnered by Captain BEN ALYEA of the UCLA divot diggers. A smooth stroker and precise putter, Alyea paced the tee-rific Bruin linksters to a highly successful season . . . putting it mildly.

Using the tee formation with more than a fair amount of success, head tee-totaler VIC KELLY and his right hand man, JOE NOVAK, gave the Ukes another winning golfing group. Novak was the noted Bel-Air Country Club pro and national PGA president, while Kelly, a low 70 man, also scribbled Bruin lore.

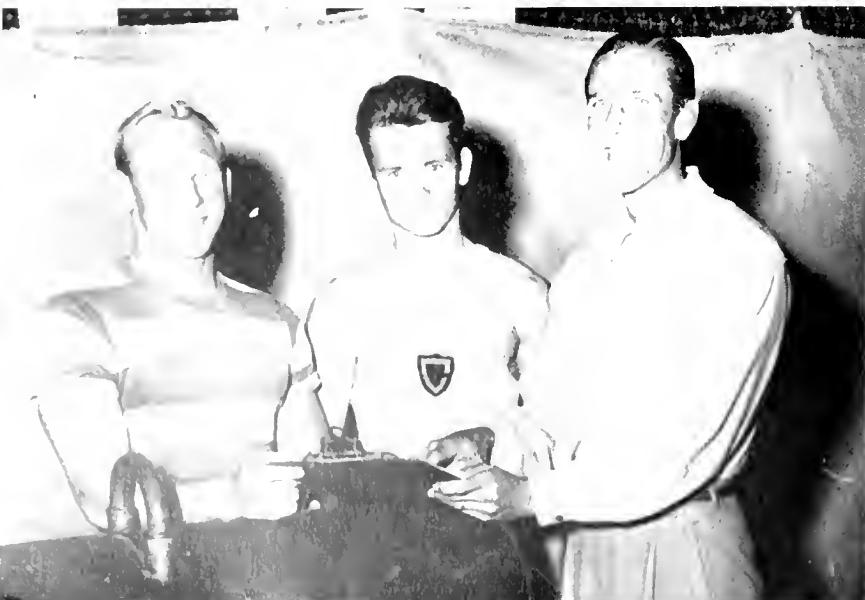

Gymnastics, or standing on one finger while flexing, came mighty easy to this group of equilibrium-plus Bruins, who were left to right in the first row, MALCOLM TIPP, WALTER GAISFORD, MICKEY BRAIMAN, PAUL HATAGO, AL ROSENTHAL; second raw, WAYNE LOGAN, AL LYNCH, IRWIN PARIS, JOHN MIZUSHIMA, DENNIS GLOVER, BOB ENRIOUEZ, NORM FRIEDMAN; top row, Manager TOM HUMPHREY, BOB GORDON, LES ALEXANDER, ERNIE GROSSBLATT, DICK LONGMAN, RON HOWELL, WALL BICKMORE, SID GILMAN, and Coach BOB STICHTER.

"Look, Ma, no hands." That was nearly the case with one of UCLA's finest side horse artists, RONNIE HOWELL. Coached by Bob Stichter, Howell spearheaded a fine Bruin gymnast squad which set out to prove that the art of pretzel bending could be done gracefully and with a minimum of effort.

gymnastics

Under the first-year tutelage of Coach Bob Stichter, the 1951 Bruin gymnastic team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons. Garnering third spot in the PCC championships and swamping Stanford in a dual meet by a score of 73-7 were the highlights of the season. Assisting Stichter in his first year at the gym helm was Cece Hollingsworth, long-time Westwood gymnastic coach. Outstanding performers on the team were Captain Wally Bickmore on the horizontal bars, Ron Howell, Bob Gordon, and Wayne Logan on the side horse, Al Lynch and Sid Gilman in free exercise, and John Mizushima on the rings.

Peering over the horse, or what they call the object with the handle, were the big-wigs of the 1951 gymnastics team. On the left was the handy manager, TOM HUMPHREY. Captain of the team was horizontal bar expert WALLY BICKMORE, and on the right was the gymnast mentor, BOB STICHTER.

These rampaging rumpers from the rifle range pelted their opponents purposefully while setting their sights on a season of superb performances. The 1951 rifle team members were left to right, first row, Manager MURRAY RUBINOW, JACK KRAMER, MURRAY FRANKLIN, DENNIS GLOVER, WAYNE FOGLESONG, and ART McCOOLE; second row, DOUG TROWBRIDGE, PAT WILLIAMS, Sergeant JOHN PONKOW, BOB PETERSON, RALPH MICHAELSON, and PHILLIP DEAN.

In one of the few events where it paid to have the record shot full of holes, the UCLA rifle team scored direct hits on a majority of their sharpshooting opponents. Coached by Sergeant Pankow of the ROTC department, the never-miss Bruin sure-shots were led by Murray Rubinow, who shattered the NRA intercollegiate mark as well as the national small bore gallery record with a scintillating 295. Other marksmen who toppled targets with amazing regularity were Doug Trowbridge and Art McCoole. The Bruins rifled foes repeatedly, erasing former standards set by past Uke bulls-eye boys.

Riflers BOB PETERSON and PHILLIP DEAN, seen shooting from what was called the prone position, often said they did their best jobs lying down. Two of the mainstays of the 1951 Bruin rifle team, these pellet propellers set a pace that their teammates much envied.

MURRAY RUBINOW, captain and manager of the Bruin rifles, on the right, proved to be the right choice of his teammates as he set and broke records right and left while leading the team to victory. Sergeant JOHN PONKOW, amiable coach, taught the haws and whys of the carbine court.

Facing on uphill fight all the way, this group of slats sliders staved off defeat time after time for the Bruin skiing cause. Left to right in the back row they were, HANNUS BOEHM; SAM GROSSMAN, the same lad who so ably lent his lungs to the yell king spot; BEPPI GROSS, captain supreme; LOU RANKIN; DICK PORTER, URA's pride and joy; and the brilliant cooch and renowned slalom star, WOLFGANG LERT.

Flying through the air with the greatest of ease was BEPPI GROSS, one of the outstanding members of the 1951 Bruin ski team. "There ain't no flies on me," said Beppi, for not even a fly would have the nerve to go off the jump that was easy as pie for this skier.

skiing

The slip and slide sensations of the Westwood hills, the 1950-51 UCLA ski team, coached by Wolfgang Lert, waved the Uclan banner high in garnering its share of points in competition. Finding the Pacific Coast inter-collegiate meet their meat, the Bruin slatmen nailed down a third place behind Nevada in the session that was held in Squaw Valley at Lake Tahoe. Aces of the Lert-men were sportsters Hannes Boehm and Dick Porter, who placed seventh and eighth, respectively, in the California-Nevada-Hawaii state championships, their honors being taken in the open division of the cross country skiing contest.

These Bruin barrel-slavers really put the skids under the feet of their opposition. Coached by WOLFGANG LERT, far left, and captained by BEPPI GROSS, the Bruin skiing squad was paced by DICK PORTER, center. Slaloming, stem christies . . . these were all in an afternoon's work.

A mid-stream change certainly did not affect the smooth running program of UCLA's Panhellenic council. The marriage of President Norma Jean Nelson put Alice Hall into the office for the spring semester. Panhellenic's biggest undertaking was its annual spring dance held this year at the Riviera Country Club. As usual, proceeds went to the scholarship fund. A raffle was also planned to raise funds for the redecoration of the Women's Lounge. Panhellenic and IFC collaborated on an exchange dinner and a faculty tea in the fall. In May the annual junior college orientation program was held to acquaint junior college women with sorority life on the UCLA campus. Under the direction of Gerre Turk the Junior Panhellenic council also enjoyed a successful year with the traditional semi-annual banquets highlighting each semester.

Alpha Chi Omega's social calendar was spotlighted by the annual winter formal held at the Bel Air Hotel. Also prominent in the year's events was the spring dance at the Santa Monica Beach Club. The Chapter house, complete with newly finished study room and dorm, was the scene for a Hawaiian luau held in honor of the initiates. All Alpha Chis spent spring vacation basking in the sun at Balboa far fram classes and homework assignments. Char Weiss, Southern Campus editor and Pi Delta Epsilon member, Maggie Kester, NSA coordinator and Mortar Board, and Stuart McKenna, member of Cal Club, were a few of the Alpha Chis active in campus affairs. Others were Spurs Gwinn Allenberg and Virginia Herzen, Chime Mary Lou Robeson, Matar Board Sharla Perrine, Terry Smith of the Daily Bruin staff, and Dee Rodriguez, Southern Campus dormitory editor. The Alpha Chi Omega chapter house proudly sported a blue ribbon won in the doll contest sponsored by AWS. A shiny golden trophy was won by the Alpha Chi quartet for humorous harmanizing in the AMS Spring Sing, while Stuart McKenna, Gloria Hefton, Wanda Case, and Char Weiss disharmonized as Trolls.

An April wedding added pleasant confusion to the life of Alpha Chi President NANCY HOLMLAD as she bassed student teaching classes, Alpha Chi Omega and husband Grant Cary, who was an SAE at SC.

First among college sororities to celebrate its centennial, Alpha Delta Pi observed the occasion of its one-hundredth birthday by a national convention held in Macon, Georgia, commemorating the event. High point of the UCLA's chapter's social season was the annual Diamond Ball, held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. Other outstanding events were a Christmas party given with the Phi Kappa Psi's and the Spring Sing finals at the Hollywood Bowl. ADPi queens included Pat Prichard, honorary colonel of Scabbard and Blade. Ann Zimmerman was secretary of Panhellenic, and Marlene Dittmor was vice-president of Junior Panhellenic. Betty Jane Kersig was in charge of entertainment for the Mardi Gras, and Virginia Zoratovich worked on Southern Campus. Freshman secretary was Carolyn Howe, and Lenore Reigel served as vice-president of Red Cross. Also working on Red Cross were Martha Barrett and Ann Donnelley. Spurs included Diana Hall and Phyllis Peters, and Joy Wyss was a member of Chimes. ADPi's in the spring semester proudly showed off their newly enlarged and redecorated house.

A convincing bit of black magic was worked by the ADPi's in their sparkling Spring Sing version of "That Old Black Magic." The girls were appropriately clad as they appeared on that exciting Hollywood Bowl night.

Mortar Board SONNY KATSCH proved she was really activity-minded. Chairman of both Women's Week and the Red Cross blood bank, she also worked an AWS publicity, all while doing a first rate job for AEPsi, too.

alpha epsilon phi

Beginning an eventful year with the pledge formal held at the Beverly Hills' Crystal Room, Alpha Epsilon Phi members next made plans for their bi-annual Charity Ball; this was an all campus affair held at the Ambassador Hotel to raise funds for underprivileged children, and, as usual, it was very successful. The AEPhi's were also the proud winners of the Panhellenic trophy and of a city-wide scholarship trophy. But the girls didn't spend all their time with books; they entered into many campus activities, too. Spurs claimed Marilyn Provisor and Sharon Greenbaum, while OCB Chairman Beverly Nemer and Shirley Segal served on Chimes. Shell and Oar tapped Hila Einhorn. Other activity girls were Sonny Katsch, Mortar Board; Phyl Horowitz and Betty Summers, Trolls; and Joan Sebel, UCLA song leader and OCB member. The Alpha Epsilon Phi's, steered by Presidents Sonny Katsch and Helaine Zalkover, finished the year in high style by placing first in the High Jinx show and by winning the sweepstakes award during Women's Week.

Heading the list of social events for the year was the fabulous spring formal held at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The Alpha Gam's and their dates spent a wonderful weekend swimming, playing tennis, and just plain sunbathing, with the formal dinner-dance as a fitting climax. Spinning the wheel of fortune early in the fall semester, they presented the Alpha Gambler, a party which featured a night club theme. Appropriate to the frosty season, the house was turned into the Snow'd Inn for a midwinter ski party in December. In campus activities Marjie Kejsar, who was elected vice-president of the junior class, rated especially high. Carol Jacobson and Helen Tenney were tapped for Spurs, while Bobby Brown, Jackie Biggerstaff, and Marjie Kejsar were active on Rally Committee. Alpha Gamma Delta also boasted three members on Shell and Oar, crew honorary; they were Evie Bevins, Jackie Biggerstaff and Marjie Kejsar. In the beauty department Betty Mathews reigned, as she was chosen attendant to the Girl of the Golden West.

Senior ROSEMARY SAWYER, though busy as Alpha Gam prexy, still took time off to do plenty of swimming. She was also active on the senior council and the Panhellenic Judiciary Board.

Spiritedly racing through an activity-packed season, Alpha Gamma Delta produced a colorful Homecoming float and then went on to carry that enthusiasm into all other occasion, be they social or educational.

JEAN STOCKWELL, fall president of Alpha Delta Chi, completed her senior year in preparation for a teaching career. Her membership in the Education Club furthered social as well as professional plans.

AAX

Holidays were highlighted in the Alpha Delta Chi social calendar this year as they danced at the annual Christmas formal, celebrated the mid-semester vacation by taking their traditional jaunt up to Big Bear, and observed Memorial Day by having a picnic with their SC chapter. The family was included in ADChi plans when they held another picnic in May, inviting their parents. A trip to Padua Hills was also on their agenda. Under the able guidance of Jean Stockwell and Clara Dorn, presidents, ADChis were active in intramural sports, in UCLA Christian missionary work, and in sending clothing to the needy overseas. Important in the year's schedule was the ADChi national convention held April 20 to 22, at which local members were hostesses.

A long list of service projects highlighted a busy year for Alpha Kappa Alpha. The Los Angeles graduate chapter presented Hazel Scott as the 1951 feature of their annual concert series, and they planned to present Katherine Dunham in a dance recital in the future. Both the undergraduate and graduate chapters in Los Angeles donated their services to the Children's Hospital and to the Eastside Settlement House, which was headed by AKA Exie Lee Hampton. Nationally, Alpha Kappa Alpha gave support to the Mississippi Health Project by means of a travelling medical unit. The UCLA chapter was active in its support of the Uni Camp drive and the Mardi Gras. Anna King was winner of the year's Bank of America award and Rudell Slay was president of Stevens House.

SHIRLEY SPENCER capably served AKA as president during 1950-1951 season. A graduating senior, Shirley wiled away many an hour in KH 210 as an Organizations Control Board secretary.

Chico again the traditional Candlelight Ball was an affair that lit up the sky and brought the spring semester to a glittering close for the Alpha Omicron Pi's. While the scene of this annual formal was the Beverly Hills Hotel Crystal Room, the Rodeo Room was the place for the winter formal, another social highlight. In activities, girl of the year was sophomore Betty Sullivan; this busy AOPi was on Student Board and in Cal Club, and she was also a member of Spurs and was tapped by Trolls. Other Spurs were Delores Kejsar and Pat Koestner. Active on Rally Committee were Delores Kejsar and Paulette Henry, with Paulette also a freshman yell-leader. AOPi Elizabeth Krieger was in Chimes, and the crew honorary, Shell and Oar, had Joan Landweer, Pat Koestner and Ruth Campbell on its membership roster. Tops in beauty was Marilyn Turley, who was chosen princess to the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. The biggest honor of the year, though, came with the Spring Sing. The AOPi's and the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity again won the mixed group division with a perfect performance.

Off for a week end of fun were the northern-bound AOPI's, who were getting ready to board the plane which would take them to Berkeley and the Cal game. The unfortunate scare failed to dampen their spirits.

NANCY BLAIR returned to finish a successful administration after spending a summer at the University of Hawaii. A senior, Nancy's plans included marriage and teaching school after graduation.

The luck of the Irish followed the Alpha Phi house as the girls journeyed across Finian's Rainbow and found a pot of gold at the end of it. They were first place winners in the women's division of the Spring Sing.

Harmoniously combining their efforts, the Alpha Phi's blended three songs from Finian's Rainbow and won the women's division of the annual Spring Sing. Intramural sports also found the Alpha Phi's placed way up on the list of winners as they were intramural victors in volleyball and league winners in basketball. Sports star was tennis player Lee Van Keuren. On the artistic side, the Alpha Phi's boasted Dorothy Bailey, who won the lead in Ramona, and Jeanette Stinchfield, a member of the national art honorary. Leading activity girl was Student Board member Joan Meyersieck, who was also on OCB and Spurs. Other Spurs were Joan Radermacher and Rosalie Ramljak. Mary Ann Stewart was vice-president of Chimes and on the Uni Camp board, while Ann McDonnell carried the responsibility of YWCA president. The president of Panhellenic was also an Alpha Phi . . . Alice Hall. Scholars June Johnson, Dorothy Wright, and Roberta Kiefer all became Phi Beta Kappas. Socially, the Beer Garden party, given with the Sigma Nu's, and the annual Suppressed Desire dance were huge successes.

AΦ

With hardly a moment left to catch their breaths, the Alpha Xi Deltas sailed merrily through another year. Beginning with a Harvest Moon dinner-dance, the girls followed up with their annual winter informal at the Rodeo Room. The spring semester saw the Alpha Xi's and their dates at the Miramor for the annual Rose Ball. But not all was moonlight and roses; when it came to activities the girls really boomed. AWS Secretary Jean Martin became a Mortar Board. Chimes claimed Ann Dowlin, AWS publicity chairman, and Barbara McKinney, Marlys Thiel, Doris Dolfer and Ja Hart were all Spurs. Members of Shell and Oar were Gale Kobe, Shirley Somerset and Marlys Thiel. Danna Clouston was on the YWCA cabinet and Barbara Stafford acted as ASUCLA orientation chairman. Alpha Xi Ruth Collins became president of Junior Panhellenic and her pledge class won the Panhellenic scholarship trophy. With Sondra Darnell and Nancy Pearson both working on Women's Week, it was no wonder that the Alpha Xi's showed so much spirit . . . they won the theme trophy for their Hi Jinx skit.

A bevy of Chi Omega beauties appeared on the scene to win a large share of the year's beauty titles. President Adele Flynn was senior Homecoming attendant, and June Hollingshead and Freddie Camp were Junior Prom princesses. Freddie was also chosen Theta Chi Dream Girl, while Marilyn Silmon was crowned Delta Queen and named the sweetest coed in a southland contest. The ROTC picked Mory Ellen Nichols to be their Scabbard and Blade Queen and made her an honorary cadet colonel. In campus service the Chi O's also put their best foot forward. Marilyn Carver was a Spur and Carol Hemborg worked hard on Southern Campus as organizations editor. Treasurer of the YWCA was B. J. Atwood, and Bev Perkins served as treasurer of the Business Education Club. Shell and Oar members were Bev Perkins, Jackie Hill and Freddie Camp, and Trolls tapped Marilyn Silmon. The Beverly Wilshire was the scene of the annual spring formal given with the SC chapter. An all day jaunt to Apple Valley proved to be a great climax to a great year with the Chi Omegas and their dates having a great time.

The Chi O's were certainly proud when President ADELE FLYNN was chosen senior Homecoming attendant. After the excitement cleared, Adele continued to carry out her house office very successfully.

Following up their annual Christmas dance, held last season at the Royal Palms Hotel, the Chi Alpha Deltas enjoyed a between semesters snow frolic at Lake Arrowhead in January. There the girls participated in all sorts of winter sports before returning to their studies. Earlier in the year the UCLA chapter joined with its alums for its annual charter day banquet. They also held a benefit tea with the alumnae to raise money for their scholarship fund. An important formal dance which was given at the Park View Manor rounded out Chi Alpha Delta's busy social program. Five of the society's members served on the Nisei Bruin Club cabinet. Some of the girls also appeared in Kabuki, a classical Japanese drama which was produced by John Allyn, a graduate theater arts student.

The Royal Palms Hotel was the scene of the annual Christmas dance given by the Chi Alpha Deltas, who, decked out in their very best formals, danced dreamily at this spectacular winter affair.

Stage Lights was the title of Delta Sigma Theta's 1951 Jabberwock, the Jabberwock being an annual musical extravaganza given to raise money for the sorority's scholarship fund. Proceeds from the Dorothy Maynar concert, which the sorority sponsored, also went to the scholarship fund. This fund supplied four one-year scholarships for outstanding high school graduates. The annual White Christmas formal was a major social event of the year and was held at the Avedon Ballroom. In January the UCLA chapter of Delta Sigma Theta joined with its chapters throughout the nation in celebrating the sorority's thirty-eighth birthday. The Delta Sigma Thetas closed the year by participating in the Greek reunion for the eight Negra fraternities and sororities.

President HARRIETTE FLOWERS was largely responsible for Delta Sigma Theta's very successful year. Senior Harriette combines a physical education major with a special interest in dancing.

Heavenly music characterized the annual Stars and Crescent Ball as Tri Deltas from UCLA and SC danced in the Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. A gay fall dinner-dance in the Mayfair Room and the traditional Pansy Ring Breakfast honoring all senior women were other highlights of the social calendar. Tri Deltas also shone in campus activities, with Toby Hale the star as a member of Cal Club, Student Board, and Trolls. Carol Cregar was elected vice-president of the freshman class, and Jan Schaller captained Shell and Oar, with sisters Norale Magill and Ginger Parker also members. Honorary members were Spur Barbara McAfoos and Ruth Westcott, Troll Eve Liddle, and Chimes Shirley McLennan, Shirley Englund, and Marilyn Lindsay, who was also copy editor for Southern Campus. AWS chairmen were Marilyn Metz, Shirley Englund, and Ginger Backes. Jean Hunt won the Junior Panhellenic scholarship award for her 3.0 average. A Tri Delt beauty was Jon Brown, who reigned as queen of the Junior Prom. Homecoming honors went to the Tri Delt float, which won third prize in the theme division.

Any night of the week the Tri Deltas could be found relaxing after dinner with coffee, cards, and conversation. Soon the girls were up again as dates came, activities called, or homework demanded attention.

With three large-scale dances to add sparkle to their social program, the DG's enjoyed a smooth season. First come the traditional Delt-DG formal, given with the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the California Country Club. Next the Far Away Party, a four-way affair, found the DG's merging with the Theta's, Phi Psi's, and Figi's. Last, but most certainly not least, was the fabulous Anchor Dance, co-sponsored by the SC chapter and appropriately held at the Miramar Hotel. Delta Gamma was adequately represented on campus, too. Carlo Wells was a member of Chimes, while Mary Breithauer, Julie Squier and Ellen Gront were all in Shell and Oor. Junior class minute-taker was Pat Delaney, and Andrea Tannura sparked on freshman council. A future Phi Beta Kappa was seen in Janice Cushing when she became a member of the frosh honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta. Talented Elizabeth Block won a role in Sunshine ta Burn. Title of best known DG certainly went to Dee Daniels; Dee was not only a Spur and a song leader, but also sophomore Homecoming attendant.

A more likeable person than JODIE HOPNER would be hard to find. Her distinguished year of service to the Delta Gamma house as president was preceded by another year in the job of vice-president.

delta gamma

Smooth harmonizing with the Theta Xi's won for the DG's the second place trophy for the mixed group division in the Spring Sing. Their prize-winning song was "Born to Be Loved," an original by Theta Xi Mark Low.

delta zeta

Fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm, the Delta Zetas took first place in the Homecoming theme division with their giant foaming mug. Socially, they floated on down to Davy Jones' Locker for a mad costume party. They also sparkled at the traditional Mistletoe Magic, which was held at the Bel Air Country Club. The big spring event took place at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where the Delta Zetas dined and danced their way into a Moonlight Mood. Hospitality centered around an open house held during elections, a mom and daughter night, and a faculty dinner. Meredith Olson deserved applause for her fine direction of the sorority's smooth social season. DZ Lucy Langdon wielded the slipper for Dance Wing and danced in and choreographed the all-university show, Sunshine to Burn. Babs Slack took minutes for the seniors and also pounded the gavel for Phi Chi Theta. Spur Arliss Chapman headed Bruin Host, and Mary Battleheim steered the All-U open houses. With house president Gwen Thomas as a steady hand, the lamp of Delta Zeta shone brightly on a memorable year.

DZ President GWEN THOMAS leaves a fine record behind her when she graduates. Work on campus led to membership in Spurs, while her term of house president followed a year as the sorority's house manager.

That the party was never really quite over was proved by these DZ's as they gathered at the Bar of Music for some after-the-party fun, and some additional dining, dancing, and conversation.

Hours of hard work were well rewarded, for the Gomma Phi float was one of the most outstanding entries in the Homecoming parade. It depicted the Stanford engine being driven to destruction by Joe Bruin.

When the campus organizations came around to tap for members, they visited Gomma Phi Beta every time. Thus Amy Hart and Mary Anno Muckenhirk became Trolls, and Jo Cate, Joan Condee and Shirley Martin joined those in Shell and Oar. Enthusiastic Gamma Phi's entered into each phase of campus activity. Jeanne Brauer was a Chime and chairman of the Mardi Gras, and Spur Shirley Adair was active in AWS. The girls were proudest of sister Mory Anno Muckenhirk, who served as AWS president. Joy Mustizer, Anne Kimball and Li Warner supplied the house with plenty of talent, winning leading roles in several of the major campus theater productions. The annual get-together of the Gomma Phi's and SAE's proved to be as much fun as ever. The girls also enjoyed a taste of childhood at the Kiddie Party, while a more serious side was turned in the fall to the Crescent Dance and in the spring to the Orchid Ball, held in the Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. At the Spring Sing and throughout the year, the Gamma Phi quintet could be heard harmonizing to the tune of "Get Happy."

Skillfully guiding Kappa Alpha Theta through a busy year was JEAN BAILEY, president of the house. Jean, who was secretary of her class and a Spur during her sophomore year, also served on senior council.

Amid smiles and cheers the Thetas worked hard to tuck in the last bit of crepe paper and to set their float rolling down Westwood Boulevard. A unified spirit proved that the effort was well worth while.

Smoothest social event of the Kappa Alpha Theta year was the Beta-Theta Christmas formal held at the Bel Air Country Club. The newly decorated house and patio were a source of real enjoyment to the Thetas, serving as a setting for their parties and their faculty, father-daughter, and date dinners. Joy Bullard easily walked away with house honors in the Kerckhoff department by being a member of Mortar Board and by ably fulfilling her position as ASUCLA vice-president. Pat Williams and Mary Norman were active Spurs, with Pat serving as group president. Frances Rodgers was the sorority's contribution to Trolls, and Virginia Elkins acted as executive secretary to Panhellenic. Theta beauties were Nancy Webster, who was ROTC honorary colonel, and Marilyn Amendi, sweetheart of Lambda Chi Alpha. Jo Ann Parks was selected as freshman song leader, and served capably on the freshman class council together with sisters Marilyn Amendi, Pat Riley, and Marilyn Ockerman. Under the direction of Helen Craft, the Thetas won second place in the women's division of the Spring Sing.

December was an exciting month for the Kappa Delta house, for during this holiday time came the annual Christmas open house and the Diamond Dagger formal, the latter an annual dance held at the Miramar Hotel. In the spring another yearly event occurred . . . the Kappa Delta White Rose formal, given in 1951 at the Beverly Hills Hotel. In activities, the KD's again shone brightly. Pat Kerr, who was president of Shell and Oar in the fall, gave way to Susie Sanders, who was vice-president during the spring. Other Shell and Oar members were Sue Greenley and Nancy Nee, with Nancy also an ASUCLA song leader. Terry Howard devoted much of her time to her dancing slippers and the art of choreography. Vice-president of the senior class was KD Donna Ball, while president and secretary of the Education Club were Marilyn Hemphill and Shirley Welch. The UCLA chapter was very busy in June when it was one of the hostess chapters for the sorority's bi-annual national convention held in Los Angeles. To top things off, the Kappa Deltas proudly boasted a trophy for their blood bank donations.

President NANETTE SULLIVAN was Scop office manager and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon. A sociology major, Nonette appropriately spent much time socializing, both in Kerckhoff and elsewhere.

With a theme based on the gay western nightlife, the Kappa float was a real eye-catcher. But disaster overtook it during the parade when its truck broke down. Consequently the giant dice rolled in a little slowly.

Kappa ingenuity paid off when the girls were presented with the AMS trophy for the most cleverly decorated house in honor of the SC-UCLA football game. In the course of the year many other events were celebrated with typical enthusiasm. On campus, the girls really starred in activities. Marcia Tucker, engraving editor of Southern Campus, was in top spot as a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary, and also Chimes, Student Board, and Rally Committee. Another honorary member was Chickie Rumwell, who was in Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic honorary, and who was tapped by Shell and Oar. Barbara Taylor and Kathy Dinsmore were also in Shell and Oar. The Kappa's hit the jackpot with their Susies. Sophomore Secretary Susie Armstrong and Susie Peyton were both Spurs, and Susie Ream was AWS treasurer and on the YWCA Residence Council. The initiation formal, held at the Bel Air Country Club, and the annual Kappa-Figi formal, also held at the country club, finished off the year in grand style.

MARY HORN, who guided Phi Mu for the spring semester of 1950 and the following fall semester, was also active in many campus organizations. For her work she was honored with membership in Spurs and Chimes.

Dinner time at the Phi Mu house proved to be an occasion of festivity and entertaining as well as feasting. Sopranos and altos blended their voices in singing sorority and campus songs for a melody mealtime.

The piling up of a series of social events began with the Phi Mu Snowball held in December at the Miramar Hotel. The Beverly Wilshire Hotel was the setting for an occasion which easily rivalled the Snowball . . . a dinner-dance called the Carnation Ball. In April the Phi Mu's went nautical, taking over the chapter house for a Ship Wreck party. Many Phi Mu's actively participated in campus affairs during the year. Top girl was Joyce Sheets, who was president of Chimes and active in the YWCA. Other activity girls were Dorothy Aegeuter, a member of the AWS Associate Board and chairman of the occupation conference; Barbora Chase, who managed the YWCA toy loan drive; and Spur Joan Molloy. Under the leadership of Mary Horn, fall president, and Janet Donker, spring president, Phi Mu had a very successful year. As a national project they maintained a health-mobile which traveled in Georgia. Locally the sisters proudly boasted a gold cup displayed in the chapter house, awarded for the best open house at junior prom time.

When the circus came to town, it always stopped at 972 Hilgard. At that time last fall the Phi Sigma Sigmas virtually turned their house into a big top for the annual Siggy Circus. The Spastic Children's Foundation received the proceeds from this combined social and philanthropic event. Less explosive, but every bit as much fun, was the April formal held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. Phi Sigma Sigma was well represented on campus by Chucky Shane and Caakie Shrieber. Both girls were prominent in International House activities, with Chucky a member of Chimes and Caakie a member of the business administration honorary, Phi Chi Theta. Several of the girls also held offices in Hillel and pretty Ethel Berman stepped into the spotlight as one of the finalists for Homecoming queen. Phi Sigma Sigma did well in intramural sports, too, winning most of the games in each event the girls entered. The sorority's colorful and lucrative balloon booth at the Mardi Gras proved to be very successful, and so was the Hillel vaudeville show, in which the girls won first place for their clever skit.

Pi Phi's aimed their golden arrows of both academic and social activities for an eventful year. In the fall the excitement began with the 1950 Homecoming proceeding smoothly under the smiles of a pretty Pi Phi, Queen Allyn Smith, and two of her attendants, Goyne Hirtensteiner and Louise Coleman. Other Pi Phi's in the campus spotlight were Spurs Sharri Rodecker, Anne Magley, Betsy Roberts, Diane Doggs and Barbara McConn, while Trolls tapped Anne Bunnel and Claire Jackson. Evelyne Miller claimed the singing lead in the university show Sunshine to Burn, and Barbara McCann played the leading role in the theater arts production of Dark of the Moon. Kim Murray was a member of Cal Club, and Joyce Felson served as a mediator for RCB Bruin Board. The mistletoe, holly wreaths and Christmas tree lights added to the yuletide spirit at the Pi Phi-Phi Delt Christmas open house. In May the Pi Phi's and the SAE's again joined for their annual Delta Ball, spending a most enjoyable weekend golfing, riding, swimming and dancing around the beautiful pool at the Ojai Valley Inn.

Pi Beta Phi president, BETH THOMPSON, somehow always managed to find time for campus activities. She heartily participated in the four class councils, the Co-ed Auxiliary, and the Home Economics Club.

Travelling to their annual Sig Delt Sleigh Ride through a winter wonderland, the Sigma Delta Tau's celebrated the Christmas season in appropriate fashion. The traditional formal, which was given in February at the Bel Air Hotel, was another highlight of the social season. Campus relations were furthered also by the many exchanges enjoyed during the year. In the past the house had been noted for its active participation in the YWCA and AWS, and this year was no exception. The SDT's kept up their reputation with Rhoda Zimmerman, who worked with the YWCA along with other sisters. Heading the AWS committee for Women's Week was Mike Grossman, while Troll Cannie Abrams was chairman of the awards committee. Lois Arkush, Judy Isaacs and Marcia Singer were active in Red Cross. Smarty Marcia Singer was also a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, and Lennie Rilander was a past associate editor of the Bruin. Spurs claimed Marilyn Rosenthal and Dottie Menlow. Many of the girls were active in Mardi Gras preparations, and the Sigma Delta Tau booth was an extremely successful event.

With the Terrace Room and the Bel Air Bay Club as settings, the semi-annual Violet Balls were once more the year's biggest occasions for the Sigma Kappas. Hardly less exciting was the all-day Hoakylau, a Hawaiian luau. The year also included a date dinner and a faculty dinner. Among the well-known campus personalities Sigma Kappa numbered Marge Draper, vice-president of YWCA, and Jo Swan, vice-chairman of Welfare Board. Other activity girls were Chime Evelyn Taylor and Spur Des Kalafatis. Janet Brownlee, Marge Draper and Betty Walker were Trolls, while Barbara Roberts, Lais Noack and Betty Walker were in Shell and Oar. For the second year in a row, Sigma Kappa won first place in the AWS doll contest. The girls were equally successful with their Mardi Gras popcorn booth. Football season found forty-three Sigma Kappas rooting at the Cal game, and at Christmas time they spread holiday cheer by doing carolling up and down Hilgard. An eventful year was ended with the traditional Hasta la Vista party, a Sigma Kappa goodbye to graduating seniors in a south-of-the-border manner.

Student Judicial Board, Welfare Board and OCB were only a few of the activities in which JEAN VALENTINO participated. When it came to relaxation, this busy senior chose the simple life and fishing, of all things.

Though active on both Southern Campus and senior council, LOUISE KEINZ also conducted Theta Phi Alpha through a busy year as its fall and spring president. Louise, a senior, majored in bacteriology.

Theta Phi Alpha opened its year's activities in August by awarding Loretta Young the Siena Medal, judging her the most outstanding Catholic woman of the year in the opinion of the sorority. Following this early start in activity, members donned extravagant costumes for a hilarious Halloween party, and later in the year put on their prettiest formals to attend the annual Sapphire Ball. Founders' Day was celebrated in April by a joint dinner with the alumnae. Most Theta Phi's chose Crestline as their vacation haunt during the spring recess. For exceptional activity and scholarship, Junior Panhellenic awarded the Theta Phi Alpha pledge class a gold cup for being the most outstanding class, scholastically, among all the sororities at UCLA.

The Theta U's started out their eventful year with a Halloween costume party given at the chapter house; the entertainment included a scavenger hunt, ducking for apples and a seance at the witching hour. Next on the agenda was a hobo party, and then a swimming party given at the home of an alum. The swimmers in the house presented an aquacade as entertainment with Fran Hussey supplying the comic relief with her aerial antics. Badminton rackets, baseballs and skis set the stage for the Cavalcade of Sports dance which transformed the house into a lodge. To cap things off, the Theta U's took an all-day excursion to Club San Moritz. The annual Winter Wonderland formal and the Iris Ball highlighted the year with dinner and dancing at the Del Mar Beach Club.

Strictly on the formal side was the traditional White Violet formal presented in the fall semester, while a great deal more informal was a little shindig called the Sack Hop given early in the year. In the spring the main social event was the Water Front party, an occasion which sparkled with atmosphere. The Cocoanut Grove was the setting for the initiation dance, and the Roosevelt Hotel served as the scene for a February dance. Directed by Marty Hitchcock and Nancy Carmady as presidents, Zeta Tau Alpha boasted many members who were active on campus. Top girl was Barbara Kimball, who was AWS vice-president. Nancy Carmady was secretary of URA, and Marge Frambach was on the executive board of OCB. Three of the girls were honored with Troll membership; they were Carolyn Daughters, Barbara Kimball and Marge Frambach. Zeta Tau Alphas in Shell and Oar were Delores Christy, Barbara Hughes and Janet Scott. Same concentrated effort plus a large amount of fun paid off when the sorority won first prize in the theme division of the AWS doll contest.

Presents night was an exciting time not only for new pledges but for old members as well, as the occasion brought back pleasant memories of the past and promised much for the future in friendliness and spirit.

Friendly MARTY HITCHCOCK enthusiastically led Zeta Tau Alpha through an active year. Continuing as a graduate student, Marty's major was elementary education with specialization in speech correction.

Keeping a watchful eye on Greek life, IFC saw another year of festivity and activity pass by. At the head of it all were the IFC officers captained by Ray Beindorf. Standing were Delt JOHN CHANDLER, executive secretary, and ZBT BOB PRITIKIN, vice-president.

interfraternity council

"Autumn Leaves" was the romantic title of this year's Interfraternity council dance. The title was appropriate enough, however, for the late-October affair. Fraternity men and their dates turned out in full-force for the dance, this time held at the Riviera Country Club. The proverbial good time was had by all.

UCLA's Interfraternity council was one of the biggest activity boosters on campus. The council, whose members were the fraternity presidents, gave strong support to the RCB Christmas party and the Uni Camp drive. During the spring it concentrated effort on winning action for the proposed basketball pavilion. The big event of the fall was its successful Autumn Leaves dance. At the annual presidents' conference held at the Apple Valley Inn council members had a fine chance to get better acquainted and lay plans for future projects. Through the council's publication, The Fraternity Front, houses were advised of current events of importance in the fraternity world. Guiding the year's activities was President Ray Beindorf. With Jack Phreaner's resignation, Bob Pritikin became vice-president. Gordon Gelfond was treasurer, and John Chandler held the important position of executive secretary.

On the appropriate day in April an uninhibited and motley crew invaded the Acacia house on Hilgard for the annual Fools' Frolic, the legal occasion to turn the world into a jokers' paradise.

Acacia's successful year owed much to BILL LYNN's fine leadership. A junior and a sociology major, busy Bill managed to sandwich a few free hours in his crowded school schedule.

The boys in the house on Hilgard really sparked things along this year. Three big dances furnished three big chances for the fellows to take their best girls out in style. First was the Wintergarden formal, highlight of the fall semester. The spring semester brought the annual Fools' Frolic held on April first. The extravagant costume ball, where a good time was had by all, was followed up by another annual affair . . . the Night on the Nile, Acacia's spring formal. The brothers didn't slight themselves on stag affairs either. During Christmas vacation they gathered at Joe Hook's Big Bear lodge and come spring vacation they could be found at Catalina Island enjoying the sun on Jack Heyler's boat. Another event which made the year even more memorable was the winning of second prize for originality with their novel homecoming float. Participation by forty-seven percent of the house in the Blood-Bank drive brought Acacia another trophy. Members active on campus included Bill Bedworth on Welfare Board; Everett Mann, varsity fencing team; and John Owens, cross country team.

Besides acting as fall president for the Alpha Epsilon Pi house, GORDON GELFORD took care of the Interfraternity treasury. That might explain the new engagement ring his bride-to-be was wearing.

alpha epsilon pi

Major interest of the Alpha Epsilon Pi brothers this year was the formulation of building plans for their spacious new house to be erected on fraternity row. Ground was to be broken during summer and the members would have a new home in the fall. Not ones to put business before pleasure, however, the AEPI's had their usual full social calendar. Red letter days included the Christmas formal, the spring formal at the Bel Air Hotel, and a Gay Nineties ball where derby hats and spots were borrowed from grandfather or the nearest costume company. In April, AEPI's from the western region gathered for a fraternity conclave, with the UCLA chapter acting as host; the several days of parties, meetings, and athletic events were very successful.

Successfully maneuvering AGO activities for the fall semester was the smiling Scatchman ROBERT McFARLANE, who wielded an effective gavel and kept the brothers of Alpha Gamma OMEGA on their toes.

Alpha Gamma Omega, founded to combine the advantages of a social fraternity with the ideals of Christian fellowship, more than fulfilled its goal in 1951. Active participation in church and campus activities kept the AGO's busy, but not too busy for social events such as the annual trip to Catalina, when the house turned out en masse for a lot of fun and beach time. Not forgetting that the main purpose of school was education, the members of AGO placed third in Interfraternity scholarship, and on the athletic side of the ledger, found themselves up near the top in intramural football. All in all, the AGO's were entitled to take a bow for a year which proved beneficial to church, school, and fraternity alike.

The Illinois-Bruin gridiron clash inspired the Alpha Sigs to host an elbow-bending event with their Hilgard friends, the AOPI's. Attendance and spirit were equally high at this open house.

alpha sigma phi

The fourth house from the corner on Landfair was often the site of party time as the Alpha Sigs kept things boozing as usual. The fall semester started with a bang when they held an open house with the AOPi's. This was soon followed by a successful Alpha Sigeasy featuring a "Roaring Twenties" theme and a Communist party which speaks for itself. The smoothest social event was the Black and White formal held for an entire weekend at Del Mar. All Alpha Sig activities, however, weren't confined to the social scene and many of the athletic programs held names such as Don Cogswell on Red Saundar's football team, Bob McGovern on varsity cricket, and Dan Carter a star shot putter for Ducky Droke. Directed in the fall by Bob Segner and in the spring by John Kruse, the Alpha Sigs climaxed the year by again joining with the AOPi's to take the mixed group division of the annual Spring Sing, repeating their coup of the previous season in which they won not only the mixed group division but the sweepstakes as well.

Holding the reins in the fall, President BOB SEGNER steered the Alpha Sigs straight through a boozing semester and on the side managed to persuade a certain KD to accept an engagement ring.

When the strains of "We are the great big hairy chested men" came floating down from the house on Strathmore, everyone in the radius of a mile could tell the ATO's were holding another one of their boozing parties. The first of these was near the beginning of the year when relations were strengthened with their Kappa Sig brothers by holding a dixieland open house which blacked the street with Charlestoning Bruins. The annual Old Heidelberg party was such a hit they almost pledged the zither player; but a little later in the year the brothers donned conventional black and white for the initiation formal at the Roosevelt Hotel. In their athletic contingent the ATO's found Dick Carroll digging his spikes in the baseball diamond, Ed Luke sparkling the diving team, and Garry Smith winning his class number on the fresh waterpolo team. The top ATO's about campus were Fred Westland of the Rally Committee and Jack Fegley, who served as Welfare Board chairman. With these men and a capable group of house officers the ATO's enjoyed another active and versatile year.

Between chauffering for Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul and looking out for his interests at the Alpha Xi Delta house, JACK VOLMER was busy keeping the Alpha Tau Omega wheels in continual motion.

beta sigma tau

Beta Sigma Tau, intercultural social fraternity, prided itself on exemplifying true brotherhood. Pledges enjoyed an equal status with actives and this proved profitable far them scholastically; the pledges were rated first among the fraternities and their older brothers came in third in their group. Several Beta Sigma Taus were active in school affairs; Bob English was Scop editor, Lee Nichols was presidential adviser to Fred Thornley, and Tom McEnroe was chairman of the judicial board. Included among the social functions were a trip to Catalina, group discussions headed by prominent men, and many informal parties. The house enjoyed a successful season due to the untiring efforts of Presidents Lee Nichols and Bob Saunders.

Chi Phi's and their dates started off the fall social season with their well known pre and post game parties which turned their football fun into all day party-time. This same social spirit prevailed throughout the year with their New Year's party, club dinner dance, and an old fashioned barn dance with the SC chapter. Relations with sororities were not neglected by the Chi Phi men either, as is evidenced by the numerous exchanges and serenades over Hilgard way. Activities claimed such shining examples as Ralph Broman of the Bruin; Chuck Mann, a rifle enthusiast; and Dan Eventov and Ed Ingalls, oar pullers for crew. Well represented in both the faculty and student body, the Chi Phi's found themselves an integral part of the UCLA campus.

Beta men abandoned their carving tools long enough to chew into the activity limelight by winning the All-University football championship, tennis crown, and handball trophy. Wooglin's sons were represented in varsity sports by Bruce MacLachlan, football guard; Jerry Evans, Gene Logan, John Matulich, and Dick Thompson on brother Wooden's southern division championship basketball squad; and Ron Livingston, the most valuable player on the frosh five. Don Hangen and Elzy Clark performed on the track while Larry Huebner and Bob Perry brought credit on the tennis courts. Formal traditions were supplied by the annual Beta-Theta and Miami Triad dances. Casual blasts were fermented on Monday afternoons by luau a la Grapes which the brothers claimed was wahunderful. The black badge shone on such campus leaders as Cal Club President Rush Backer, Varsity Show Producer Bob Butler, Phi Phi President Ike Von Dike, Uni-Camp Chairman Dave McCauley, and Southern Campus Business Manager Fred Nelson. While Duke could not be identified by a Beta badge, he was Wooglin's friendliest ambassador.

The Delta Chi's tore themselves away from campus for several unusual parties held at the chapter house, with the list of these headed by the Cave Man Crawl where one million B.C. was brought up to date. Because social activities were the Deke's proudest achievements, this year they boasted a social calendar bulging with parties, dances and more parties, the most extravagant being the all-week-end luau. Roasted pigs, the beach, Hawaiian music, and luau punch all combined to make this the top event of the year. Add to this the many open houses, their winter and spring formals which were enormously successful, and the three-way formal with the Zetas and the Alpha Sigs, and the Dekes had a well rounded social program which was hard to beat. The members of Delta Kappa Epsilon held their own in the intramural baseball this year too, when, with the able assistance of Wood Butler at the mound, they finished in second place in their league.

With Bob Holtzman holding the president's reins, affairs ran smoothly and successfully for Delta Nu throughout the university year. The Candlelight party, which was the fraternity's annual fall dance, was one of the main events of the campus social scene. The informal Sweater Hop gave the brothers and their dates a chance for a really casual good time. However, the most anticipated occasion was the gala New Year's Eve party which was held at Al Trendle's home in Pasadena. During the spring semester the fellows took a trip to Mexico to explore life and landscape south of the border. President Bob was captain of the debate team and Paul Barkin was active in many campus organizations.

Humming along like a well-oiled machine, the UCLA chapter of Delta Sigma Phi started the campus year off with a bang. Through the untiring efforts of three anemic actives, an ambidextrous cacker spaniel, and a bottle of benzedrine, the boys came up with a float which added another momento to their glimmering pile of Homecoming trophies. The training table was filled the year around, for rampaging across Bruin gridirons, and noticeably over the SC goal line, were Donn Maomaw, Jim Thomas, Cliff Livingston, Ready Teddy Narleski, Cappy Smith, and Hal Mitchell. Narleski doubled as fly swatter on the Bruin diamond. Ambling around the trock on his way to MAB meetings was Captain Hugh Mitchell. Dave Lund chairmanned the annual Spring Sing, while Craig Lewis served a semester as president of Gold Key. In their spare time the boys whipped up a jazzy social season, with the traditional Sailor's Ball as a highlight. Furnishing the year's inspiration was that vivacious blond bombshell, Edna Hummel, boy-girl and future ASUCLA vice-president.

From September to June the Delta Tau Delta house fairly burst with activity. Between games the house went all out on two of its most important social activities. First came the Delta Queen formal with the coveted title being won by Chi Omega Marilyn Silman. Then the California Country Club was the scene for the yearly formal giving with the Delta Gammas. Along the more casual line was the Hard Times party, while the splashy social event of the spring was the grand-scale luau with all the appropriate atmosphere. Basketball brought Mike Hibler to the fore on the fresh squad, and freshman Mal Riley, Chuck Carbato, and Jim Noe represented the Deltas on the track squad. Southern gentlemen from the ward Lee were the Kappa Alphas, who were still trying to pass confederate money and thought that Grant was a swear word. Their parties were given in the true traditions of the south, the best known being the Dixie Ball where the magnolias and southern belles lent authentic atmosphere; the KAs from SC jained in this dance and contributed their confederate flag to the decorations. Later came the Secession Ball, where it was made known that the land on which the KA hause stoad was no langer a part of the union. Men who were known about campus were Bill Smith of football fame; Bab Hurst, Aloha Ball chairman; and Tony Jacobs, wha headed the senior queen contest. Future KA plans included a move back an the raw where they could have mare civil wars, only with water hoses.

When the Kappa Sigma brothers were added to a Mark Hopkins Hotel suite for a Cal game weekend, the result was a rausing goad time which carried over into the activities of the whole year. Repeat performances were scheduled for Brighton, Utah, where the Kappa Sigs went skiing between semesters, and at Balboa, where they sunned and funned during spring vacation. A colorful Bowery party and the annual Arabian Nights party also livened up the spring semester. More dignified were the annual spring formal and the fall formal, given with the SC chapter, at which a queen and attendants were chosen. With Bud Murphy leading yells and Paul Cameron and Don Foster playing frosh football, Kappa Sigma was well represented during football season. Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma Roger Karrenbrock served Kappa Sigma as president. For diversion the Lambda Chi's held their Heaven and Hell revelry and their Little Reno party, where would-be gamblers won and lost across the green tables. Getting off to an early start with their pre-school Catalina Day, the Phi Delt brothers returned to the campus raring to go, and that they did in true western spirit at their annual cowboy and Indian party which followed up the much more dignified fall initiation formal. Lots of Christmas cheer was spread at an open house which the Phi Dels co-sponsored with the Pi Phi's. In the spring came the Miami Triad, the spring formal, and the Hogwallow, the latter affair held on the last day of finals and thus a real celebration. All during the year Bruins cheered their teams on to victory under the direction of yell leaders Ronnie Case, Wells Wohlwend, and Doug Upshaw. Plenty of cheer was in order when the Phi Delt quartet was a second-place winner in the Spring Sing. In sports, star cager was Barry Porter. Dick Hansen sparked on the Bruin batting squad, while Tom Faust was on crew. Joe Brainard, Paul Marin, and Dick Blackie triumphed in golf, boxing, and soccer, respectively. Keeping up their excellent record, the knights of the sword and shield placed high in all intramural sports.

In a typical California patio the "Grand Old Fraternity" hosted many exchanges which were long remembered by the lasses on Hilgard for the generous proportions of fun and entertainment provided for their enjoyment.

Dancing with their dates in the romantic setting of Valentina Villa, former home of the great screen idol, Phi Epsilon Pi's waltzed easily into the campus social swing. Truman's Inn was the scene of the semi-annual father-son banquet held in November, where Phi Ep's outstanding southern California alumnus, Murray Franklin, was honored. Other social affairs on the Phi Ep calendar included Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's parties, exchanges, and a theater party. A Hawaiian Islands Party and a "Thank Heaven It's Friday" party were two novel occasions. Intramural athletic activities saw the Phi Ep's field a scrapping football team which ended up in a second place tie behind the league champ. Sportsters saw a Phi Ep bowling contingent place fourth and a handball six take third.

Boss man of the Phi Epsilon Pi house during the last semester was President LEON SILVERMAN who proved that the brothers choose a good man for the job with his capable management and leadership of the fraternity.

The Phi Tau's spent an uproarious year at their beach-site house fulfilling a busy social calendar. Highlight of the fall schedule was the annual Dream Girl formal, held at the Bel-Air Country Club. Film star Mona Freeman, who guested the affair, was selected as the Phi Kappa Tau Dream Girl. All hands turned to build the prize winning Phi Tau homecoming float. In March the beachgoing Phi Tau's gave a tremendous Underseas party. The members and their dates danced at King Neptune's own night club to "the sweetest music this side of Atlantis." Bill MacDonald, prominent in URA activities, sparked the Mardi Gras booth committee as chairman. John Walden, newly elected Phi Tau prexy, and Joe Errico filled important positions in other organizations in their usual capable manner.

Ably assisted in the administration of house affairs by a parrot named Pancho and a collection of stray dogs, the Fiji's had another successful year. Going at a fast pace in sports were cindermen Fred Beck and Bill Wright and Don Stalwick, Bill Stits, Joe Sabol, and David Owen, who were the Phi Gam delegates to Red Sanders' gridiron group. Few houses could match the list of successful parties hosted by the Fiji's, which included the Washington-Jefferson Duo with their Phi Psi neighbors and the infamous Fiji Islander. As far as activities were concerned a fair share of the members were busy in that field with yell leader Danny Gallivan and 1950 Southern Campus Editor Bob Strack heading the list. In intramurals the Fiji men found themselves quite successful in both track and basketball and near the top in the other events. Captaining the Phi Gamma Delta crew in the fall was Fred Beck and his successor at the helm was John Howard. With these capable officers the Fiji's managed to do quite well despite the fact that their reader in Education 147 had graduated.

Fiji men and their dates gave out with a lot of homecoming spirit and their float just gave out, period, about thirty feet from the judges' stand during the Beat Stanford parade down Westwood Boulevard.

From beginning to end this year was marked as an explosive one for the Phi Psi's. It started off with a bang when the actives presented the pledges to the general public at the notorious Phi Psi Presents. This event was quickly followed by the annual Washington-Jefferson Duo, co-sponsored with the Fiji's. A little later in the year came the Pajamerino, for which over five-hundred Bruins turned out. However, evidence that not all of the time consumed was of the party variety was shown by the activities of Bill Eichenloub, sales manager of Southern Campus; Rep-at-Large Pete Kipp; Mike Inmon of Welfare Board; and Jim Rispell, vice-president of the English honorary. Phi Psi names often found on the sports page included Del Nuzum of the bat and ball brigade; Sid Walker, a dependable on the rugby team; and Hugh Wilson, ace hurdler. Others were Pete Stoy, captain of the U.S. waterpolo team, and Taylor Lewis, who threw the discus. Under the supervision of Presidents Hugh Wilson and Taylor Lewis, the new shower room was completed, causing the Phi Psi's to become known as the cleanest group on campus.

Known as "the triple-decker on the corner of Landfair and Strathmore," the Phi Kap house spread its influence campus-wide through a variety of social and rah-rah activities, including the seventeenth annual Hawaiian dance at the Santa Monica Swim Club and the fourth annual Black and Gold formal at the Bel-Air Bay Club. Presidents for the year were Hank Hand and Sumner Mann, who captained the men to victory in the Homecoming float parade with a first place in the "most humorous" division. Wheels were Gold Key member Pete Mann, who worked on Homecoming, Junior Prom, and Southern Campus; soph council constituents Bill Hutchins and Bob Owen, who also served on Rally Committee; Jerry Normonly, who chairmanned the Pavilion Week open house between his rugby games; and Steve Snow, who labored on IFC affairs. George Hildebrand won a university scholarship, as did Bud Usinger, who was also selected for membership in the business honorary, Beta Gamma Sigma. Athletically participating Phi Kaps were Ed Flynn, varsity football; Dale Blank, water polo; and Stoff Carson, frosh tennis.

Ambition and perseverance prevailed the performance of political science major HANK HAND, who somehow managed to divide his time between presiding at house meetings and working towards a February graduation.

Winning the Interfraternity council scholarship trophy and yielding four Phi Beta Kappas, the Phi Sig's saw the academic year through in style. Of equal importance, however, was the social year, which produced two initiation formals as well as the annual spring formal. The fifth annual Thanksgiving Eve dance at the West Side Tennis Club was again an outstanding event. The annual Gold Rush at Mountain Oaks Lodge and many gay house parties completed the booming social program. Mike Meyers and Al Livingston wielded the gavel. Big men on campus were Steve Kaufman, president of the House Managers' Association, and Norm Jacobson, business manager of Scap and president of Alpha Delta Sigma. Other wheels were Al Alvins, editor of Cal Engineer, and Dick Stein, Homecoming special events chairman. Phi Sig's also served on class councils, OCB, IFC, All-U open houses, and Publications Board. Hosts for the western regional conclave, Alpha Beta chapter at UCLA held the fraternity's national achievement cup.

Election campaigns gave the Phi Sigma Deltas a chance to show a lot of the college and fraternity spirit. Their songs and yells really rang the bell on the walk between Kerckhoff Hall and the library.

With a list of parties that was long and diversified the Phi Lambda Phi's had one of the most active social chairmen on the row. A few of the many occasions of the informal variety were the Italian spaghetti feed, the Panhandler's Round-up, and the Skid Row party. On the more sophisticated side were such memorable events as the initiation formals and the graduation formal, which climaxed not only this season but the total four years for the departing seniors. The Pi Lambs were busy over on campus, too, with such wheels as Mel Weissman, OCB man; Win Millet, Southern Campus senior reservations manager; and Jack Brooks, assistant coach for the frosh baseball team. The brothers burned a little midnight oil successfully and came up with a sixth place in Interfraternity scholarship. With a sweet-heart song written by alumni Rogers and Hammerstein, the Pi Lambda Phi's were much in demand on Hilgard for serenades. Other well known graduates of the house were Louise B. Mayer, Ohrbach of the store of the same name, and Stanley Kramer, who spoke at the traditional founder's day banquet.

Fall President CHUCK LANE spent most of his time working on his major, which was marketing, his special interest of photography, and trying to find a good reliable freckle-removing cream.

The Pi Lambda Phi Mardi Gras money getting booth really proved a powerhouse in more than one way, as it testified, strangely enough, that the local Pi Lam crew was composed of the strongest men on campus.

After the SAE's settled in their newly added third floor, the chapter members concentrated on the business before them . . . and it seems as if the business was trying to walk away with most of the honors on campus. The harmonizing SAE's really got into the sing this year by capturing the sweepstakes award, and placing first in the men's and quartet divisions of the annual Spring Sing. The house also had its athletic stars as they banded together to cop second place in intramural competition for the season. Two of the prominent Kerckhoff wheels were Sophomore President Jerry Perenchio and Homecoming Chairman and Gold Keyer Jim Davis. In addition, Joe Popavich and Rick Mannex shone as members of that diverting disorganization, Kelps. To occupy their spare time the SAE's produced such social affairs as the Roman Nights, the Odd Ball, a spring formal, the past martum party, and the annual Delta Ball held in conjunction with the Pi Phi's at the luxurious Ojai Valley Country Club.

Sammies got all dressed up in their best pajamas and towels to present a skit for the Hillel vaudeville show. It was just like back at the haouse except everyone was a little more wide awake.

Winners of the Hillel activity cup and proud possessors of a brand new house on fraternity row were the Sigma Alpha Mu's. Thanks to a very interested fathers' club, plans were under way to make a good thing even better with the addition of a patio designed for California weather and outdoor living. Since the brothers had an ideal party-giving site, they lost no time in filling it with guests at their Annie Get Your Sammie, State Fair, and Call Me Mister get-togethers. In the springtime members and their dates danced at the Miramar Hotel in formal attire. Spring President Bruce Perlstein and Sam Silver, publicity handler for Sunshine to Burn, headed the list of Sammies who were occupied with such activities as orientation and Cal Men. In intramurals, too, the Sigma Alpha Mu's had a good turnout and their success was especially noteworthy in the horsehide league. With these accomplishments and the acquisition of the largest pledge class on the row, the future looked bright for the new Gayley residents.

Cornering the market of sports stars, Sigma Nu lent athletic support to UCLA's basketball quintet with hoopers Jerry Norman and Grover Luchsinger, aided the track and field squad with cindermen Jack Sage and Cy Young, and contributed varsity stalwart Ernie Stockert to the Sonder's gridiron machine. Roaming around the Kerckhoff halls was spirited Roy Morton, who was acting treasurer of the senior class. Lee Wenzel and Dan Dutton represented the Sigma Nu contingent in that unorganized campus organization, the Kelps, while Manuel Gonzales, Sigma Nu president, regularly attended Gold Key and IFC meetings. Socially speaking, the fraternity members made their corner Gayley residence the scene of many afternoon open houses and informal get-togethers. On the more formal side was the traditional White Rose formal held this year at the Bel Air Bay Club, where Sigma Nus and their dates danced the evening away. Splashy occasion for the spring semester was an informal dance which called upon the brothers to make a desert retreat to the Apple Valley country.

JOE HENRIKSEN, fall president, lost a great deal of his hair during his semester term of office, or so the brothers claimed. Between bouts with the hair restorer, he studied business administration and girls.

Returning from such distant points as Alaska and Lincoln Heights, the reunited Sigma Pi brothers returned to IGDAD, there to remain except for an occasional academic interruption. Party-time began with a semi-original night football game party and an original past-centennial, all-California chapter dance. After the Homecoming explosion, Sigma Pi found that their float, on which they had worked so hard for so long, had won first prize for being the most original. In politics, Sigma Pi Fred Tharnley represented the school as ASUCLA president, while Bruce Fleming put his heart into freshman activities and Robbie Brewster chairmanned the freshman dance. In intramurals the brothers won almost every game. All spring Sigma Pi's dipped into the social whirl by going on fishing trips, and by attending the elite senior ditch. As usual, their raucus recollection of frontier days was a success when the costumed frontier party railed around. Vacation was near at the time of the Orchid Ball, at which many pinnings were announced.

After moving to the new Landfair abode, the wearers of the Maltese Cross settled down to their usual round of social events topped by their two annual formals, the Miami Triad and Sweetheart dance, with Theta Gerry Ward as the Sigma Chi Sweetheart of 1951. The Sig's also kept the social ball rolling with open houses, exchanges, and an assortment of casual parties. The house was not without members in the bone and bicaps brigade as was evidenced by lettermen Frank Mandula of the pig-shiners, soccer ace John Rosati, and Elmer Whipple and Ralph Manus, who donned track shoes in the spring. Rounding out the house were activity men Jim Pond of Rally Committee and Bob Jordan, who was kept busy editing the Interfraternity Rush Book.

Psychology major PAT GANTT, fall president of the TKE bays, was not lost from the brothers after graduation because he planned to continue in graduate school. A little learning was a dangerous thing.

"By the old Pacific's rolling waters" really held true for the TKE house which is down by the ocean in Santa Monica. The members did run over to campus for a class or two and to wheel around Kerckhoff. Curt Hammer could be seen strapping on his shin guards for a game of soccer with the varsity team and the whole Teke house combined forces in intramurals. Social time for the Tekes included the Red Carnation Ball at the Dixie Club and the Pink Elephant Ball. Various exchanges and serenades in honor of recently donned pins completed the social calendar for the TKE men. Known among the brothers as "Little Caesar" was BURT HIRSCH, business administration major and president of the Tau Delta Phi house for not one but two terms in a row, an imposing record.

Chi chapter of Tau Delta Phi rolled along under the leadership of officers Burt Hirsch, Dan Bernstein, Larry Rosenblum, Marv Benson, and Sonny Goldschmidt. This capable crew started the house on its social season with the annual Sweetheart dance and finished it off in grand style with the Chase at the Palladium. This last event, the largest college dance given in the west, provided the funds for two scholarships given to deserving students. Aside from the constant round of party-time, the Tau Delta Phi's had plenty of activity hours to their credit with such notables as AMS President George Seelig, Scop man Al Gattschalk, and Homecoming dance Chairman Marty Lipp in the ranks. Many illustrious Tau Delt alums such as Dr. Joseph Kaplan of the physics department and Dore Schary were always willing to give the chapter advice and help. Through a lot of hard work and even more fun, the Tau Delt brothers became as well-known on the UCLA campus as their rainbow-like hot-rod . . . and twice as smooth running.

Man about campus Sam Grossman, head yell leader, topped a list of TEP campus personalities which included Stan Arnald, Chuck Weissstein, discus tasser on the track team; footballers Herb Lane, Ira Pauly, and Allan Raffe; casabaman Art Alper; and Herb Flam, the greatest tennis star in UCLA history, who brought home more trophies than there was mantle space to keep them on. Working together on the athletic field as well as in house activities, the Tau Epsilon Phi's brought back many intramural trophies from the Men's Week banquet. Party time was whenever a bunch of the brothers and their dates got together and the place was wherever they happened to be. Besides these more informal gatherings, the TEPs had their Sweetheart formal at the Beverly Hills Hotel, and a big Hawaiian luau with everything from sarongs to roast pig. Presidential chores for the past year were divided between Eddie Gordon and the previously mentioned Grossman lad. These two men handled the house business well and helped to make Tau Epsilon Phi even better known in campus circles.

The TEP's really proved themselves on the intramural football field to the point that even their hard driving coach, head yell leader SAM GROSSMAN, had to admit they had lots of winning spirit.

Beach boy DANNY FISCHER, a business administration major who got his diploma in June, spent most of his spare time working at Catalina Island, which accounted for his well cultivated tan and peeling nose.

Possessing the only house on fraternity row with a swimming pool, the Theta Delt practically had their own country club, including a volleyball court and patio. Their assets weren't all material, however, as the activity spirit contributed just as much to a successful year. Head Kerckhoff wheel of the Theta Delt house was Gene Bubien, who was busy with junior class affairs, Gold Key, and Kelp Spring Sing productions. Joe Horta excelled in football and Jerry Withers broke the school record for the two mile. Some of the better known parties on the Theta Delt social calendar were the Hobo party, which was open for all the campus, and the Streets of Paris and Virgin Islands soirees. With these and the many exchanges, serenades, and open houses, the Theta Delt had a well rounded year. In charge of the chapter in the fall was Danny Fisher and in the spring John Jennett, both of whom kept the brothers near the top in scholarship, athletics, activities, and all round good times.

Accomplishments on the athletic field and in activities claimed the talents of a majority of the Theta Xi's. Some of the outstanding names on the list included Harry Sherman, who served in the capacity of Rep-at-Large; Dave Nelson, head of arrangements for the Junior Prom; Dick Price, of election board fame; Dean Kirby, varsity football end; and Bobby Work, who consistently broke the tape in the 100 and 220. Clicking in intramurals, the house came in first in its league in both football and basketball and also brought home the Interfraternity tennis trophy. The girls on Hilgard were entertained by the Theta Xi's at such soirees as the annual Post Mortem party, the casual Mississippi Mud where all shoes were checked at the door, the exotic Harem party, and two vastly different and original formal dances. Earl Nett and James Vandervoort divided the year's responsibility and with a capable corps of officers led the brothers in a year of versatility in work and fun.

There was great rejoicing at the Chi Omega house when Freddy Camp received the coveted title of Theta Chi Dream Girl at the annual formal held at the Bel Air Bay Club. The men of Theta Chi hosted other parties of notoriety such as the Circle X western shindig and a French Apache dance. On the cultural side, Theta Chi was one house which did not lack refinement since the name of Paul Beaver, concert pianist, was on their chapter roll book, and strains of Bach and Beethoven could be heard throughout the house. Lots of spirit, sports and social affairs under the guidance of Presidents Hugh Robinson and George White made 1951 a well-rounded year for the Theta Chi men, who wore the crossed swords with pride.

Known as Mr. President at formal meetings and by more informal terms around the house was PAT PERRETT, spring president and top man on the Theta Chi totem pole. Always a very busy man with work or party time.

Athletic-minded Zetes laid claim to many of the men on varsity teams. A few of them were George Morgan, Ed Miller, Breck Stroschein and Johnny Florence, who toted the pigskin around the football field; Don Smith, who set a new record swimming the 100; and Frank Pike, a frosh baseball standout. In intramurals, too, the Zetes deserve mention as they brought home the trophy in both volleyball and handball. A well-rounded house, the Zetes hosted many parties and their location on sorority row proved advantageous. Impressive occasions were the initiation dances while on the casual side were frequent open houses. Fall President Bill Hoag and spring Leader George Morgan kept the Zete machinery running smoothly through another big year.

The residents of the big colorful mansion on Strathmore can boast of several of the better known politicians of Kerckhoff Hall . . . Lou Sackin, senior class president; Roger Colman, Theater Arts board head; Stan Berman, head of Music and Service board and a yell leader; plus a few assorted Yeomen and Gold Key members. The ZBT athletic contingent included Bob Zelinka, Myron Berliner, and Murray Adler on the gridiron and Al Rosenthal working out with the gym team. However, all the Zebe time and energy was not devoted to athletics and activities as was evidenced by the house's high standing on the IFC scholarship listing. Socially speaking the men gathered for many events during the year such as the big open house featuring Lionel Hampton and the New Year's party at which Steve Gibson and his Red Caps furnished the entertainment. One of the remembered events on the calendar was the initiation of Jack Benny as an honorary member—at last report he still had not paid the initiation fee.

dormitory council

Heading Dorm council were officers JEANNINE DAVIS, PAT PETER HARDWICK, and JAN RENIE. Pat, who hailed from Hershey, acted as president and also had AWS and Chimes to her credit. Vice-presidential position went to senior Jeannine, who came from Douglas. Alpha Chi Jon, also from Douglas, was secretary.

Dorm council's interests centered in integrating women's independent living groups into campus activities and in developing inter- and intra- group relations within the dormitories. Big social event of the spring semester took place during April at the YWCA. Lots of fun was had at Dorm Doin's which was given to collect money for the redecoration of the Women's Lounge. Several exchange dinners were also held to give the girls a chance to get better acquainted. With Elizabeth Hartshorn as advisor and Mary Anna Muckenhirk to keep the council in touch with SEC, the council was able to whole-heartedly support the AWS program and other campus activities. Under the leadership of Pat Peter, a successful coordination program was completed.

Well known for his quick wit and imaginative copy material, Campus Hall President FRANK CALDWELL encouraged the furtherance of campus spirit and advocated bigger and better Friday afternoon open houses.

Taking a breather after a hotly contested ping pong game, residents of Campus Hall played on enthusiastic balcony scene as they watched the traffic moving past their modern house on Landfair.

Newest on campus and last on the row, Campus Hall quickly made up for lost time by initiating its now famous TV soirees. The social life was a full one and exchanges took a prominent place on the calendar. There was no lack of enthusiasm in Campus Hall with Sam Zebba, movie producer of a Brazilian legend in color for which he got his master's degree; Charlie Weir, radio ham who sent nightly over station W6HOH; athletes Pat Sheehy, Charles Dickens, Henry Morris, and Henry Negrete; and musicians Noel Casper, Phil Ryan, and Bill Fledderjohann. With the able assistance of his officers, President Frank Caldwell could well take a bow for the success of Campus Hall in 1951 and look forward to 1952 with a smile of optimism.

A graduating senior, Douglass Hall President JEANNINE DAVIS could usually be found doing homework which consisted of draping something or someone in French folds and making weird and wonderful hats.

Dawn the hill at 927 Hilgard, Douglass Hallers enjoyed a well coordinated year of studying and socializing. The call of "fourth for bridge" could be heard as games progressed in spite of kibitzing from the neighborhood Zetes. Proving their lack of superstition, they planned a Halloween treasure hunt, which was soon followed by a Friday the thirteenth Good Luck party. A Christmas dinner party for the under-privileged girls from Uni-Camp and an Easter party rounded out the seasons. Participation in school events was the rule at Douglas, with President Jeannine Davis leading the way to a successful year in basketball, baseball, badminton, the home-coming parade, and the Mardi Gras celebration. Activity girls included Frances Thompson of Southern Campus and freshmen council, B. J. Harvey of OCB, Carol Brooks of freshmen council, Jan Renie and Jeannine Davis of dormitory council, and Gretta Grabbe of Model Josie. Thus the girls at Douglas Hall could look back on a very successful year.

Dancing with their dates through Candy Cane Lane at their annual winter formal, Hershey Hall girls began a year packed with parties, activities, and engagements. When they were not hoboing it at the spring Hard Luck dance, Hershey Hall members were copping honors in intramurals, or rushing in and out of Kerckhoff offices. Wielding the Hershey gavel were Mariane Hagopian, spring president, and Pat Peter, head officer in the fall. Pat was Hershey's nomination for Wonder of the Year, heading Inter-Dorm Council, AWS Big Sister Committee, and leading the group in Spring Sing practice, all this while preparing for her April wedding to Kappa Sig Russ Hardwick. Scholastic honors went to Phi Beta Kappa Marilyn Grace and Maxine Fowler, Alpha Lambda Delta. Also busy in Kerckhoff halls were Spurs Marilyn Arnold and Ernie Easterling. Marilyn also directed the highly successful Dorm Doin's show. The year's activities added more than ever to Hershey's fame for friendliness.

Presiding over the largest women's living group on campus was MARIONE "Tote" HAGOPIAN, president of Hershey Hall, who took over the gavel in the spring from fall president, Pat Peter Hardwick.

Spooks and goblins held sway at Neva Hall's annual Halloween Mosquerade party, with the witching hour providing lots of fun and surprises for everyone. In the true philanthropic spirit, members cancelled their Christmas party and donated the money to Campus Chest, in hopes of making Christmas brighter for others. As always activities played a large part in the lives of Neva Hall residents, with Morilyn McCormick active on OCB and Jody Glanzar treasurer of dorm council. In the spring semester Neva entered a game booth in the Mardi Gras. Several exchanges were on the social calendar, with the smoothest affair of the year, the annual spring formal, held at the house with dancing in the patio the main attraction of the evening.

With a typical southern California patio as a setting, the residents of Rudy Hall's twenty-eight apartments enjoyed many a community dinner and social evening. The year got off to a running start with a Pajomerino at Halloween, when everyone appeared appropriately clad ta dunk for apples, to eat do-nuts, and to drink cider in front of the dorm's fireplace. At Christmas time the girls entertained Uni Camp children and also exchanged gifts among themselves. Exchanges with Y Kories and Campus Hall took prominent positions on the social calendar. Interested in activities were Bvrely Taylor, student government editor for Southern Campus; Connie Silver, Prytanean; Yvetta Tounsend, active on the Masonic Affiliate Club council; and Martha Randles, president of the URA Swim Club.

Junior MARILYN LISTER, president of Rudy Hall, could often be found on the tennis courts or the hockey field participating in her favorite sports; she also spent time on her major, physical therapy.

Famed for their TGIO parties, residents of Stevens House started the fall semester in a big way with a float in the homecoming parade and an open house. In December the girls enjoyed a Christmas party complete with a decorated tree and an exchange of presents. Karen Namson could usually be found in front of a typewriter in KH 212, where she worked as a member of the Daily Bruin staff. # university cooperative housing association

As president of the University Cooperative Housing Association, JERRY BLATT had the job of heading the four houses owned by the association: Robison Hall, Landfair House, Mayfield House, and Santa Monica House.

As one of the largest living groups in the country, the University Cooperative Housing Association offered its two hundred members a well balanced social and scholastic atmosphere. Coop men were active in the Homecoming parade, Mardi Gras, I House festival, Uni Camp drive, and many other campus functions. The numerous social events held were outshone only by the UCHA's third annual alumni dance. Not to forget the more serious moods of college life, the Coop excelled in its sixth year of offering the student body an opportunity to talk over topics of general interest. This was accomplished through its now famous weekly bull sessions. Unique in its conception, the UCHA began with ten wandering students in 1931. Since then the members have multiplied twenty times over. Through elected officers the members owned and ran four houses: Robison Hall, Landfair House, Mayfield House, and Santa Monica House. The organization's aim was better understanding through cooperative living; the twin pines was its symbol, democracy its spirit, and a smile its invitation.

Praying herself a capable president, ESTHER LASA made her warm smile and friendly greeting an integral part of the year at Winslow Arms as she presided over the residents of the individual apartments.

Activities of Winslow Arms last year, under the direction of President Esther Lasa, were varied and profitable to the entire dormitory. The Christmas party highlighted the foll events, while the spring semester brought forth such events as a progressive dinner for the entire house, exchange dinners between apartments, and a beach party, all of these activities being directed toward better cooperation within the living group. The results of these activities were shown by a great turnout for a Kiddie Karnival, given in the dorm to raise money for Uni Camp. An active part was taken in inter-dorm relationships when Winslow's occupants put on a skit for Dorm Doin's. Many contributions were made by group members to the Red Cross, Mardi Gras, and campus life.

Spring semester President DICK GRISSET took time off time off from his political science activities to join fall President MAUNE MEYERS near the latter's habitat, the engineering building.

The spirit of unity and friendliness pervaded the many social and educational activities of the sixty-eight members of the Y-Coop, some of whom came from India, Palestine, and Arabia to join together with students from the United States in an experiment in cooperative living. Traditional social events were the pledge-active exchange banquet, an evening of special entertainment and good food to which many friends were invited; the winter and spring formals; a backwards dance given by the girls, who made corsage creations for the men which would equal any hat seen at the Easter Parade; and guest night, which was a special dinner every two weeks followed by an informal discussion led by specialists in religion, politics, and literature. Maune Meyers, an engineering student from India, set the Coop off to a good start as president for the fall semester. He was followed by Dick Griset, a political science major, who got some good practical knowledge of Roberts' Rules of Order.

The 1951 Southern Campus is more than an annual . . . it is a yearbook recording the enthusiasm, ideas and achievement of individuals . . . it is a composite of people. The book is more than a mechanical thing of engravings, copy and rubber cement; it is a living reproduction of the blending of personality and developing of character. Fred, Jackie and I began the nucleus of the staff four years ago, then Tuck, Marilyn, Claire and Carol joined the ranks. The third year contributed Bill, Maggie, Annie and Eich. A year ago Stan completed a ready staff for the 1951 Southern Campus. To all these people and to the many other steady standbys, thanks for a great year.

Stan, words can't express my appreciation to you for the tremendous job you did as artist and designer, even though it was late in the year before we realized that you were a triple-threat man. We will never forget the illustrated sight-seeing tours to the printer's, discussing the probable future of modern art, or opera, is it here to stay? or the afternoons of Joe Adams, or your perpetual statement, "It's on the drawing board." Thanks, Stan, for giving me the kind of a book that I wanted, though there were times when you were sure that I was a visual illiterate, your work is certainly all-American in my estimation.

Annie, you proved to be my girl Friday when you climbed out of the photo librarian's filing cabinet into the job of managing editor, and your helpful reminders of all the things I should do, but tried to put off were really appreciated. The Friday night dinners and work nights . . . we'll never go back to Webster's.

And Jackie, even though you never made a pub board meeting, you had KH puzzled with the terrific "fake-in" on the pub board pix. The Greek Theater did take you from us during the summer, but you were a tremendous Troll to "associate" with.

Tuck . . . girl scout, mask maker, picture sizer and slicer, and odd jobs doer supreme . . . your talents never ceased to amaze me . . . thanks, gal, for the shell-like ear and the supporting confidence. You diminished many a problem.

Marilyn . . . without hesitation I can say that your crew turned out the best copy I've seen in a long time. Pete, Laura, Jean, Bev, Barb McAfoos, Barb Stoekle, Moran, Dee and Virginio . . . you're the backbone of the staff.

Cam and Jack, you really Maule-d a lot of words, but the Millerisms were all in sport.

Carol, working with Manning was no small job . . . thanks for the extra hours you spent in the office finishing the seniors when Bob was in town . . . and the 5,000 pictures proved not to be too large a task for your excellent staff of Pat, Carolyn, Susie, Karin, Potty, Lou Ann and of course Margaret.

Girl invalid, Margie, just when I thought you would work all summer so I could spend my time at the beach, you came down with the flu, tonsilitis and the chicken pox . . . but then there were those Friday nights and our dinner at Vettes'.

'This is the Southern Campus office calling" answered a masculine voice belonging to none other than Bill Roberts. Even though you were continually on the phone when I wanted to use it, you managed to keep the Troutman boys happy with ample shutter clicking assignments.

Frank Manning . . . congratulations, it was a great year. For the first time in SoCam-Manning history, the editor and F.M. didn't hate each other at the end of the year. However, most of the credit is due to your associates, Dotty, Jack, Evelyn, Bill and Austin.

Every year, Stan T., your photography becomes even better, but this year must have been your peak. Thanks for your understanding and patience and to your crew of Jack, Ray, Dick Walt and Will.

Baldie, thanks for the days you followed Stan and me around to find just the right place to take the pictures for the opening section. How was I to know the sun would set before it came out from behind the clouds?

Every year the staff runs into various problems, but they are soon made small by the understanding advice of Harry E. Morris. In addition to expert yearbook advice, KH 201 also offered the secretary of all kinds of information, Lee, and Susie with the station wagon keys.

Thanks, too, Mr. A., for your keen interest in volume thirty-two.

The Southern Campus office has its own nominee for the least recognized personality of K.H. Without Ray, who patiently excused our poor aim at the waste basket and swept up small pieces of rubber cementy paper, our gold fish never would have survived. Thanks, too, to Buck, Pop and Bob.

Thanks, especially, Mom and Dad. Without your sympathy, understanding and encouragement the worries and disappointments this year might have been great. And Mom, my associate, organizer and odd job doer . . . your talents were remarkable!

Fred . . . your don't worry attitude this year was great. You certainly were the best manager any editor could ask for, thanks, Fred, it was a terrific year. And thanks, too, to your staff of Bill, Sharla, Win, Fran, Kay, Peggy and Bunny.

"Who needs a secretary?" were the welcomed words from office manager Claire, who could always round up a secretarial staff, from the organization letters in October to the index in July. Claire, it was a big job done in a big way, thanks to your staff of Beverly, Marcia, Gloria, Jeanette and Judy.

Well, Tuck, as Cam would say, "I hope the book doesn't Tucker you out," I'll say, it's yours . . . the excitement this fall, the worry next spring, and the final pride of a completed book a year from now. Good luck to you and your fine staff of Bob, John, Peggy, Jean, Maggie, Bill, Annie and Ann.

To me, these people are the Southern Campus. Only through their enthusiasm, loyalty and conscientious work was this thirty-second volume produced. To them I say, thanks, and "30!" . . .

. . . Char

This will, for necessity, be a capsule round-up of what I want to say since at this writing I am sitting in the station wagon on the last trip to the Printer. First and foremost on a long list of people to whom I owe a debt of gratitude is one of the most capable and affable guys I've ever known, Bill Eichenlou. Bill, invariably surrounded by his staff of 10 or 15 of the cutest co-eds on campus, put on a sales campaign that was something to see! Bill's answer to most of my many requests was "I did that two weeks ago!" And he had, too. However, to give credit where credit is also due, we would never have had those Christmas brochures in the mail before Easter if it hadn't been for Bill's mother. Your work was certainly appreciated, Mrs. Eichenlou, thanks.

The guy who encouraged all the "campus talent" to work on the sales staff was our present-day personification of the Pie-eyed Piper, Honk Sunderland. It was hard to get much work out of him but what a great guy to have around.

Sharlo, I'm still not sure you were on my staff except for the outstanding job you did.

Win, I didn't see much of you around, but day after day seniors trudged up five flights of Kerckhoff steps to have their pictures taken, and that takes a great deal of persuasion, and hard work.

And to Peggy, I want to say that it was wonderful having you on the staff this past year. Your ever-ready smile and calming personality in the face of Kerckhoff chaos were valuable assets to the entire staff. Best wishes next year as associate editor.

Fran Thompson, I don't know what the sales campaign would have been without your beautiful displays and show cases to advertise the book but I'm sure it couldn't have been as successful as it was without the tireless work you put in . . . to say nothing of the office decorations and extra-curricular poems scattered about. We could use more like you!

This goes for Kay Jean, too. Always ready to take on another job, Kay turned out poster after poster, without much reward, to sell the book. Thanks, Kay.

Claire's famous last words were "Who wants anything done?" and went ahead to integrate the work of both staffs.

I think everyone on the staff knew that there wouldn't be a yearbook at UCLA if it weren't for Harry Morris. He's the man who turned mountains into mole-hills. Thanks, too, to the secretary who out-secretaried all secretaries, Lee Montleone.

A Purchasing Office occupied by Stan Reel, Jack Kellogg, and Flora helped lighten the load considerably. In an office filled with busy people, they were never too busy to stop and lend a helping hand to a confused business manager.

And speaking of cooperative people, Janis, soon-to-be Flynn, in the ticket office rates on A-plus in my book.

Another close contestant for "Office Orchid" was Susie Porter, who was always full of smiles and ever-ready with the keys to the station wagon.

Ruthie Kesler fitted into this category, too. Although not a member of the staff, she cut many classes during the sales campaign to lend a helping hand or contribute on idea. Thanks for the boot party at the end of the campaign, Ruthie. Something I'm sure everyone on both staffs enjoyed and appreciated.

Marcia and Bob, we're leaving you with a top-notch crew to work with and every confidence in your abilities . . . it's yours now.

Char, it was a pleasure working with you. I'll never know how you did it, with practice-teaching and summer school, but you did. Congratulations! I'm proud to say that I was business manager of your edition. And, if we are as excited the night the book comes out as we were the night you received photo librion and I got book editor, I'll know it was well worth it.

. . . Fred
